Sweep Over Foe's First Line in Lorraine and Reach Second, 600 Yards Back.

GUNS CO-OPERATE FINELY

Germans Flee Before Shells, So Prisoners Are Few—French Aid in Two Operations.

SECRETARY BAKER IN PARIS

Met by Pershing, with Whom He Plans Conferences—Washington Expects Speedy Results.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, March 10, (Associated Press.)—American troops on the Lorraine sector carried out three raids last night and this morning. They swept past the German first line and penetrated to the enemy's second line, 600 yards back.

Two of the raids, made in co-operation with the French, were started simultaneously, one northwest and one northeast of —— (deleted,) after intense artillery preparation, lasting four hours, in which the German positions were leveled.

The two forces, each one of —— (deleted,) with small French forces on their flanks, moved upon the German objectives at midnight behind a creeping barrage, each on a front of 600 yards. When the Americans reached the German first lines the barrage was lifted so as to box in the enemy positions at both points.

The men dropped into the trenches, expecting a hand-to-hand fight, but found that the Germans had fled. Continuing the advance, they went forward 600 yards to the second German line. All the time American machine guns were firing on each flank of the two parties to prevent the enemy from undertaking flanking operations.

One French flanking party found two wounded Germans in a dugout and took them prisoner. The Americans found none.

The Americans remained forty-five minutes in the enemy's lines. They found excellent concrete dugouts, which they blew up, and brought back large quantities of material and valuable papers.

While they were in the German lines the enemy artillery began a vigorous counterbarrage, but it was quickly silenced by American heavy and light artillery, which hurled large quantities of gas shells on the batteries.

An American trench mortar battery, the homes of most of whose men are —— (deleted) participated in the artillery preparation preceding the raid, helping to level the enemy positions. The artillery, both light and heavy, was manned by soldiers mostly from —— (deleted).

Soon after these two raids had been completed, the Americans staged another at a point further along the line to the right. They went over the top after artillery preparation of forty-five minutes, in which the enemy's positions were obliterated for the most part.

At this place the dugouts were found to have been constructed principally of logs. Engineers accompanying the raiding party completed the artillery's work of destruction. The American infantrymen who took part in this raid are from —— (deleted) and the engineers from —— (deleted).

The raids were carried out skillfully, and but for the fact that the Germans fled more prisoners doubtless would have been taken.

The American gas shells are believed to have caused many casualties among the enemy. No Americans are unaccounted for.

A "Bold Raid," Says Paris.

PARIS, March 12.—Today's report of the War Office includes this statement: "American troops in Lorraine carried out a bold raid into the German lines."

CASUALTY LISTS MAY BE ISSUED WEEKLY

European Plan, It Is Held, Might Prove Means of Hiding Information from Enemy.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—In discussions today of the War Department's new policy of announcing names only in the casualty lists from France, it developed that the department officials were considering the adoption of the European custom of publishing casualties weekly or semi-monthly instead of daily.

This plan has been suggested on the ground that it would effectually conceal from the enemy the losses in particular engagements or series of engagements. Even if it is approved by the General Staff, however, final action on the suggestion is likely to await the return of Secretary Baker from Europe.

Lacking instructions to the contrary from President Wilson, the department will probably adhere to its decision to omit dates of deaths, designations of units, and home addresses of men from the daily lists. Major Gen. March, acting Chief of Staff, and his aids agree, it is understood, that General Pershing's judgment must be accepted on questions of this character. As the man on the ground, he is regarded as best fitted to gauge the results at the front.

60 German Airplanes in Night Raid on Paris; Some Driven Back; Many Drop Bombs on City

LONDON, Tuesday, March 12.—German airplanes raided Paris Monday night. The first alarm was given at 9:10 o'clock, when seven squadrons of German airplanes were reported on their way to Paris. Bombs were dropped at 10:15 o'clock.

One of the raiders was brought down in flames and the crew taken prisoner.

The French official statement on the raid says that warning was given at 9:10 o'clock, and that "all clear" was sounded at midnight.

About sixty airplanes crossed the French line. Thanks to the artillery barrage which was maintained throughout the entire raid with great intensity, a certain number of machines were unable to reach their objective.

Nevertheless, the statement adds, numerous bombs were thrown on Paris and the suburbs. Several buildings were demolished or set on fire. The number of victims is not yet known.

Thirteen persons were killed and fifty wounded when German bombing airplanes raided Paris Friday night. Ten or twelve squadrons were reported to have taken part in the raid. One of the raiding machines was destroyed and its crew of four burned to death.

'DRYS' COMBINE ON RATIFICATION

All Alternative Measures Opposed as Obstructive at Senate Hearing in Albany.

"WETS" OUT IN FORCE, TOO

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—"Wets" and "drys" had it out again this afternoon at a public hearing before the Senate Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment. The hearing was held on the Emerson bill for the prohibition of traffic in all intoxicants except wines and 3 per cent. beer, during the war, but the discussion covered practically the entire range of the prohibition measures now before the Legislature.

The liquor interests, aroused over the danger threatening from the present mood of the Legislature, put up a desperate fight, the last before the lawmakers act on ratification of the Federal Prohibition Amendment. In addition, spokesmen for banks and other business interests not directly related to the liquor traffic urged that immediate enactment of prohibition legislation in this State would amount to confiscation and cause upheaval and panic in the business world.

"If you are going to hurry the millennium ahead of the divine intent," said Arthur J. Westermayer, director of the National Investors' Protective League, "you should pay the incidental damages, and pay them in advance. You are more ruthless than the Prussians in Belgium in your treatment of other people's property."

"There should be no talk of compensation from the liquor interests until they have paid for the damage they have done to the public," said William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, in hot retort.

Mr. Anderson and Mrs. Ella A. Boole, State Chairman of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, were the principal speakers for the prohibition cause. Mrs. Boole, referring to what another speaker had said about funds being supplied by German propagandists to defeat prohibition, aroused echoes of the rumors of a slush fund to beat ratification which it is said prominent advocates of that measure have set in circulation at the Capitol.

"The German money referred to by another speaker was raised by the German-American Alliance," said Mrs. Boole.

"Well, we never got a particle of it," said Elon R. Brown, President pro tem of the Senate, raising his voice to an angry pitch, but provoking only laughter. "The Germans are disposed to drink, but they have shown efficiency and an ability to fight, notwithstanding that weakness."

M'GOVERN OUT; TO BACK LENROOT

THINKS BERGER ELIMINATED

Indicted Socialist's Followers Will Flock to Thompson, Former Governor Says.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 11.—Former Governor Francis E. McGovern, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator at the primary election March 19, filed late today with the Secretary of State notice of his withdrawal from the race and placed himself in the service of Congressman Irvine L. Lenroot, also a candidate for the nomination.

Mr. McGovern in a statement said his action was based on the indictment of Victor L. Berger, Socialist candidate, which "practically removes Berger from the list of candidates." Berger's followers, McGovern declared, were certain to go in a body to the support of James Thompson, the La Follette candidate, and make sure his nomination on the Republican ticket "should both Lenroot and I remain in the field to divide the patriotic vote of the party." The statement concludes:

"In the public interest, therefore, and so my party may not be disgraced and discredited for years to come, as now seems inevitable unless the choice of Republicans is narrowed down to one candidate on each side of the great, vital, and transcendent issue of loyal and patriotic Americanism, I now retire in Mr. Lenroot's favor and place my services at his disposal."

Berger, who was indicted in Chicago under the Espionage act, stated tonight that he had made all arrangements to furnish bond of $15,000, but so far no formal action had been instituted by Government officials. He said the indictment would in no way influence his campaign for United States Senator.

CHICAGO, March 11.—Bonds totaling $60,000, or $15,000 each, were filed with Federal Judge Landis late today by Seymour Stedman, attorney for J. Louis Engdahl, Irwin St. John Tucker, Adolphe Berger, and William F. Kruse, four Chicago Socialists, indicted on charges of violating the Espionage act. Bonds for Victor L. Berger, editor of The Milwaukee Leader, the fifth man indicted, were to have been arranged in Milwaukee, where he lives.

TWO NAVAL AIRMEN KILLED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Two additional fatalities in the American naval air service in France were announced today after the Navy Department had been notified of the deaths of Andrew Donnie Skaggs and Lee Shott Harvie as the result of an airplane accident while in the naval service in France.

T. Hitchcock, Jr., Lafayette Flier, Missing; Wallace Winter Killed in an Air Fight

Reports received here yesterday that Wallace Winter of the Lafayette Escadrille had been killed in an air fight, and that Corporal Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., was missing, aroused much regret among friends of the two boys and of their organization. Hitchcock was particularly well known, as only a month ago he received the French War Cross with two palms, as well as a money prize from the Lafayette Escadrille Committee and a special leave in Paris, as a reward for his bringing down two German airplanes in the same day. He had another to his credit before that.

Corporal Hitchcock is a son of Major Thomas Hitchcock of Westbury, L. I., well known as a horseman and polo player, and now in the Aviation Service himself. His mother was Miss Louise Eustis. When America came into the war he was a student at St. Paul's School at Concord, N. H., and, being only a little more than 17 years old, was ineligible for the American air service. Consequently he went to France last June and was admitted to the French service.

On Jan. 6 he brought down a German machine at a height of 20,000 feet, and on Feb. 13 he followed up this victory by attacking two German machines in succession. The first machine fell after the pilot had been killed; the second was forced down into an airdrome, and Corporal Hitchcock, following close upon it, killed both pilot and observer before they could leave the machine.

Wallace Winter was a son of Wallace C. Winter of Chicago and 375 Park Avenue, New York. He was a student at the Sheffield Scientific School in the class of 1918, and was a well-known football and golf player. He belonged to the Ontwentsia and Lake Forest Clubs. When America declared war he was a member of the Naval Reserve at Southampton, and though he wanted to join the Lafayette Escadrille and had an application indorsed by Thomas Cochran, H. M. Farnum, and Lieutenant Raymond Noyes, who was one of the first American military aviators to go to France, he did not wish to leave the Naval Reserve unless he were sure of getting into the flying service. Five days' leave was required to give him a chance to pass the entrance tests, and he won this himself by personal appeal to Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard and chief of the naval district which included the Southampton station. Admiral Usher gave him leave to try the tests, and, after his passage, recommended him for honorable discharge so that he might enroll in the Lafayette Escadrille.

AIKEN, S. C., March 11.—Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., of Aiken and Westbury, L. I., who enlisted in the French Aviation Service last June, has been captured by a German airman, according to unconfirmed information received here by the young man's father, Major Thomas Hitchcock. Major Hitchcock did not reveal the source of his information.

VOTE TO ROOT OUT FINANCIAL POWER OF GERMANY HERE

Senators Are Unanimous for Drastic Program in Seizure and Sale of Investments.

MAY NEVER BE RETURNED

Treaty of 1799 Is Held to be No Bar to the Action Now Contemplated.

SALE OF PIERS AUTHORIZED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—German financial influence in American affairs received a heavy blow in the Senate today when the amendment to the Urgent Deficiency bill, advocated by A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian, giving authority to seize and dispose of all German owned or controlled property in the United States, was adopted by a vote of 64 to 0. Just before that the Senate unanimously adopted without debate the amendment to the Trading with the Enemy act giving the President authority to take over and sell the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd piers at Hoboken.

The passage of these two amendments—particularly that broadly affecting all German-owned property—was interpreted by Senators, in a two hours' debate, as aimed at exterminating every vestige of Prussian influence in American industrial life during the war. In its sweeping scope the amendment to the Urgent Deficiency bill was explained as giving power to the President to take over and sell all property in America that enables Germany to maintain an industrial foothold here. This German influence, it was pointed out, is directly wielded from Berlin through the widespread Junker interests in this country.

The Senate, before passing the amendment to the Urgent Deficiency bill, adopted a proviso put in by Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey that all sales of German property by the Government be made by public auction. This Senator Frelinghuysen advocated as a means of protecting minority stockholders in corporations whose plants might be taken over.

Affects a Billion Valuation.

Under the Senate action, if upheld by the House, the Alien Property Custodian would be empowered to seize all German-owned factories and other properties throughout the country, running considerably over $1,000,000,000 in value. These embrace munitions plants, factories in which clothing equipment for the United States forces is being made, breweries, and a great number of other industries. All of these, the amendment contemplates, could either be operated by the Government, through agents, or sold outright.

In the debate Senators Martin of Virginia, Underwood of Alabama, Poindexter of Washington, and others on both sides of the Chamber vehemently urged immediate action to enable the Government to wipe out Germanism from American commercial and industrial life. Senators Knox of Pennsylvania and Dillingham of Vermont raised the question of the right of the Government, under the treaty with Prussia of 1799, to seize the property of Germans. They merely wanted to make sure, they said, that no existing treaty was violated.

Senator Underwood, in reply, made the point that Germany had violated the treaty of 1799 by firing upon merchantmen flying the American flag. Germany's policy, he said, had been to seize all the property it could, regardless of international treaty obligations, and he urged that the United States was not in any sense bound by treaty in handling German property in this country.

"I'd rather fire one shot at the Junker clique in Berlin than a round of ammunition on the front that our American soldiers have taken over," said the Alabama Senator. "Let us down this Kaiser-governed Junker régime in Berlin and we'll deliver a staggering blow to Prussianism."

In offering the amendment to the Urgent Deficiency bill Senator Martin, as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, told of Mr. Palmer advocating that legislation as necessary to put an end to German influence in American industries.

Wants Right to Sell Plants.

Senator Dillingham wanted to know how this amendment differed from the existing law under which the Alien Property Custodian has been taking over German property within the last few months.

"Under the present law the Custodian of Alien Enemy Property takes such property into his custody, but he has no right to sell it," replied Senator Martin. "The Custodian, appearing before the Senate committee, stated that he was conducting a great business in our country and in our island possessions with German property that he had taken over. He thought he ought not to be conducting this large business for the profit, possibly, of our enemies of the German Empire."

The Virginia Senator enumerated some of the industries which, he said, Mr. Palmer had alluded to as being owned or controlled by Germans in this country. Among them, besides munitions and clothing factories, were a huge chocolate factory in Connecticut,

WILSON PLEDGES OUR AID TO RUSSIA; EXPRESSES SYMPATHY, AND HOPES SHE MAY BE FREED OF GERMAN POWER

CHINA TO ACT WITH JAPAN

WILL SEEK AMERICAN LOAN

Two Army Divisions Going to Northern Manchuria to Safeguard Allied Interests.

CHINA ALREADY HAS ACTED

Her Troops Drove Bolsheviki from Harbin—Has Common Treaty Interests with Japan.

PEKING, March 11, (Associated Press.)—China, in response to an inquiry from Tokio, has signified her intention to co-operate with Japan in the protection of allied interests in the Far East.

The Chinese War Bureau has been requested to arrange for the sending of two divisions to Northern Manchuria. Japan will bear the expense pending the completion of a proposed American loan to China.

Even before the presence of ex-Premier Prince G. E. Lvoff was announced in Peking it was believed that he was somewhere in the Far East manoeuvring to out-general the Bolsheviki—if not to create a counter-revolution in Siberia, then, at least, to facilitate the protection of the American and Japanese supplies stored at Vladivostok, Harbin, and other places as far west as Irkutsk, where they had been left by the pro-German Minister of Transportation in the Fall of 1916. It was natural, too, that Lvoff should seek Chinese aid, for the Trans-Siberian Railway on its way westward to Irkutsk runs for 1,000 miles through Manchurian territory, which is Chinese. Moreover, since Aug. 14, 1917, China has been at war with Germany, and the embassies of the Allies have been the guiding influence at Peking.

Thus, as early as Jan. 26 officials at Harbin, Manchuria, closed the Trans-Siberian, and early in February Japan, as the first installment of arms promised Peking, shipped to Northern China a consignment of 648 machine guns, 324 field pieces, 50,000 rifles, and 5,000,000 rounds of ammunition. In early February, too, several hundred Chinese engineers went north into Manchuria.

Early in the present month came the news that the Bolsheviki were arming German and Austrian ex-prisoners along the Trans-Siberian Railway, between Irkutsk and the Manchurian frontier, and that for this reason Peking had found it necessary to increase the Manchurian garrisons. On the railway west of Irkutsk, General Semenoff, with his Cossacks, assembled in order to prevent the movement of the armed prisoners westward. Finally, on March 5, the Peking Government decided to send 20,000 Manchuli into Siberia itself to cooperate with Japan if the latter should deem it necessary to invade the country.

Meanwhile the first blood had been shed between the Bolsheviki and the Chinese. When the Chinese commander at Harbin closed the railway on Jan. 23 he was opposed by the Bolshevist Commissioner of Transportation and shot him.

The Bolshevist Government, like the Russian Imperial Government before it, claims the right of way over the Trans-Siberian in Manchuria on account of the treaty of Portsmouth of 1905; but by a subsequent treaty four months later China recognized Japan's right over the southern branches of the Trans-Siberian, and in 1912 a joint Japanese and Chinese enterprise began to extend these branches. It was Russia's penetration of Manchuria which was one of the chief causes of the Russo-Japanese war.

Aside from the Trans-Siberian and Manchurian railways the only way of communication between Irkutsk and Vladivostok is the Amoor River, which bounds Manchuria on the north. But this is not navigable until May.

Thus Manchuria, a dependency of China, of 363,610 square miles area and a population of 20,000,000, in which both Russia and Japan have certain commercial rights, but whose military administration is in the hands of the Chinese, forms a wedge between Southern Siberia and the Pacific Coast, penetrating as far north as the Amoor River, beyond which there are no lines of transportation.

Text of President Wilson's Message of Sympathy to All-Russian Congress of Soviets at Moscow

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Following is the text of the message addressed to the people of Russia through the All-Russian Congress of Soviets which meets in Moscow tomorrow to indorse or reject the treaty made with the Central Powers by the Russian delegates to the recent peace conference at Brest-Litovsk:

May I not take advantage of the meeting of the Congress of the Soviets to express the sincere sympathy which the people of the United States feel for the Russian people at this moment when the German power has been thrust in to interrupt and turn back the whole struggle for freedom and substitute the wishes of Germany for the purpose of the people of Russia?

Although the Government of the United States is, unhappily, not now in a position to render the direct and effective aid it would wish to render, I beg to assure the people of Russia through the congress that it will avail itself of every opportunity to secure for Russia once more complete sovereignty and independence in her own affairs and full restoration to her great role in the life of Europe and the modern world.

The whole heart of the people of the United States is with the people of Russia in the attempt to free themselves forever from autocratic government and become the masters of their own life.

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

LENINE DISMISSED TROTZKY

His Elimination Said to Have Followed Quarrel Over Treaty—Radek Denounces Terms.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, March 9, (Delayed.)—A sensational dispatch has been received at the Smolny Institute from Irkutsk stating that Prince Lvoff, ex-President of the Council of Ministers of the Revolutionary Government, is in Peking, where he has constituted a new Russian Government and is awaiting the landing of a Japanese army at Vladivostok. This force, it is said, he will accompany in its invasion of Siberian territory.

Telegraphic communication between Vladivostok and Irkutsk is interrupted. Every effort is being made by the Government to arouse Siberia to resist the threatened invasion. The Bolshevist organ Pravda attaches great importance to the news, saying it means war with Japan, but Izvestia and other newspapers treat the dispatch as an ordinary item of news. In an editorial the Pravda says:

"The peace treaty between Rumania and the Central Powers stipulates that Rumania shall lend her assistance to transporting Teutonic troops to Odessa. Russia's former allies, it appears, have similar plans, and are agreed apparently on Japanese intervention—all except America, which is trying to modify the allies' policy of vengeance."

On some sectors of the northern front hostilities still continue, I hear.

The Bolshevist convention has adopted by thirty votes to twelve a resolution in favor of ratifying the treaty with the Central Powers. Trotzky, whose resignation as Minister of Foreign Affairs is confirmed by the Bolshevist organ the Communist, edited by Radek, will, it is understood, retain office until the meeting of the Moscow Congress of Soviets fixed for the 12th inst.

The Bolshevist party convention opened here Wednesday, but few delegates attended, owing to the disorganization of railway traffic. Lenine on the following day made an important speech stating that the Russian revolution had to collide with German Imperialism. It was useless, he said, to flourish a cardboard sword before Hindenburg, and without a respite Russia could not provide a new army. He would therefore sign any treaty which would enable them to prepare for a new struggle, and in this connection the reorganization of the railroads and reorganization of food supplies would be essential. A provisional peace now would facilitate the evacuation of Petrograd and save war material indispensable to the future struggle.

Arguments on the other side are set forth in Radek's article in the Communist, under the heading, "No Ratification of the Peace Treaty." Radek at the outset refers to the harsh economic conditions which have been forced by the Germans upon Russia and to the concessions made to the Ukrainian Rada for the sake of arriving at a perfidious peace with that authority.

WIDE SCANDALS DISCLOSED

Daimler Company Makes $2,500 on a Single Motor, Sub-Committee Reports.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, March 11.—The reputation of Germany as a land of enviable organization receives many sharp knocks these days. Numerous cases of shameless profiteering are being tried throughout the country, and in the main committee of the Reichstag on Friday a scandal of vast proportions involving the famous Daimler Motor Company, which has just been placed under military supervision, was discussed and exposed.

Not long ago a Parliamentary subcommittee was appointed to inquire into the forcing up of prices, particularly in the automobile industry. Herr Lejsching, in presenting the report of the committee of inquiry to the main committee, unveiled the colossal profiteering of the Daimler Company. He said that a motor car which cost £250 in America cost £600 in Germany. At the head of this profiteering stood the Daimler Company.

He alleged that a Director had caused the books to be falsified in order to deceive the commission of inquiry. Higher wages, for instance, were said to have been paid than was actually the case.

The company now demanded a 50 per cent. rise in prices and threatened to stop night work were the increase not agreed to by the Government. That, said the speaker, was a strike threat.

Big Firms Conceal Profits.

Many big firms, he went on, refused to show their books to the Government officials.

In the sale of its particular motors, the speaker declared, the company had a monopoly, and for a motor which cost £250 to make it charged now £750 and threatened a strike if it did not obtain 50 per cent. more. Therefore it was urgently necessary for the Government to inquire closely into the whole war industry, "for this is not an isolated case."

Herr Noske, Socialist, said that among the firms refusing to show their books to the Government officials were the Krupps and the General Electricity Company. All they had done was to give incorrect information regarding the cost of production. He held that the Daimler Company's threat to cease night work and thereby reduce the number of motors of which the country had need was something like treason. Military authorities showed no such patience with workers as that which had been exercised in the case of this company.

It was absurd, he added, to believe that this was the sole case, for countless firms were taking the same unscrupulous advantage of the situation and the country was being robbed of milliards of marks.

The discussion was adjourned.

The Daimler Motor Company was founded in 1800 and has its main fac-

MESSAGE TO SOVIET CONGRESS

HELP JUST NOW IMPOSSIBLE

But President Will Lose No Chance to Promote Aim of Complete Independence.

COUNTER-BLOW AT ENEMY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—President Wilson took steps today to counteract any feeling that might have been aroused in Russia against the Allies. He sent a cable message to the people of Russia through the Soviet Congress, which meets in Moscow tomorrow, expressing the sympathy of the American people toward the Russian people over the manner of their treatment by the invading Germans. While regretting the inability of the United States Government to render direct aid at this time, the President gave assurance to the Russian people that it "will avail itself of every opportunity to secure for Russia once more complete sovereignty and independence in her own affairs and full restoration to her great rôle in the life of Europe and the modern world."

Through this cordial message President Wilson serves notice to the whole world that he still regards Russia as a party to the war against Germany and a co-belligerent of the United States and the other nations engaged in the effort to put an end to German autocratic methods. At the same time he brings to the minds of the Russian people that the allied purpose is remote from any desire to make a conquest of Russian territory.

Although no interpretation of the President's reasons for sending this message is offered in any authoritative quarter, it is obvious that it was the outcome, in part, at least, of a desire to counteract as far as possible the attempt to make it appear that the Japanese proposal to place armed forces in Siberia meant dismemberment of Russian territory at the hands of Japan. The representations made in response to Japan's invitation for a statement of the American view showed that the President was fearful that the presence of Japanese soldiers on Russian soil would lead to anti-Ally feeling among the Russian people. There has been evidence that the attempt to arouse this feeling is being made. Officials in Washington do not doubt that German agents in Russia will spread the report that Japan contemplates seizing Siberian territory and retaining it permanently.

President's Consistent Policy.

From the very beginning of the Russian collapse President Wilson has been insistent that it should be kept plainly before the Russian people that the United States Government was in sympathy with their democratic aims, and did not intend to permit the condition of chaos in which the country found itself to sway the firm friendship of America for Russia. He has voiced this policy before Congress, and to an extent consistent with the circumstances has emphasized it in the American communication to Japan concerning the suggestion of Japanese intervention in Siberia. He has taken occasion to show his lack of sympathy with the declaration of Mr. Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, indicating that Great Britain expected nothing more from Russia. In these and other ways the President has made it manifest that the United States still has faith in the ability of Russia to "come back."

Today's message is the most pronounced example of the President's attitude toward demoralized and shattered Russia. In a measure it is a more important declaration than the "conversational" note to Japan in response to the invitation for a statement of American views as to the suggestion that Japanese troops should take possession of Eastern Siberia, for it is a public declaration delivered at a time when Russia is agitated over Japan's contemplated action.

It is quite evident to observers that the President wishes to keep before the world in the strongest possible light that he holds consistently to his view that nothing should be done by the allied powers that would seem to be at variance with the purposes of the Russian revolutionaries to gain complete freedom for themselves and recognition of their right of self-determination within the limits of what was once the Russian Empire.

His message to the Congress of the Soviets calls to mind that the danger in Russia results from the German invasion, which suggests that the people of Russia should concentrate their energies against the Teutonic conquerors and not against the Japanese. The President also promises that the United States Government will stand by the Russian people with the purpose of obtaining for them again "complete sovereignty and independence" and restoration of their standing as a first-class power.

This appears to mean that the United States, as a co-belligerent of Japan, will use its influence, should the necessity arise, to bring about the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Russian territory, and take every other necessary step to preserve the administrative and territorial integrity of Russia.

The President's message to the Congress of the Soviets is in line with his policy of holding before the peoples of the perturbed countries of Europe, including Germany and Austria-Hungary, that the main aim of the United States in the war is to produce a condition which will insure all peoples such a measure of participation in their own government that the autocratic military power which was able to throw the whole world into a bloody conflict will be unable to do its will without popular approval.

Following the practice adopted with the entrance of the United States in the war, it is expected that efforts will be made to have the President's message circulated in Germany and Austria-Hungary, so that the peoples of those countries will be reminded that the United States has not swerved from its declared sympathy with the democratic ideals that are shared by many liberals of enemy allegiance.

The message appears to put an end to speculation as to whether the President would revise his policy of disapproval toward suggestions that Japanese troops be sent to occupy parts of Siberia. There have been signs that the statements of Lord Robert Cecil, defending British indorsement of Japan's proposal, have made interested persons here see the situation in a light more favorable to Japanese intervention, but the President's words of sympathy to the Russian people indicate that his attitude has not changed.

NO GUARANTEE ASKED.

Washington Denial That America Made Demands on Japan.

OSAKA, Japan, March 8, (Delayed.)—According to a dispatch to the Mainichi of this city from Washington the United States is demanding a guarantee for the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Siberia immediately the Russian crisis is over.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—It was authoritatively stated here today by officials in close touch with the situation that no such demand as referred to in the foregoing dispatch has been made on Japan by the United States, and that such a demand would be considered as impugning Japan's good faith which the United States already had recognized.

It also was stated that if Japanese troops enter Siberia the question of their withdrawal is expected to go before the peace conference.

WANT TREATY EXPLAINED.

Reichstag Parties Demand to Know Status of Ceded Territory.

AMSTERDAM, March 11.—The Weser Zeitung of Bremen says the majority parties of the Reichstag intend to insist upon complete clearness regarding the status of the former Russian border States before ratification of the peace treaty with Russia.

FIGHTING IN FINLAND CONTINUES UNABATED

Russians Continue to Throw Reinforcements Into Struggle Against White Guard.

STOCKHOLM, March 10.—Heavy fighting is continuing in Finland between the Finnish White Guard and the Russian Red Guard troops, according to an official statement issued on Saturday from the headquarters of the White Guard at Vasa.

Violent encounters are reported on the Satakunta and Savalake fronts. Sanguinary fighting is proceeding by day and by night, without interruption, at Ahvola, in Karelia.

The statement announces that the Russians, despite enormous losses in the Ahvola fighting, keep continually throwing fresh forces into the fray.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Santori Nuorteva, signing himself representative of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the People's Republic of Finland, issued a statement here tonight declaring that unless the reactionary Government succeeded in subjecting the country to German autocracy there was no chance of depriving the workers' organizations of control of the country.

"Even then," he added, "the workers' organizations of Finland are determined to render the most desperate resistance to the establishment of German autocracy in Finland."

TURKS FLEE UP EUPHRATES.

Garrison of Hit Now at Khan-Baghdadi, 22 Miles Upstream.

LONDON, March 11.—There has been a further retirement by the Turks in Mesopotamia, it was officially announced today. The Turkish garrison, which on Saturday evacuated Hit, on the Euphrates, before the British advance and fell back seven miles upstream, has continued its rearward movement and now occupies Khan-Baghdadi, on the Euphrates, twenty-two miles above Hit. British airmen inflicted severe casualties upon the Turks as they retreated.

During the retreat the Turks were attacked by our airplanes with bombs and machine-gun fire at heights from 2,500 feet to under 100 feet. Heavy casualties were inflicted.

REDMOND'S SON A CANDIDATE

Captain William Seeks to Succeed His Father in Parliament.

LONDON, March 11.—Captain William Redmond has become a candidate for the Parliamentary seat for Waterford made vacant by the death of his father, John Redmond, the Nationalist leader. He is opposed by Dr. White, Sinn Feiner.

New Austrian War Credit.

AMSTERDAM, March 11.—The Upper House of the Austrian Reichsrat, a Vienna dispatch says, has adopted a provisional war credit of 6,000,000,000 kronen ($1,200,000,000) for the next four months. In the course of the debate on the bill Dr. von Seydler, the Premier, emphasized the necessity for reforms in the Austrian Constitution.

GERMANS BUNGLED HOUTHULST ATTACKS

MADE AN OBSTINATE FIGHT

But Were Speedily Driven Out by Counterattacks and Suffered Heavily.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, March 10.—Up to this evening no further attacks by the enemy had followed the futile attempts to capture and hold the British positions south of Houthulst Forest and on Polderhoek Ridge, for which his troops fought very fiercely on Friday and all through Saturday night by Polderhoek.

It would be curious to know what their battalion and divisional commanders think of the operations at this moment when they write of these actions, which now have died out into artillery retaliation and harassing fire and when the British have re-established their lines completely in both places after gallant fighting. The result for the Germans has been complete failure to hold a yard of ground, severe losses in dead and wounded, and a revelation of incompetent command.

Both attacks seem to have been botched by the commanders, who ordered their men forward into deathtraps. We now know that it was planned to make attacks on the morning of Feb. 28 at Houthulst Forest and at Polderhoek, and both operations were probably schemed out on a bigger scale than actually was launched. They were frustrated on that date by formidable barrages which the British guns laid down, making the assembly of German troops impossible and keeping their front and support lines under violent fire. The enemy's artillery replied heavily and used gas shells in order to silence the British batteries, but without the desired effect.

As far as the Polderhoek attack was concerned, it seems that the German officers in that sector got an impression that their plans had been revealed to the British. They paraded their men and told them the attack had been postponed owing to information having reached the British from deserters. It was not very cheering news for men about to come into the open, and they must have started with a moral handicap.

Nevertheless, they came forward in an assault southwest of Houthulst Forest on Friday morning at 4 o'clock with an obstinate determination to seize the salient which the British held there. Their infantry movement was preceded by a very violent gunfire over the British outposts and front-line system of trenches, which were lightly held, but in spite of this pounding of the ground the British machine guns caught their advancing wave and broke it.

On the right the assault was checked, but on the left German storm troops, armed with flammenwerfer, which made a line of fire in front of them, debouched from the forest and succeeded in piercing the outpost positions. The party which established itself here numbered about 300 and brought up machine guns and large supplies of bombs in order to resist the counterattacks which they knew would follow quickly.

Went Beyond German Outposts.

The English troops who made the first attempt to dislodge the intruders were reinforced later by the King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, the "koylies," as they are called, who made a separate counterattack. With irresistible spirit they advanced upon the enemy, cheering and shouting. The Germans, who had shown considerable courage until then, seemed to lose their nerve and ran back part of the way without waiting for the Yorkshire men to reach them. The koylies followed them, steadily and quickly, in spite of machine gun and rifle fire and the enemy's barrage, and drove them back further. They did not halt until they had restored the British line and got beyond the original German outposts.

Meanwhile, on this same morning down at Polderhoek there was no infantry movement and only a heavy harassing fire from the German guns along the Ypres-Menin road and the neighboring battlefield. It was not until 6 o'clock in the evening that German troops of the 18th Reserve Division were sent forward on a narrow front in order to seize the nose-shaped spur of Polderhoek Ridge. The preceding barrage fire was extremely heavy, smashing up the ground and girdling the ridge with shell splinters. Under cover of this the German storm troops obtained a lodging in a trench on the northern edge of the ridge, where they maintained their position through the evening and part of the night with bombs and machine guns.

It was the Royal Fusiliers who made the first counterattacks against them, and there was some fierce bomb fighting at close quarters in which the Fusiliers behaved with gallantry. Trench mortars were brought into action by the British troops, and they must have caused many casualties in the enemy's position.

The King's Royal Rifles made the final counterattack, which drove the enemy out before dawn yesterday morning. They advanced with determined courage and the enemy broke and retired before them, leaving their dead.

By an early hour on Saturday morning the British had gained back everything which the Germans had seized in the first rush. The assaults were not repeated and a gradual quieting down of the enemy's artillery was the confession of failure.

So ends the brief record of the German assault. The complete failure of these two attacks is encouraging to the British and shows that the German troops are not any better men now than when it was the British turn to attack, and that the British are more than a match for them in defensive warfare as well as in assault.

Building Wrecked, Staff Unhurt.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, March 10, (Associated Press.)—Heavy artillery fire was proceeding at various points along the tense British and German battle lines today, but there has been no infantry action of importance since yesterday morning, when the British in a counterattack hurled the Germans from the posts they succeeded in capturing in the region of Polderhoek Ridge Friday evening.

One of the freaks of war occurred near Polderhoek Ridge on Friday. The headquarters of a British company sustained three direct hits from the German heavy guns and the building was demolished over the heads of the staff. When the infantry had cleared away the débris to find the bodies it was found that not a single officer had been injured, although some were suffering slightly from shock.

This has been another magnificent day. The balmy weather of the last few days, which might properly belong to April or May, has brought out the pussy willows and many woodland flowers. The ground still contains some frost, but the roads are dry and dusty.

RAIDERS FLY 500 MILES TO BOMBARD NAPLES

ROME, March 11.—Naples was attacked by enemy aviators early this morning. Twenty bombs were dropped in a residential quarter. Among the victims were seven occupants of the Hospital of the Little Sisters near Arcomirelli.

Naples is more than 300 miles south of the battle line. The nearest enemy territory is the Albanian coast, about 250 miles to the east.

No attack has been made previously in the war on this city, the largest in Italy, with a population of nearly 600,000. Rome and the cities of Northern Italy are within easier striking distance from the north, and it is improbable that aviators from behind the Austro-Italian front would go to Naples on a raid, although flights as long as such a journey would involve have been made previously in the war. Austrian air attacks in the north hitherto have been confined to Venice and other points in the Venetian plains.

From the Austrian base at Durazzo, Albania, a raid on Naples would involve a trip of about 500 miles. German airplanes on their frequent raiding expeditions from the Belgian coast to the London area cover 300 miles or more.

NEW GAINS IN PALESTINE.

British Advance Northward 1 3-4 Miles on a 12-Mile Front.

LONDON, March 11.—Another advance in Palestine by the British troops is officially reported, a forward movement of about a mile and three-quarters on a front of twelve miles having been made on Saturday and Sunday. The text of the statement says:

On Saturday night and Sunday our northward advance astride the Jerusalem-Nablus road continued through a most precipitious and difficult country in the face of obstinate resistance by the enemy, who employed numerous machine guns from concealed positions. Progress was made to a depth of about 3,000 yards on a front of twelve miles, the high ridges overlooking the north bank of the Wadi El Jeb being secured and three counterattacks launched against the important section of these ridges between Sheikh Sales and Burj el Lisaneh, east of the road, being repulsed. Further east our new line north of the Wadi el Aujeh has been consolidated.

Throughout Sunday our airplanes co-operated by engaging enemy troops and transports with machine gun fire and bombs at various points on the Nablus road. The operations continue.

Lively fighting along almost the whole front in Palestine is reported in a Turkish official statement issued on Sunday at Constantinople. The statement says:

There has been lively fighting along almost the whole front in Palestine, at some points the engagements being violent. In the sector of El Kafr-Petrima-Nebih-Salah there were only outpost actions, in the course of which our reconnoitring patrols retired in conformity with instructions, making, however, obstinate resistance as they withdrew.

East of this sector last night the enemy reconnoissance troops were driven off after hand-grenade fighting. Early this morning the enemy directed an intense artillery fire against a large portion of the sector, following it up with an attack by infantry, which pursued our troops as they withdrew to their main positions, occupying localities near Katrawani, Atara, and Yilwad, north of Yebrud.

Violent attacks from Burjel to Berdawil were repulsed with heavy loss to the assailants, whose chief onslaught was directed against our positions at Kellasur. Six times, after bitter struggles, the enemy succeeded in occupying this position, but each time it was reconquered by us and at the end remained in our hands.

MRS. FORD'S BODY FOUND.

American Author of "Keep Home Fires Burning" Killed in London.

LONDON, March 11.—The bodies of Mrs. Lena Guilbert Ford, an American poetess, and her son, about 30 years old, were discovered today in the wreckage of a house destroyed in the German air raid last week. In this house twelve persons were killed.

Mrs. Ford formerly lived in Elmira, N. Y. She was author of "Keep the Home Fires Burning," one of the most popular of the English war songs. She had made her home recently with her son Walter, in the northwestern section of London. Her mother, Mrs. Brown of Elmira, was extricated on Friday from the wreckage of the house and taken to a hospital, seriously injured. The Ford home and five adjacent houses were wrecked by a bomb.

AVIATOR KILLED, TWO HURT.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 11.—Lieutenant Oron L. Mitchell, Eudora, Miss., was instantly killed, Cadet Joseph C. Wakefield seriously injured, and Cadet Pemberton slightly injured in an airplane collision at Kelley Field No. 2 tonight.

Several hundred cadet fliers witnessed the accident, which was the most spectacular since the establishment of the flying fields here. Mitchell and Wakefield were returning from a cross-country flight, and Pemberton, flying alone, appeared from another direction. Three hundred feet above the ground the two machines collided, locked, and fell in a twisting spiral.

Lieutenant Mitchell was dead when cadets reached him. Wakefield's thighs were fractured, and he suffered serious cuts about the body. Pemberton's injuries consisted only of bruises.

Jellicoe Bayley's Guest.

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, March 11.—Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, former Chief of the Naval Staff, has spent three days here as the guest of Admiral Bayley, U. S. N.

He met a number of American naval officers and visited the American ships in the harbor.

BELIEVES DEADLOCK IN WAR IMPOSSIBLE

SUGGESTS AIR OFFENSIVE

Paris Temps Critic Says the Enemy Blunders in Decrying Value of American Troops.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 11.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent yesterday put the question of a so-called "military deadlock" to a member of the Army Committee in the Chamber lobby, who replied:

"At first sight it does appear as if for the time being defense had vanquished attack in their age-long struggle for supremacy. But it is a rule of history that always when means either of attack or of defense appear to be gaining the upper hand some new factor intervenes to restore the balance. No deadlock can be permanent. To admit Germany's defense to be impregnable is to acknowledge ourselves beaten. If barred wire stops infantry attacks, we must devise new tanks to traverse it and new guns to tear it to pieces. If land defenses and guns are so multiplied that it is too costly in lives to take them by assault, we must concentrate on airplanes, and by the help of America initiate an air offensive that will bring Germany to her knees.

"Suppose it is true that German threats of a great attack are only a bluff. Does that mean that we should sit down in impotence and watch her developing Russia? We French know better than the Germans the value of Napoleon's strategy — his unswerving allegiance to the rule that attack where possible was always preferable to inaction. Naturally, the allied High Command will not fling forward its soldiers to useless butchery, but where there's a will there's a way, and the will of France, Britain, and America are going to find that way. To think otherwise would be a negation of everything for which we have been fighting, and would be an admission of German superiority.

"If the enemy attacks us, we are ready for him. If not, we must not, we shall not, remain idle. The morale of our soldiers was never higher than it is today."

General Delacroix, the brilliant military critic of the Temps, in a detailed review of the present position of the allied armies on the western front printed this evening, takes a distinctly optimistic view of the outlook, despite the Russian collapse.

The British front and the French fronts in the Campagne and at Verdun, he says, are now, from both offensive and defensive viewpoints, in the best situation they have ever been in. The German forces from Alsace to Flanders, notwithstanding numbers, cannot pretend to be of the same high quality as formerly. He asserts that France now, thanks to the powerful aid of the British, American, and Portuguese allies, is strong enough on the western front to triumph over the final efforts of the enemy, whatever they may be, as all recent operations have shown.

General Delacroix devotes special attention, in regard to the American troops, to the favorite German argument that newly-raised armies must necessarily be inferior in military value. He characterizes that argument as a blunder on the part of the German staff which has been proved over and over again, even under the most difficult circumstances. The British armies, for instance, proved their first-class value from the beginning, and when supported by sufficient artillery proved themselves of incontestable offensive value. The Rumanians, again, opposed to the best troops of the Central Powers a resistance which only yielded to a better armed and larger army.

"The allied armies recently formed—improvised, as one might say, in the face of the enemy—have everywhere shown themselves fully competent for their work," General Delacroix writes. "Formed in the rude school of war they have justified the hopes placed in them. The moral force animating them has quickly compensated for lack of experience and training. It will be the same with the American armies. Conscious of the greatness of their task, they are fighting valiantly at our side against the spirit of domination in order to put an end to war without pity and to assure future generations of a better future."

BOLSHEVIKI FEAR LVOFF'S REVOLT

Lenine, he says, as head of the Government, was responsible for the attitude of the Russian peace delegation, but only after the new German offensive did he put publicly the demand for self dismemberment of Russia.

This might have been necessary to save the revolution, as when peace was signed at Brest-Litovsk all roads were leading to a revolutionary war. The capitulation was therefore not the fault of the delegation. Trotzky intervening in the discussion rather favored the pro-war view, but said that unity of party was essential. There was, however, a limit to their yielding attitude, because if they gave up much more Russia would have no life to save.

The Petrograd soviet adopts Lenine's point of view. The evacuation of Petrograd continues. All the reports of recent air raids on Petrograd, it is now established, were the result of excited popular imagination, Russian aircraft having been mistaken for those of the enemy.

TROTZKY WAS DISMISSED.

His Downfall Result of Quarrel with Lenine Over Peace Terms.

LONDON, March 11.—Leon Trotzky was dismissed as Bolshevist Foreign Minister by Premier Lenine owing to a quarrel over the German peace terms, according to a dispatch to The Morning Post dated Saturday in Petrograd.

Trotzky held that the peace had been extorted by force and that no law recognized promises made under duress as obligatory. Therefore, he is reported to have said it was Russia's duty to fight, if only guerrilla warfare, and the German treaty should not be ratified.

Premier Lenine, on the other hand, held that the treaty must be ratified and carried out on the theory that disastrous treaties do not necessarily annihilate nations, as Prussia had proved several times.

SINK AUSTRIAN BOATS IN THE PIAVE RIVER

ROME, March 11.—Austrian troops which apparently were making an attempt to cross the Piave River were prevented from doing so yesterday by the Italian batteries, which sunk rafts and boats in the river opposite Fagare, the War Office announced today.

Italian aircraft engaged in raiding operations dropped seven tons of bombs upon areas occupied by the enemy.

The text of the statement reads:

From Stelvio to Lake Garda there were intermittent artillery actions. Enemy groups were dispersed in the valley of Veroegliana, east of the Adamello, and in the region of Tonale. From Lake Garda to the Piave the harassing fire was more frequent on the Asiago Plateau and on the left side of the Brenta. South of Nago hostile patrols were put to flight.

On the Piave there was noticeable reciprocal artillery activity. On the river bank opposite Zenson our machine guns fired upon hostile parties. Our batteries, effectively assisted by aircraft observation, caused the blowing up of an enemy battery, hit enemy working parties east of Salettoul, and dispersed and sunk rafts and boats opposite Fagare.

On Sunday our airplanes bombarded enemy aviation grounds. Other camps were bombed at night by five airships. A total of seven tons of bombs was dropped. All of our aircraft returned unscathed, notwithstanding the violent enemy fire. On the left side of the Piave British aviators brought down two hostile machines.

THE HINDENBURG SUNK.

Big German Icebreaker Hits a Mine —Several Sailors Drowned.

COPENHAGEN, March 11.—The Hindenburg, a large German icebreaker, struck a mine south of the Aland Islands Saturday and sank, according to the Dagens Nyheder.

Several members of the crew were drowned.

RAIDS ANSWER PROPAGANDA

Belgians Resent Foe's Efforts to Lure Flemings.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—How Belgian soldiers in the trenches answered a piece of German propaganda is told in an official dispatch received today by the Belgian Legation here. The message said:

"At a point on the Belgian front near Nieuport on March 8, the Germans, continuing their vain efforts to separate the Flemish from the Walloon population, put up a large proclamation inviting the Flemish soldiers of the Belgian Army to come over and surrender. The invitation was promptly accepted, but not in the way expected by the Germans, for that night the Belgians made three simultaneous raids on the German trenches.

"In one trench which was strongly held, to the west of Nieuvedam, near the Paschendaele Canal, the Belgians took twenty-two prisoners and left behind them thirty dead Germans. In this raid the Belgians had only a few of their own men wounded and none killed. The German trench west of the Union Bridge across the Yser was taken and cleaned up from top to bottom.

"Finally, the third trench, west of Lombaertzyde, was taken without striking a single blow. All the occupants of the trench had been killed except three, who promptly surrendered and were brought back into the Belgian lines."

$15,000,000 LOAN TO CUBA.

Havana Announces It Will Be Made for War Purposes.

HAVANA, March 11.—The American Government, it is announced, has offered to loan the Cuban Government $15,000,000 to be used in carrying on the war against Germany. The loan will draw 5 per cent. interest, and will be guaranteed by the $30,000,000 Cuban bond issue.

Last September the Republic of Cuba authorized the announcement that half of the Cuban Government's $30,000,000 war bond issue, decided upon shortly before that time, had been subscribed by the United States Treasury.

KAISER IS ALSO AMONG PROFITEERS

tory at Stuttgart, with a branch near Berlin. Its dividends have risen from 8 per cent. in 1909 to 35 per cent. in 1916. Its shares stood at 228 in 1911 and during the war have risen to over 1,000.

Kaiser as a Krupp Stockholder.

A dispatch from Geneva, on March 3, said that the Kaiser, since the war began, had bought shares amounting to nearly $5,000,000 in Krupps, mentioned in the preceding dispatch as refusing to show its books in the profiteering investigation conducted by a Reichstag sub-committee. This information was given in Geneva by bankers who had lately returned from Frankfort. The Kaiser had been previously a large stockholder in Krupps, and it has been stated that he is the largest holder of the shares next to Frau Bertha Krupp von Bohlen.

The Krupps have recently concluded the purchase, it has been stated, of the Wolff Telegraphic Agency, the semi-official news agency of Germany. This purchase is said to have been made at the Kaiser's suggestion.

BIG PROFITS IN BRITAIN.

Aggregate Curbed by Government Supervision of Contracts.

LONDON, March 11.—The immense profits made by munition manufacturers, and even greater profits which they would have made had it not been for the supervision of their contracts, are disclosed in a report by the Committee of National Expenditure, issued today.

The committee found that in the aggregate twenty-six firms selected at random had made profits five times greater than in normal times; others had made profits of 27 per cent. on the turnover, or 341 on their capital.

On the other hand, technical investigations have resulted in the saving of £3,000,000 on cordite contracts, more than £35,000,000 on gun ammunition, £2,000,000 on gun equipment, and £1,000,000 on aircraft.

BRITISH REPULSE BIG GERMAN RAIDS

Heavy Assaults Near Ypres, Armentieres, and Other Points Prove Futile.

SOME SEVERE ENCOUNTERS

Berlin Officially Reports That French Are Using Rheims Cathedral for Signaling.

LONDON, March 11.—The Germans are continuing to make powerful raids on the British lines in the Ypres sector around Armentières and at other points along the front.

The report from Field Marshal Haig's headquarters tonight says:

Following a heavy bombardment of our trenches in the neighborhood of Armentières, the enemy this morning thrice raided our posts in this sector. In one locality the raiders were driven off, in the other two localities the enemy was repulsed with loss after fighting, as a result of which five of our men are missing. We captured a machine gun.

This morning also the enemy attempted a raid on a large scale in the Ypres sector. Parties of hostile infantry attacked our line northwest of Passchendaele on a front of a thousand yards. They were everywhere repulsed with heavy losses. We secured a few prisoners.

During the night one of our positions south of Houthulst Forest was entered by a hostile raiding party, but was immediately recaptured. Four of our men are missing.

The hostile artillery was active today south of St. Quentin, north of the Scarpe, and along our front between Hill 70, north of Lens, and Festubert, southeast and east of Messines and east and northeast of Ypres.

The day report says:

A successful raid, in which several of the enemy were killed or taken prisoner and two machine guns were captured, was carried out by us last night south of St. Quentin.

A party of the enemy which approached our lines northwest of La Bassée was driven off by artillery and machine gun fire.

There was considerable artillery activity on both sides early this morning southeast of Armentières.

Say French Use Rheims Cathedral.

BERLIN, March 11, (via London.)—A French signaling post "frequently observed on the Rheims Cathedral again came into action yesterday," says the Army Headquarters report, which reads:

The artillery and mine thrower activity was frequently revived in the evening. The lively reconnoitring activity continued. Our own detachments at several points pentrated the enemy's trenches on the Flanders front, in the region of Armentières and on the west bank of the Meuse, and brought back prisoners and machine guns.

During a German bombardment northeast of Rheims, a French signaling post, which has been frequently observed, and which is constructed on the Cathedral of Rheims, again came into action.

ALERT TO JAPANESE DANGER

German Papers Seek a Way Out of Eastern Complication.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—German newspapers are following closely the discussion of Japanese intervention in Siberia. An official despatch received here today from Switzerland gives a résumé of the opinions of some of the important papers.

The Münchener Nachrichten says:

"Germany can calmly await any new move the Entente may make. We must see things as they are and not as we wish them. What Japan will do in the future is still obscure, but what she is doing today is evident. She is preparing to make a new effort against us."

The Frankfurter Zeitung says:

"What is going on today in Eastern Asia cannot be a matter of indifference to us. They want firmly to exclude Germany from Eastern Asia. For us a Far East policy is only possible with the aid of Russia or England. Germany consequently should not think of allowing the state of anarchy which reigns in Russia to be prolonged indefinitely."

The Deutsche Tageszeitung asserts that the proceedings of Japan are not in the least disquieting for the German Empire. All the Eastern problems, according to this paper, will be solved in a manner favorable to Germany if the German Empire will impose a German peace upon the world.

CARRANZA LAUDS BELGIUM.

Receiving Her Minister, He Praises Resistance to Germany.

MEXICO CITY, March 11.—The newly appointed Belgium Minister to Mexico, Jules Lejeune, presented his credentials today to President Carranza. In the course of his address the Minister said:

"Belgium, in defence of her neutrality, honor, and independence, did not vacillate in wielding the sword and facing with serenity the dangers and calamities of a war against an enemy whose forces and numbers would have crushed a nation less conscious of its rights."

President Carranza, in reply, said:

"I am pleased to express upon this solemn occasion that Belgium, in taking up arms for what your Excellency has stated, has realized the most heroic act of modern times for her own glory and as an example to weak nations. Nations that will not shed their blood in defense of their autonomy and institutions have no right to figure in the concert of free nations. Those that do not measure their sacrifices to preserve their rights, even though they are conquered, can await with tranquillity the day of their liberty, because they deserve to live for it and were born to enjoy it. Belgium should be proud of her conduct and satisfied with her sacrifices."

CATHOLIC WOMEN GET $71,745 FOR WAR AID

Committees Yesterday Reported Contributions of $12,417 in the Drive for a $2,500,000 Fund.

Returns of the Women's Committee of the New York Catholic War Fund were brought up to $71,745 yesterday when contributions of $12,417 were reported at the afternoon meeting at the Plaza. Only eleven of the fifteen committees reported. One woman said that of five persons of wealth whose names had been given her to solicit she found three were dead.

Major Philip J. McCook, a Spanish war veteran, in an address said that everything that was done for the comfort and amusement of the soldier did just so much to keep up his morale and make him a better fighter. The proceeds of the Catholic campaign to raise $2,500,000 will be devoted to this work.

In this connection a letter just received by Alfred J. Johnson, City Chamberlain and Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the New York Catholic War Fund, from Colonel William Hayward, former Public Service Commissioner, tells the value of entertainment for the soldiers. He described the sensation produced in France by a negro band from the United States, whose membership also included musicians from Cuba and Porto Rico. The cost of organizing the band and sending it to France was $10,000, which was paid by Daniel G. Reid.

When subscriptions were being raised Mr. Reid was the first man asked to contribute. He asked the total amount required, and when told $10,000, he is said to have remarked: "I'll pay the whole check."

The band is headed by Lieutenant Europe, who before the war days conducted the orchestra of the Forty-fourth Street Theatre Roof. Colonel Hayward in his letter also said:

"A lot of things are no fun, and one year ago I would have thought them unendurable. Now they are mere discomforts. But what heathen we will be when it is all over! I shall not know how to act in polite society or what to do with the ordinary paraphernalia of civilization like toilets, baths, club chairs Umbrellas are obsolete. Do they still have them anywhere? Rain means nothing but a little bit—not much—deeper mud. Still nobody has any kick to squeal about, and all hands are so pleased to think they weren't left at home out of this beautiful party that optimism reigns supreme. Of course, we know absolutely nothing about the war or how it's going except in our own little neck of the woods, and really don't care.

"Our band is the most wonderful thing over here. I don't believe any money ever bought as much pleasure and happiness for human beings as did Daniel G. Reid's in this instance."

WANTS OVERMAN BILL PASSED AS PRESENTED

Wilson Insistent and Overman Predicts Senate Fight to Finish Without Compromise.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—President Wilson today renewed his request for enactment of the Overman bill, giving him greater powers to co-ordinate and reorganize Government departments, and was said to be insistent upon its passage substantially in the form originally presented to Congress.

After a conference with the President, Senator Overman of North Carolina, author of the measure, said it appeared probable that a compromise could not be reached, and that the dispute "would have to be fought out."

President Wilson is reported as refusing to accept a compromise proposed by Senator Smith of Georgia to limit his authority to the Army, Navy, and Shipping Board. Senator Overman said he would oppose such a limitation, and added that the Administration has enough votes in the Judiciary Committee to secure a favorable report on the bill as it was introduced.

Senator Smith submitted his amendment to the committee today, and it is understood to have been presented by Senator Overman to the President. Senator Overman said the committee probably would approve amendments providing that the President's authority under the bill shall not extend to the Federal Reserve Board, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and a few other agencies.

The committee, which will meet again Wednesday, when it probably will hear the President's views from Senator Overman, today adopted an amendment prohibiting the President from creating any new agency in any reorganization of departments he might undertake.

$121,433,137 DECLINE IN RAILROAD INCOME

Federal Report for 1917 Also Shows $476,508,154 More for Operating Cost.

McADOO TO SLASH EXPENSE

Expected to Save on Big Salaries, Ticket Offices, Routing, and Unnecessary Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—All railroad systems of the United States having operating revenues of $1,000,000 or more a year showed a railway operating income for 1917 of $967,268,523, or $121,433,137 less than in 1916, according to an official report compiled by the Bureau of Statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission which has just been made public.

That was the situation which was faced when the Government assumed control on Jan. 1, and began the operation of the various systems as a unit. The figures show that the decrease was caused by mounting expenses and increased tax burdens, which more than overbalanced large increases in operating revenues.

Of the total loss in operating income the railroads of the Eastern district suffered $89,665,114, or approximately 74 per cent. The average number of miles operated in the Eastern district was 59,157, as compared with 42,800 in the Southern, and 129,197 in the Western district. The Western roads fell off $28,904,494 in operating income, and the Southern lines $2,863,529.

Figures concerning the earnings and expenses of the railroads since the Government took them over are not yet available, but it is understood that they have brought to the Government experts the realization that there must be far-reaching economy to bring about the desired results. Two of the great Eastern railroads are understood to have fallen off considerably in earnings since the Government took control. The New York Central, however, is reported to have had increased earnings.

McAdoo Asks for Data.

To accomplish the economy, W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads, has asked for detailed information concerning the manner in which money has been expended, the salaries of all officers and employes earning $3,000 a year or more, the duties of such officers and employes, the materials and moneys which the railroads need for maintenance and expansion, and information about the necessity of office space in the larger cities.

With the reorganization of Mr. McAdoo's staff on the basis of having around him in Washington only men who had severed their connections with railroads and other corporate interests, it has been intimated that plans were under way for a general economy in many directions.

Consolidation of ticket offices in large cities, a review of big salaries, elimination of unnecessary and luxurious passenger service, the routing of freight and passenger traffic by the most direct routes, and the abandonment of offices and paid directorates which are not considered essential to Government control of the railroads have all been mentioned as among the many reforms which Mr. McAdoo may institute in an effort to get the railroads on what he considers a more efficient and economical basis of management.

In this connection it can be pointed out that Mr. McAdoo expects that more than $1,000,000 annually will be saved alone by the consolidation of the so-called city ticket offices, situated outside of the railroad stations, and this reform is one of the least important under contemplation.

The general economic plan is now being made the subject of the most searching study, in which Mr. McAdoo and his staff, as Government employes, are entirely eliminating the benefits or disadvantages which may result in regard to any railroad as an individual system. His announced plan is to operate the railroads purely from the viewpoint of the greatest good to the Government with the least expenditure of money consistent with the highest efficiency.

New Operating Basis Soon.

The Government's railroad policy has not had the opportunity during the first six weeks or two months of Government control to show results of the steps which have been taken by Mr. McAdoo, and the weather conditions in January and February proved a further handicap, serving to increase expenses and reduce revenues. Within another month or two, it is believed, the systems will be placed on an operating basis more in line with the policy which will thereafter be pursued.

There has been much comment that Mr. McAdoo was going about his task of using all railroads as a common carrier in a manner which promoted the belief that he did not believe they ever would be returned to private ownership on the old basis. He has turned a deaf ear to all of these reports. Commissions and committees, however, are in constant conference in the headquarters at the Interstate Commerce Commission working out ways and means to eliminate competition, which has proved costly, and to establish an entirely new railroad era.

The huge increase in operating expenses in 1917 was one of the features of the Interstate Commerce Commission report. It showed that $476,508,154 more was listed for this item. Operating revenues were $415,761,868 larger in 1917 than in 1916, or approximately $61,000,000 less than the increase in expenses.

Transportation expenses alone in 1917 showed a jump of $343,967,374 over the same item in 1916. Receipts for the carrying of mail were $2,546,216 less in 1917 than in 1916, and receipts for express $16,583,397 more. The following table shows the principal items for all railroads of the United States earning $1,000,000 or more, for 1917 and 1916:

Figures for December.

The figures for all railroads for December, the last month before the Administration took over the systems, showed that the railroad operating income for that month alone had dropped $27,664,922 below the operating income for December, 1916. The figures for 1917 and 1916 were, respectively, $59,204,074 and $86,869,066. The railway operating revenues for the same month in 1917 and 1916 were, respectively, $335,332,405 and $311,083,340, or a gain of $24,249,065. The operating expenses were $251,647,238 in 1917 and $209,615,966 in 1916, or an increase in expenses to the railroads for operation of $42,031,272.

The railroads of the Eastern district in December last showed an almost 50 per cent. decrease in operating income, as compared with December, 1916. This income in December, 1916, was $31,998,236, and in December, 1917, it had dropped to $17,299,010. Railroads in the Western district for the corresponding months showed a decrease in operating income of approximately $10,000,000, and those of the Southern district about $2,500,000.

The report for the entire year 1917, as compared with 1916, showed that the railroads of the Eastern region paid the heaviest toll in increased operating expenses. The increases were: Eastern lines, $238,908,074; Southern, $72,977,432; Western, $164,622,648. The increased revenues of these roads for 1917 were as follows: Eastern, $163,986,525; Western, $168,047,554; Southern, $83,727,789.

The transportation expenses of the railroads of the East, according to the report, jumped from $576,660,523 in 1916 to $752,723,364 in 1917. The corresponding figures for the roads of the Southern district were $156,125,745 and $206,384,238, and for the Western lines, $453,047,131 and $570,693,171.

Comparisons of 1916 and 1917.

The operating revenues of the different districts for 1917 and 1916, respectively, are as follows:

Southern	607,401,424	523,673,635
Western	1,629,993,707	1,461,946,153

The operating expenses for 1917 and 1916 are:

Eastern	$1,353,314,671	$1,114,406,597
Southern	413,587,650	340,610,218

Eastern	$450,304,437	$525,225,986
Southern	193,813,774	183,063,417
Western	544,015,932	540,590,926

The tax accrual and uncollectable revenues for 1917 and 1916 are:

Eastern	$79,295,507	$64,551,942
Southern	36,183,410	22,569,524
Western	105,386,603	73,057,203

The operation income for 1917 and 1916, respectively, was:

Eastern	$371,008,930	$460,674,044
Southern	157,630,364	160,493,893
Western	438,629,229	467,533,723

RAILWAY EXECUTIVES MEET.

A meeting of the Railway Executives' Advisory Committee was held at 61 Broadway yesterday to discuss the Railroad bill approved by the Conference Committee of the House and Senate, and to urge all railroad executives to do their utmost to aid the Government in determining the payments to be made to the railroads under Government control. Robert S. Binkerd, assistant to Frank Trumbull, Chairman of the committee, gave out this statement:

"Most persons probably do not realize that the bill under which the Government takes over the railroads of the country contemplates a series of agreements between the Government and the companies. It is highly desirable that these agreements should be reached in the most co-operative spirit and in the shortest length of time. It would be highly injurious to the country, to its transportation facilities, and to its financial structure to have unnecessary delay or friction in such matters. The meeting was for the purpose of discussing informally the methods to be pursued to enable the various railroads to come into prompt negotiations with the Government concerning the agreements referred to and relations thereunder which will ensue."

The meeting was attended by Harry Bronner, Chairman Finance Committee, Missouri Pacific; A. J. Earling, Chairman of Board, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Howard Elliott, Chairman of Board, Northern Pacific; Hale Holden, President, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Julius Kruttschnitt, Chairman of Board, Southern Pacific; Samuel Rea, President, Pennsylvania; W. L. Ross, receiver, Toledo, St. Louis & Western; A. H. Smith, President, New York Central; Frederick D. Underwood, President, Erie; Daniel Willard, President, Baltimore & Ohio; W. H. Williams, Vice President, Delaware & Hudson, representing L. F. Loree; Alfred P. Thom, counsel to the Railway Executives' Advisory Committee, and Frank Trumbull, Chairman of Railway Executives' Advisory Committee and Chairman of the Board of the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Hocking Valley.

ATTACK CONFEREES' REPORT

State Tax Limitation in Railroad Bill Improper, Senators Hold.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Provisions inserted by Senate and House conferees in the Railroad Control bill which would limit, during the period of Government operation, the powers of the States to tax railroads, drew attacks from both sides of the Senate Chamber today.

Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, citing the new Senate rule adopted last week prohibiting conferees from writing new matter into bills, made a point of order against the tax provision, and demanded that the bill be returned to have it stricken out. He asserted that both Senate and House had adoped a clause providing that the States' taxing powers should not be interfered with, and that the conferees had exceeded their authority. The conferees stipulated that States should not tax the railroads in greater ratio than their taxes bore to the total of State taxes during the year previous to Federal control.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, author of the new Senate rule, and others also opposed the conferees' tax limitation. It was defended by Senators Smith of South Carolina and Robinson of Arkansas.

Upon the suggestion of Majority Leader Martin, consideration of the conference report was temporarily laid aside so certain precedents involving this question could be examined. No time was named for resuming consideration of the report.

In opposing Senator Frelinghuysen's point of order Senator Smith plans to insist tomorrow that the new Senate rule is not applicable, because it was adopted after the conferees had reached their agreement.

GREEN COFFEE PROFIT CUT.

Hoover Also Warns Roasters Against Unreasonable Charges.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Profits in the handling of green coffee were limited today by the Food Administration to 2½ per cent. for importers, and not to exceed 5 per cent. gross margin over cost, plus brokerage or commission, and the usual trade and shipping charges actually incurred for jobbers.

In order to facilitate transportation, carload lots of green coffee were fixed at 60,000 pounds minimum, except when cars of lower carrying capacity are used.

The regulations contained a warning to coffee roasters that if excessive or unreasonable charges were made by them the Food Administration would place roasted coffee also under license.

MRS. SAGE GIVES $100,000.

Syracuse University Will Use Fund for College of Agriculture.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 11.—Chancellor James R. Day announced today that Mrs. Russell Sage had given $100,000 to Syracuse University.

The fund will be devoted to the direct interests of the John Slocum College of Agriculture, which is named after Mrs. Sage's father.

GERMAN ALLIANCE BACKED HENRY FORD

Pittsburgh Branch Switched to Hughes, but Shunned 'Saber-Rattling' Roosevelt.

MIXED IN STATE POLITICS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The political activities of the National German-American Alliance in various States were told again today by witnesses before the sub-committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Pennsylvania branch of the alliance, according to E. Lowry Humes, United States Attorney for Western Pennsylvania, was the most active politically of the State organizations, not only indorsing candidates for United States Senate and Congress in Pennsylvania, but instructing its members to vote for Henry Ford for President by writing his name on the ballot in the primary.

In the subsequent Presidential election, Mr. Humes testified, the Alleghany County Alliance advised its members to vote for Hughes, whose defeat was ascribed to "his association with that saber-rattling Roosevelt" in a report made by R. Ullrich, President of the county organization, to the members. These statements were revealed today through an examination of the minutes of meetings held by that branch of the Alliance.

The records showed that even after the United States severed diplomatic relations with Germany calls were made on the members of the alliance for money to relieve German war prisoners in Siberia, and that a total of $115,000 was sent from that one county in Pennsylvania for German and Austrian war relief purposes.

The data disclosed were obtained by the District Attorney when he seized records in a Grand Jury proceeding.

Quotes July 4 Denunciation.

Before Mr. Humes went on the witness stand the committee examined Joseph Keller of Indianapolis, Vice President of the alliance, who directed the funds used in the fight against prohibition in various States.

"Are you familiar with the fact," asked Senator Wolcott of Delaware, "that the man editing the Bulletin, the official organ of the National German-American Alliance, is editor of a German newspaper in Pittsburgh, and that in a Fourth of July editorial in 1916 he expressed the opinion that our Declaration of Independence ought to be burned in effigy?"

Although Mr. Keller's name appeared in the Official Bulletin as one of the editors, he said that he did not know anything as to the publication or the man referred to by Senator Wolcott.

When Senator Wolcott was asked for the name of the man, he said he meant George Sichel. The name had been given to him by Mr. Humes.

Karl A. M. Scholz, attorney for the alliance, interjected by saying to Mr. Humes:

"You say he said that? Have you the text of that here?"

"I have it in my office in Pittsburgh," replied Mr. Humes. "The Post Office Department has a copy of it, however."

Warned Against Allies' Bonds.

"The minutes of the meeting for October, 1915, show that a report was made that $500,000,000 worth of bonds for the allied war loans would be floated in this country. These minutes read: 'Officers of the alliance extend their warning to members that they must not subscribe. It was decided to notify banks that German-American funds would be withdrawn immediately if the subscribed.'"

In the latter part of 1915 a drive was made, Mr. Humes told the committee, to bring the contributions for German-Austrian War Relief up to $100,000. A proposal was made to appropriate $2,500 for the construction of two houses in East Prussia, but it was decided finally to apply the money to two entertainments and use the proceeds for that purpose.

The minutes as read to the committee by Mr. Holmes showed that on Feb. 23, 1917, after the severance of relations with Germany, more contributions were asked for German war prisoners in Siberia, it being stated that $4,000 had been forwarded there.

On July 29, 1917, the officers announced the close of the East Prussian funds, and said the books should be withdrawn "for reasons obvious." The minutes of the same meeting show that a decision was reached to ask Congress to re-establish communication between Germany and the United States.

Later a secret meeting was held at which "only those who gave their word of honor not to divulge the secrets were present."

Called Republican Party Adjunct.

Mr. Humes testified that the "principal business of the alliance in Allegheny County is politics" and declared it to be an "adjunct of the Republican organization there."

He showed that in the April primary before the Republican convention in Chicago in 1916 a ticket was framed in which the members were told to vote for Henry Ford as the Presidential nominee. "Write his name in," said the instructions.

Among the other names on the ticket, it was testified, were P. C. Knox, Thomas S. Crago, M. M. Garland, Isadore Sobel, John M. Morin, and A. J. Barchfeld.

As soon as Senator Knox took his seat in Congress he voted for all prohibition measures, so that the indorsement of the Allegheny County Alliance was wasted upon him. All the other candidates indorsed for Congress, it was said, voted against the prohibition resolution.

In the recent election the alliance, it was testified, indorsed E. V. Babcock for Mayor. After the defeat of Representatives Coleman and Barchfeld in their race for re-election, resolutions of regret were passed and they were lauded for the work they had done in Congress.

BAKER IN PARIS, MET BY PERSHING

No Submarines Sighted on the Secretary's Uneventful Voyage to France.

MAY ACT TO SPEED UP WAR

Washington Expects Him to Report on Problem of Priority in Shipments Abroad.

PARIS, March 11.—Newton D. Baker, the American Secretary of War, arrived in Paris this morning. He was received by General Pershing, General Tasker H. Bliss, the American Chief of Staff, by French officers representing Premier Clemenceau, and by Ambassador Sharp.

The Secretary and his staff reached Paris at 6:30 A. M. Their trip to Paris was made in a special car attached to the regular night train.

Few people knew of the Secretary's arrival, there being only a small crowd at the station. The members of the party were taken to the Hotel Crillon, which will be made their headquarters during their stay in Paris.

No submarines were sighted on the voyage, which was uneventful, and the weather was fine except on two days, when stormy conditions were encountered.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The safe arrival in France of Secretary Baker and his party having been formally announced today by the Navy Department, press reports about his movements on the other side are being watched closely here. Many officials think it possible that the story of his activities, if permitted to pass the censor, will throw interesting light upon the subject of his mission to the theatre of war.

Emphasis laid by the War Department upon the fact that Mr. Baker's trip was purely a military pilgrimage, without diplomatic significance, has directed attention to the known desire of President Wilson to see an energetic campaign waged by the Allies. With American troops holding a constantly increasing sector of the battle lines, the wishes of the Washington Government undoubtedly will have even greater weight than heretofore with the allied chieftains. Secretary Baker will be able to learn at first hand from General Pershing the judgment of that officer on all that is going on in France. He will not only hear what the American leader thinks of the prospects for his own forces, but will get views founded on long-continued observation as to the French and British war machines.

It is assumed here that the Secretary is gathering just such information for the President, and, going over as he has done, backed by intimate knowledge of all that has happened in the United States since this country entered the great war, he will be able to give as well as receive important information.

The great question of the direction in which the United States is to exert its greatest effort in the war may be decided on the result of these conferences abroad. There has been a constant conflict, not only as to the use of ship tonnage as between the shipment of troops and that of supplies for the Allies, but also as to the priority rights of various army supplies and equipment.

Aside from a particular object the Secretary's trip may have, he has been eager to get to the front ever since the United States entered the war. He has frequently told officers en route to Europe that he envied them their opportunity to see world history in the making. Added to that is his great feeling of personal responsibility for the war preparations of the Government.

ASSAILS DISLOYAL LABOR.

Fred I. Kent Asserts Agitators Win Many Battles for Germany.

Fred I. Kent, Director of the Division of Foreign Exchange, Federal Reserve Board, Washington, speaking last night at the monthly meeting of the Ohio Society of New York, held at the Waldorf, denounced disloyal labor and pacifism. Mr. Kent, who has temporarily relinquished his duties as a Vice President of the Bankers' Trust Company, to serve the Government, charged that "German influences, German money, or both, are helping mislead our labor," and added that "they were winning many battles."

"Labor has been tampered with," Mr. Kent said, "and through false teaching has been so misled as to its best interests that it has been willing to commit a form of sabotage that has put off the end of the war for an indefinite period. If those who have misled labor as to its interests desired to accomplish the murder of further hundreds of thousands of their fellow men, they can congratulate themselves upon their efforts, for they have succeeded.

"Thousands of laboring men, who if not misled would be as good citizens of this country as many other thousands of laboring men whose patriotism is above reproach, are today fighting the United States of America with all of the effectiveness of a German army. Their leaders are traitors, have forfeited their rights of citizenship, and should be treated by the Government without parley.

"If we would quickly defeat, with minimum sacrifice, the Kaiser, who would dominate the world, we must first control the would-be little Kaisers who are today committing sabotage within the borders of our country. German influences, German money, or both, are helping mislead our labor, and they are winning many battles."

PILE-DRIVERS CHALLENGE.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—In reply to the statement of Chief Inspector Higgins of the Port Newark shipyard that one pile-driving crew at that yard recently made a record by driving sixty piles in a single working day, it was learned today that at Hog Island not long ago one pile-driving crew succeeded in driving seventy-eight piles in one working day of eight hours and twenty-five minutes. This is believed to be a world's record for a single pile-driver.

The record crew is headed by Captain "Bill" Gordon and Engineer Pace, and is employed by Sub-Contractor Nawn on Group 4, Section D, of the Hog Island project, consisting of Shipways 31 to 39. Gordon's crew are willing to hear further from any pile-driving crew, at Port Newark or elsewhere, who think they can beat this record, or beat its makers in a straight pile-driving race.

FORD PLANT IN THE EAST.

Submarine Destroyers to be Made Near Newark as Well as in Detroit.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., March 11.—Within ninety days U-boat destroyers will be turned out at a great rate of speed by Henry Ford from a shipbuilding plant on an eighty-acre tract of land on the Lincoln Highway, between Newark, N. J., and New York City.

This announcement was made here today by Mr. Ford, who said work on the plant would be started immediately, and it would be producing within three months. It will be a duplicate of the River Rouge shipbuilding plant now in course of erection.

"The River Rouge plant will employ between 10,000 to 15,000 men and the Newark plant will be a duplicate," said Mr. Ford.

It will have a 1,000-foot dock and will be equipped so as to turn out the submarine "killers" at a great rate of speed. Crews of the boat will be trained at the yard and be in a position to follow the construction of their craft through every stage, and will be ready to man them when they are completed.

"The Newark plant will be able to turn out the U-destroyers all Winter," said Mr. Ford, "and it will be an easy matter to get them into the Atlantic Ocean and then after the enemy.

"Secretary Daniels in a recent interview with me said: 'Mr. Ford, get ready to go some,' and you can bet that I am going to do all in my power to be ready to answer the call at all times."

WOULDN'T RISE, FINED $50.

Beckstrom Said He Was Too Tired to Honor "Star-Spangled Banner."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 11.—Refusal to rise while "The Star-Spangled Banner" was being played at the Covent Garden Theatre Saturday night cost J. Warner Beckstrom, a prominent patent lawyer of this city, $50 in court today. Moreover, Beckstrom, lacking bail, had been locked up since Saturday night.

The man said he had walked to the theatre from his office in the Loop, and was too tired to rise.

"As an American I had a legal right to keep my seat," he said heatedly. "My loyalty cannot be questioned."

The Judge said Beckstrom had cause to be grateful that the other patrons had not mauled him. The prisoner, while being led back to his cell, shouted that he would take an appeal.

CASUALTY LISTS MAY BE ISSUED WEEKLY

wounded are promptly informed it is argued that no hardship is imposed by the new plan upon those most nearly concerned. The staff officers, therefore, contend that if there is the slightest chance that publication of more than the names of the men will be of military value to the enemy the practice cannot be defended.

In this connection an incident was disclosed today to illustrate how the enemy watches press reports. Several months ago, in an item published in an American paper regarding troops in France, the name of a village at which some men were quartered was mentioned. It was an unimportant point. There were no military stores nor extensive training camp there.

The town had never been visited by enemy aircraft, nor had there been bombing raids in that section, but some time after the publication of the item raiders swooped down on the town three times in succession in the same night. They did not attack any other point in that vicinity. Many bombs were hurled at this town, and there were civilian casualties.

There is still a chance that the new plan of issuing the casualties may be investigated by the Senate Military Committee. Senator New of Indiana today had his resolution calling upon the department for information referred to that committee. He stated that he and other Senators had received many criticisms of the order.

32 KILLED IN ACTION REPORTED BY PERSHING

Five Dead from Wounds and 33 Wounded Named in General's Long Casualty List.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Ninety-one names were on two casualty reports received today from General Pershing.

Of this total thirty-two men, including Lieutenant John H. David, were killed in action, five died of wounds, five were severely and twenty-six slightly wounded, while two men were simply reported as "wounded," the character of the injury not being told.

DENY LUMBERMEN DELAY SHIP WORK

GO TO CAPITAL TO BE HEARD

J. L. Cochran Says by July 31 141 Wooden Ships Will Have Been Launched.

Because of reports that they allege have been spread all over the country to the effect that Southern yellow pine lumber manufacturers have been behind hand in the delivery of lumber for wooden ships, a large delegation of Southern lumber men will be in Washington today for a hearing before the Senate Committee on Commerce and will endeavor to prove to the committee, and through it to the Shipping Board and the public, that instead of being remiss in deliveries they have made deliveries even before contract time and have done their share to speed the shipbuilding program.

According to John L. Cochran of 628 East 114th Street, for the last thirty years a wholesale dealer in Southern lumber, the pine manufacturers by the end of this month will have completed delivering timber they agreed to deliver, according to contract, by the end of June.

Mr. Cochran before leaving for Washington last night said that from the original bill of materials required by the Government a total of 490 changes have been made. At first 1,123,957 feet of timber were required for each ship; but this was later changed to 1,531,410 feet.

"The lumbermen promised the Government that material for 200 ships would be furnished on or about July 30, 1918," he continued. "This meant an average shipment of fifty-three cars for each working day from the first of January. The average shipment during January was eighty-six cars a day.

"Judging from statements appearing in the press from time to time about delays in the wooden shipbuilding program you would not think that the Southern pine manufacturers will have completed their task of delivering timbers set for the first six months of this year somewhere around the end of the first quarter. Ten ships have already been built, sixty are nearing completion, and by the end of July at least 141 wooden ships will have been launched. Does that sound as if we were slackers? These ships are being built in forty-three shipyards on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

"Little did General Goethals know that when he referred to the 'birds nesting in the trees' that many mills had trees standing Monday morning whose timbers would be in a ship the following Saturday. Notwithstanding the organized opposition in attracting the wooden shipbuilding industry, the recent launching at Orange, Texas, of the largest wooden ship ever built in America, carrying a dead weight of 5,000 tons, shows that the wooden ship program is being carried out successfully. This 5,000-ton vessel is called the War Mystery and was built for the Cunard Line. It was classified by Lloyd's as 100 A1, for ten years the highest rating. In a day or two a similar vessel for the same concern will go into the water, and six 5,000-ton vessels are on the ways rapidly nearing completion for the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

"While many of the wooden shipbuilders knew that they could build ships that would last longer and stand more strain than many steel ships now afloat, they also felt that it was a question, not of the merits of either the wooden ship or the steel ship, but of getting tonnage of any kind. They realized that it would take approximately four or five tons of freight and equipment for each soldier sent to the front. And so, taking into consideration the fact of the ever-increasing freight congestion at New York, they concluded that it would be wiser to have grain, cattle, and Western freights diverted to Galveston, New Orleans, Pensacola, Brunswick, and Savannah, where these wooden ships would receive the freight and leave in very short time.

"You know that today practically the entire East is embargoed and that there are great quantities of freight that it is impossible to move from here to the other side for lack of ships.

"We know that in these days ships sometimes pay for themselves in one trip. The cost of tonnage has gone up about 400 per cent. In view of that would not the problem of freight congestion be on the road to solution if freight were diverted to Southern and Gulf ports where wooden ships are now being built so that the tonnage might be placed on these vessels and be sent across? Certainly this solution would free the Port of New York considerably."

BOWLES CONDEMNS SHIPYARDS' SLOWNESS

Says All on the Atlantic Seaboard Show "Woeful Lack of Production."

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, Assistant Manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, said today that all shipyards on the Atlantic seaboard, including those of Philadelphia, were lagging badly in the matter of producing cargo ships to combat the submarine.

Admiral Bowles was sent here by the Government to speed up shipbuilding. Excluding only the Cramp Shipyard and the yard of the New York Shipbuilding Company, which are engaged in naval work chiefly, the Admiral said that all Philadelphia shipyards were behind in their output.

He said it would be very difficult to pick out the worst yard here in the matter of failure to produce results. The Admiral expressed himself as perfectly deliberate in his criticism in the hope that the yards would jump into the work of building ships for the new merchant fleet with more vigor and enthusiasm.

"Taking into account all the conditions," he said, "the Philadelphia district is not doing all that it ought in the vitally important work of producing cargo ships for the new merchant fleet. However, my criticism is general. I could place my finger upon the weak spots, but I don't think that it would be best to tell where they are. In the matter of lagging behind, the Philadelphia district is not different from all Eastern shipyards. Not one of them is showing the proper productive power that their equipment, personnel, &c., ought to show."

"In your opinion, Admiral, what shipyard is making the best showing?" he was asked.

"My feeling is," replied the Admiral, "that the shipyard of the Baltimore Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company at Baltimore is making the best showing, considering the equipment and opportunities of that concern."

"There is not any best," replied the Admiral, "and it would be hard to say which is the worst—they are all bad. There has been a very great and woeful lack of production. The fault is not with the steel, mines, or anything else outside the yards. The trouble lies in the yards themselves."

DETECTIVE JOINS NAVY.

Barnitz Will Work for the Intelligence Bureau.

Detective George B. Barnitz, second in command of Captain Tunney's Bomb Squad, which broke up the organization which put fire bombs on vessels carrying munitions for the Allies, captured plotters who were preparing to attach bombs to ships leaving this port, and figured in other important spy cases, obtained an indefinite leave of absence from Commissioner Enright yesterday in order that he might serve in the Naval Intelligence Bureau, where he had been appointed a Junior Lieutenant.

Barnitz was a clerk before he entered the Police Department in 1897, and under several successive police administrations he has been assigned to detective work on important cases. His chief, Captain Tunney, was commissioned a Major in the Army Intelligence Service several months ago.

OPPOSE 'UNSINKABLE SHIP.'

Naval Experts Expect Unfavorable Report on Lucia Tests.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Naval experts expect an unfavorable report from the board headed by Rear Admiral Albert G. Winterhalter, which has just completed tests of the former Austrian steamer Lucia, which has been equipped with interior "buoyancy boxes" designed to make her unsinkable.

That the ship will remain afloat after receiving injuries which would sink a craft of ordinary construction is conceded, but constructors are of the opinion that the "buoyancy boxes" would not prevent a torpedo damaging the vessel to such an extent that she would be of no further value as a supply ship or cargo carrier. In this position naval engineers indorse the decision already reached by the Shipping Board.

Proponents of the "buoyancy box" idea are expected to press for its adoption in the case of army transports, holding that, even if the vessel when torpedoed were to settle until her decks were awash, the lives of most of those on board still would be protected. It is not believed, however, that this advantage will impress navy constructors sufficiently to win their indorsement.

The Winterhalter board, it was said today, was now preparing its official report for Secretary Daniels.

When the "buoyancy box" plan was proposed to the Shipping Board, the principal objection made was the time which would be lost in equipping ships now in service, as well as in building new vessels. Conservative estimates were that from 60 to 65 per cent. of reconstruction would be necessary in the case of vessels in service and that an appreciable time must be added to that now required to build new ships.

This feature was deemed of more importance even than the admitted substantial reduction in cargo-carrying capacity.

In this connection it was learned today that a conference of allied naval constructors, held soon after the United States entered the war, went thoroughly into the question of unsinkable ships, and that the members, with one exception, came to the conclusion that it would be unwise to attempt the construction of torpedo-proof craft. The exception was the representative of Italy, who described to the conference the type of ship now being tested by that Government.

SEEK ALIEN EXEMPTIONS.

America Wants Allies to Leave Nationals in Shipyards Here.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Negotiations are in progress between the United States and the Allies for the exemption from draft of the Allies' nationals who are working in shipyards of this country, but who are subject to draft under treaties now being negotiated. The United States desires to have the Allies recognize shipbuilding as a vital war service, as the United States has recognized it, in exempting Americans who are doing such work.

Officials said the negotiations affected a good many thousand workers, trained in shipbuilding, whose loss would prove a serious handicap to the building program and might entail delays in special lines of work that would be disastrous to the effort to provide tonnage for supplying a great American army in France. Eastern shipyards especially employ large numbers of aliens, including Scotch, Irish, Italians and Slavs, many of whom are highly skilled carpenters and ironworkers.

Approximately 250,000 Englishmen and 60,000 Canadians would become liable for service under treaties negotiated with those countries, but not yet ratified by the Senate. The treaties permit the drafting of men between the ages of 20 and 40 years, who include the most vigorous and productive of the shipyards' alien employes. Similar treaties with Italy and France are being negotiated.

American draft regulations permit deferred classification of men engaged in shipbuilding, virtually assuring them of immunity from military service so long as they continue at work in shipyards. It has been made clear that cessation of that work cancels the exemption, and it is assured that the same provisions would apply to aliens relieved of military service.

A special report on the drafting of aliens who are engaged in war work was sent to the Shipping Board today by the State Department, but comment on it was refused. Meyer Bloomfield, handling the subject for the Shipping Board, said, however, that the board was endeavoring to obtain exemption for aliens whose industrial services were deemed more valuable than their recruiting would mean to the military forces.

"We have sent word to all yard managers," he added, "to tell the men to remain at work, satisfied that they are doing their bit toward victory."

WINS BAILEY NAVAL MEDAL.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Bailey Medal for 1917 has been awarded by the Navy Department to Frank Hartley, seaman, who enlisted early in 1917 at Lowell, Mass., and is a son of William Hartley of 52 Birch Street, of that city.

This medal is given annually to the apprentice seaman enlisted in his minority, who attains by competitive examination the highest final average in the duties of an apprentice seaman. The medal is of gold. It is presented from a fund created by the late Rear Admiral Theodorus Bailey, who took an active interest in the training of young men in the navy.

TWO NAVAL AIRMEN KILLED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Two additional fatalities in the American naval air service in France were announced today after the Navy Department had been notified of the deaths of Andrew Donnie Skaggs and Lee Shott Harvie as the result of an airplane accident while in the naval service in France.

JERSEY METHODISTS ASSIGN MINISTERS

Annual Conference Closes with the Announcement of Pastorate Changes.

BISHOP TALKS ON WAR AIMS

Dr. Henderson of Detroit Favors Extermination of All Pro-Germans Found in This Country.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 11.—The New Jersey Methodist Episcopal Conference today announced assignments to churches for the year at the final meeting of the eighty-second annual session in St. Paul's Church. The Rev. Marshall Owens, who has been field Secretary of the Conference Claimant's Fund for several years, was sent to the Broad Street Church, Burlington, in the Trenton district, succeeding the Rev. T. J. J. Wright, who goes to Ocean Grove. He takes the pastorate of the Rev. J. V. Bills, who is transferred to Red Bank, replacing the Rev. H. P. Sloan. The latter goes to the First Church, Bridgeton, from which the Rev. S. G. Pitt has resigned in order to continue his duties as a Y. M. C. A. Secretary at Camp Lee, Virginia.

The Rev. E. A. De Maris, who vacated the Superintendency of the Camden District at this session, will be succeeded by the Rev. Alfred Wagg of Collingswood. Dr. De Maris will take his pulpit.

The Rev. George W. Yard is transferred from Woodstown in the Bridgetown District to Ocean City, replacing the Rev. J. B. Kulp. The Rev. Henry Lawrence of the First Church, New Brunswick, goes to the Broadway Church, Salem, succeeding the Rev. John Hanley, known as the "Fighting Parson," now Captain of a company in the 112th Heavy Artillery, Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala.

Bishop Henderson of Detroit at the closing session of the conference urged a series of patriotic congregations within the church "to strengthen the morals of our people who have not yet awakened to the fact that we are in the war or have any conception of what it means." Bishop Henderson declared the war confused and staggered the people, and that the War Council had planned the patriotic congregations.

"If we are weakening in this fight we are licked now and we deserve it," said the Bishop. "The month of May is to be the month of universal patriotic demonstrations—a revival month of patriotism throughout the United States. Tell the people why we are in the war and what the duty of each one is. It is a perfect tragedy that the Christian Church has been so slow to realize its responsibilities. There is a demand for Christian leadership outside the cantonments. We are not standing by our Methodist Chaplains. Outside of their salaries we are giving them practically nothing. While there is an old law which declares that the Government must equip Chaplains, it has not done so, and it is now up to the Methodist ministers to see that they are properly equipped.

"We have other duties to perform. Every one should immediately get in touch with our War Council, should you find anybody of pro-German tendencies in your community. Let us locate, eliminate, and exterminate every pro-German in this country."

TRANSPORT ROUTED U-BOAT

Crew Tells of Desperate Battle and Supposed Sinking.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 11.—In connection with the case of Edward Otis, former Quartermaster on a United States transport, who is charged with espionage and is being held here under $25,000 bail, the details of the transport's perilous voyage overseas have become known.

Otis, it is alleged, tampered with the mechanism which controls the transport's course in the submarine zone, ran up the American flag upside down and reported a false reading of the log. He denies the allegations.

The transport, safe at her berth here, brings a story of a brush with a submarine and of the courageous conduct, under fire of the American gunners. First her engines "went wrong" and she was compelled to drop behind the convoy. When the repairs were made the lookout sighted a submarine dead astern less than a mile away. The stern gun opened fire, and the underseas boat, remaining on top of the water, began to drop shrapnel shells on the transport. One of the first shrapnel shots scored a direct hit, scattering the gun crew and bursting into a compartment at the transport's stern. The American gunners continued firing at the submarine, but were handicapped by a choppy sea and failed to register hits.

The submarine crew let loose a torpedo, but the transport manoeuvred in time to let it pass startlingly close to her stern, and then several of the German shrapnel found their mark. The crew of the transport were using a high explosive shell and having trouble with the range. The chief gunner's clothing was nearly stripped from his body in a hail of small shells. He was wounded in the leg, but the place of the wounded chief was taken by a volunteer 17 years old. Meanwhile the enemy craft had pulled up to 900 yards and sent up the signal: "Surrender, we are overhauling you."

The gun crew on the transport answered this with their first hit. The fight continued at the closer range, with the submarine so near that members of the American crew with rifles crept to the side of the ship and opened up on the Germans who were manning the guns. Again came the signal to surrender from less than 800 yards, but the transport replied with another hit.

Despite the shrapnel which burst about them, the Americans stood by their task, taking more deliberate aim and firing slower. The firing of the small rifles by the crew formed a staccato accompaniment to the "booming" of the big guns.

The shot that closed hostilities was a direct hit, which landed fairly on the periscope and deck of the submarine, and with its bursting the undersea craft was seen to dive, or sink. The American crew, exhausted but enthusiastic, did not linger to investigate the fate of the enemy ship.

IN HONOR OF ST. PATRICK.

Friendly Sons Here to Hold 134th Annual Dinner on Saturday.

The 134th annual dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of New York City will be held at the Hotel Astor on Saturday evening, March 16, at 6:30. Justice Victor J. Dowling, President of the society, will preside, and an attendance of more than 800 is expected.

The speakers will include Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, the Rev. John Cavanaugh, President of Notre Dame University; Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Bainbridge Colby, a member of the War Shipping Board, and Irvin S. Cobb.

Among the guests will be Admiral W. S. Benson, Chief of Operations, U. S. N.; Major Gen. W. A. Mann, Commander of the Department of the East, U. S. A.; Rear Admiral N. R. Usher, Commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard; General Vignal of the French High Commission to the United States; Bishop Patrick G. Hayes, and Archdeacon George F. Elson.

LODGE URGES TRUTH POLICY

No Sense in Deceiving the People in War, He Says.

BOSTON, March 11.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge advocated a policy of dealing with the American people according to the standards of truth that characterized George Washington at a patriotic mass meeting here tonight in honor of the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of York.

"We have had enough of telling what we are going to do," he said. "What we want to know is what we have done. Tell the American people the truth. It is all right to keep back from the public information that would help the enemy, but there is no sense in keeping from the people the information that the enemy has, and deceiving the people. A pessimist may be a public danger, but a fatuous optimist is a worse danger. Let the people know the truth, and if the truth is bitter and disheartening, they'll set their teeth as they did in the civil war, and win. The road to victory is the road to truth."

Archbishop Lang referred to the wonderful spirit of comradeship evident in the welcome that had been given him in America. Speaking of the strain his countrymen have had to endure for the last three and a half years, he contrasted the grim resoluteness that characterized England today with the eagerness that he said he noted in the American heart to take part in the war.

A readjustment of industrial relations after the war was predicted by the Archbishop, speaking today to several hundred business men at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in his honor. Under the readjustment, he said, labor must have not only a greater share in the rewards of its industry, but a greater voice in its control and management. England was already preparing for the change, he declared.

Speaking at a meeting in the Park Street Church, attended by many clergymen, the Archbishop said that prayer was an essential factor in the war.

NEGRO TROOPS TO PARADE.

367th Regiment Will Leave Camp Upton for Visit Here.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, N. Y., March 11.—Colonel James A. Moss, commander of the 367th Colored Infantry, announced today that he would parade his entire organization of 3,700 officers and men in New York City on Saturday, March 23. The parade will start at Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third Street at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will pass up Fifth Avenue to One Hundred and Tenth Street, west to Seventh Avenue, north to One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street, west to Eighth Avenue, south to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, and finally to Lenox Avenue, where ranks will be broken. On the following day a matinee and evening performance will be given at the Manhattan Opera House by the regimental entertainers and a picked chorus of 1,000.

Mann Law Conspirator Sentenced.

George Irwin, the alleged leader of the band of blackmailers who wrung thousands of dollars from men and women about a year ago by representing themselves as Federal agents operating under the Mann law, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of conspiracy and was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta Penitentiary by Judge Mayer of the Federal District Court. Among Irwin's victims was Mrs. Regina A. Klipper, a buyer for a Philadelphia store, who was swindled out of $500.

CITY BREVITIES.

Ex-Senator O'Gorman will speak tonight at the law course of the College of the City of New York on "Direct Examinations and Putting Over Your Case." The class meets at the building at Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue.

The annual meeting of the Manhattan Club, Madison Square, will be held at the clubhouse on March 21, at 4:30 P. M. There will be an election for five managers to serve for three years in place of Lewis Conlon, Phoenix Ingraham, Charles W. Dayton, William Schramm, John G. Saxe, and Patrick Francis Murphy. John H. Love has been nominated to serve for two years in place of Justice Victor J. Dowling, who has resigned.

TO ROOT OUT GERMAN FINANCIAL POWER

treaty with Prussia of 1799, to seize the property of Germans. They merely wanted to make sure, they said, that no existing treaty was violated.

Senator Underwood, in reply, made the point that Germany had violated the treaty of 1799 by firing upon merchantmen flying the American flag. Germany's policy, he said, had been to seize all the property it could, regardless of international treaty obligations, and he urged that the United States was not in any sense bound by treaty in handling German property in this country.

"I'd rather fire one shot at the Junker clique in Berlin than a round of ammunition on the front that our American soldiers have taken over," said the Alabama Senator. "Let us down this Kaiser-governed Junker régime in Berlin and we'll deliver a staggering blow to Prussianism."

In offering the amendment to the Urgent Deficiency bill Senator Martin, as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, told of Mr. Palmer advocating that legislation as necessary to put an end to German influence in American industries.

Wants Right to Sell Plants.

Senator Dillingham wanted to know how this amendment differed from the existing law under which the Alien Property Custodian has been taking over German property within the last few months.

"Under the present law the Custodian of Alien Enemy Property takes such property into his custody, but he has no right to sell it," replied Senator Martin. "The Custodian, appearing before the Senate committee, stated that he was conducting a great business in our country and in our island possessions with German property that he had taken over He thought he ought not to be conducting this large business for the profit, possibly, of our enemies of the German Empire."

The Virginia Senator enumerated some of the industries which, he said, Mr. Palmer had alluded to as being owned or controlled by Germans in this country. Among them, besides munitions and clothing factories, were a huge chocolate factory in Connecticut, a great lead pencil factory in New Jersey, and a brewery in Chicago.

"And there are many more of them," said Senator Martin. "They are all over the country, deep-rooted, run by Germans in close touch with the Junkerdom. Now, there has been an impression that the existing treaty of 1799 between the United States and Prussia precludes our taking over German property in this country unless we give it back at the end of the war. I have caused that to be investigated by the State Department and they have sent me a memorandum on it."

Martin Quotes the Treaty.

Senator Martin read from the memorandum, which maintained that the United States had the right to take over any property of enemy residents in the United States, or property here of enemies residing abroad, at the expiration of a nine months' period after the beginning of any hostilities between the nations involved. The memorandum read:

"The only treaty in force with Germany which might be regarded as relating to protection of German property in the United States in time of war is Article 23 of the Treaty of 1799, which reads as follows:

> If war should arise between the two countries, the merchants of either country then residing in the other shall be allowed to remain nine months to collect their debts and settle their affairs, and may depart freely, carrying off all their effects without molestation or hindrance; and all women and children, scholars of every faculty, cultivators of the earth, artisans, manufacturers, and fishermen, unarmed and inhabiting unfortified towns, villages, or places, and in general all others whose occupations are for the common subsistence and benefit of mankind, shall be allowed to continue their respective employments, and shall not be molested in their persons, nor shall their houses or goods be burnt or otherwise destroyed, nor their fields wasted by the armed force of the enemy into whose power by the events of war they may happen to fall; but if anything is necessary to be taken from them for the use of such armed force, the same shall be paid for at a reasonable price.

"As a general rule, treaties of amity and commerce, such as this one is, are discontinued or terminated by war between the contracting parties, except as to articles especially providing for the condition of war. As Article 23, above quoted, contemplates a state of war, it is regarded as in force between the United States and Germany.

Period of Grace Now Past.

"The nine months' period mentioned in Article 23 expired on Jan. 6, 1918, consequently the merchants residing in either country may no longer 'depart freely carrying off all of their effects,' as provided in Article 23.

"It will be observed that this article provides that those enemies of certain classes who remain in the United States shall not be molested in their persons, nor have their property burned or otherwise destroyed, nor their fields wasted by the armed force of the enemy, but that if anything is taken from them for the use of such armed force they shall be paid for it at a reasonable price. Although it is not entirely clear, it is arguable that the provisions protect these Germans in their persons and property from the armed forces of the United States; or from the taking of their property for the use of armed forces, except upon compensation. If this is true other German property in the United States, that is, German property not subject to molestation or destruction or 'taking' for the use of armed forces, may be dealt with in accordance with the law and practice."

Senator Martin insisted that under the interpretation of the State Department the Government has the right to seize any German owned or controlled property in the country and to dispose of it.

"Speaking for myself—and I think I am voicing the sentiment of the American people—I have no hesitation," he continued, "in saying that if the German people ever get any compensation for this property which the Government takes over and develops, it will be after Germany has compensated American citizens for the millions of dollars' worth—almost, I may say, billions—of property which she has destroyed for us and for our people, ruthlessly and in violation of the principles of international law.

Owners Are Living Abroad.

"A careful reading of the provisions of the Treaty of 1799 satisfies me that if we make any accounting to the German Empire or to citizens of the German Empire at the end of this war for the German-owned property now within our borders, that accounting will not have to be made under the provisions of that treaty. The owners of this property did not remain in the United States; they are not in the United States now; they are abroad and waging war on the United States, and that war created these extravagant profits which are accruing under the management of the Alien Property Custodian.

"I do not believe it possible for any Senator to contend that, whether we have to account for the property or not at the end of the war, we are under obligations to take care of that property and operate that property and make the enormous profits which are piling up, day by day, by reason of this war ruthlessly waged by the German Empire, in order to augment the sum to be accounted for at the end of the strife."

Senator Knox asked what property the Custodian would be able to sell under the provisions of the amendment.

"He would be authorized to sell any or all of the German-owned property he has taken over," replied Senator Martin. "It would make no difference whether it belonged to individuals or corporations."

Senator Knox wanted to know if the Alien Property Custodian intended to act under the Treaty of 1799 if the amendment were passed.

"Does the State Department regard that treaty as still in force?" inquired the Pennsylvanian.

"I cannot undertake to speak for the State Department," replied Senator Martin. "But I can repeat what Mr. Palmer said to the committee—that the property he expected to dispose of under this amendment was that belonging to the Junker class in Germany, that is the large capitalists of Germany who own this property which he has taken over and is now operating."

Aim Blow at German Power.

Senator Knox read from Mr. Palmer's statement before the committee, in which he said that, while the "ordinary investment of the plain German citizen ought to be taken over by the Alien Property Custodian and held as against the time when distribution of it will be made, the investments in this country so close to the German Empire's control that they amount to a part of the German industrial and commercial hold upon America and American insular possessions ought to be treated a little differently."

The Pennsylvanian wanted to know, he said, if the Administration felt that America was discharged from its obligation under the Treaty of 1799, which, he pointed out, expressly declared that "neither the pretense that war dissolves all treaties whatever shall be construed as annulling or suspending these articles, but, that, on the contrary, a state of war is that precisely for which they are provided and during which they are to be as sacredly observed as the most acknowledged in the law of nature and of nations."

Senator Knox proceeded:

"Now, are we discharged from the sacred observation to observe this treaty as we are bound to observe the law of nature and the law of nations, or are these classes of property which it is proposed to sell under this amendment not within the terms of the treaty? It is the attitude of the Government upon those two propositions that I should like to be satisfied with before coming to a conclusion as to how I shall vote upon this amendment.

"If this Government has found, as a fact, that the German Government has violated the law of nature and has violated the law of nations during this war, is that a justification for us ignoring the whole treaty and does the Government take that position? What I should like is light."

Holds Germany to Account Also.

Senator Martin replied:

"Mr. Palmer distinctly stated that he was announcing no policy for the United States in respect to this matter; that he had no authority to announce any policy, and was not undertaking to announce any policy for the American Government in respect to what should be done in relation to this property at the end of hostilities.

"So far as I am concerned, I cannot see the slightest particle of obligation upon us to operate this property and make enormous profits to be accounted for in any contingency to the German people or to the German Government at the end of the war. I think the utmost that we could be called upon to do would be, if we account for anything, to account for the value of the property at the time we took it over.

"It is inconceivable to my mind that we should account for it unless they account themselves for the destruction that they have brought about, for the havoc that they have caused to the property of American citizens. I confess, Mr. President, that it will take a very strong case, a most extraordinary case, to make me feel like turning over one dollar of this property at the end of the war to the German Empire or to subjects of the German Empire."

Senator Martin alluded to Mr. Palmer's statement that the Germans were heavily interested in industries throughout the country.

"He mentioned that they were making chocolate in Connecticut, rails in Pennsylvania, woolens and worsted in New Jersey, dyes and chemicals in New York, lumber in Florida, sugar in Porto Rico and Hawaii, tobacco in many States of the South, beer in Chicago, lead pencils in New Jersey," said the Senator. "He is conducting all of these various kinds of business and many others, most of which are making enormous profits by reason of the very war conditions for which the enemy is responsible. He says that in taking over the stock in these various enterprises he took over only German-owned stock. There was some American-owned stock which he did not take over."

"Stamp It Out," Says Underwood.

Urging the adoption of the amendment, Senator Underwood declared that America needed courage to fight Germany at home as well as in France.

"Germany trampled the Treaty of 1799 when she fired on the American flag on merchantmen crossing the seas," said the Alabama Senator. "Germany insisted, as one of the clauses of that treaty, on the right to traverse the seas unmolested. Yet she violated that very provision herself in cruel, shameless manner. We are fighting an autocratic power that has spread its roots of influence into our very industrial life here. Let us stamp it out.

"For every dollar of American-owned property in Germany there is $100 of German-owned property in this country. For every dollar of American property Junkerdom seizes in Germany, America can seize $100 of Junker property here. We have been too slow getting into this phase of the war against Germany. We must now fight her all along the line, and we must extinguish every vestige of Junkerism from America forever. Let there be no hesitancy about it.

"So far as the property we have taken is concerned, I don't know if any particle of it will ever go back to German hands. It assuredly will not until Germany has paid for the American ships she has sunk and for other deliberate injury to American property during this war."

The Frelinghuysen amendment, providing for the sale of all German-owned property, except that bought in by the United States Government, through public auction, was adopted by a vote of 33 to 28. The two amendments adopted today will go at once to the House for action. Their speedy concurrence is an-

$118,000,000 IN YEAR FOR WIRE EXTENSION

LARGELY DUE TO WAR NEEDS

Fourteen Battalions of Picked Officers and Men Join Signal Corps —Net Earnings, $76,524,489.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company's annual report, including the result of operation of the entire Bell telephone system, is notable for the picture it presents of expansion in 1917 caused by the nation's war preparations. The year's outlay for addition was $118,000,000, a total of 50 per cent. greater than in any other year. The increase of the telephone service in Washington was greater than the increase in the preceding eight years. The toll switchboards at Washington were increased five times. In the course of the year 2,000,000 additional miles of wire were strung, making the total mileage of the Bell system on Dec. 31 22,610,487 miles.

For use in the national service 15,000 miles of toll wire and 27,000 miles of circuit wire for telegraph use were taken from commercial service and devoted exclusively to the needs of the Government. The establishment of the training camps required large extension of wire and stations, some of the camps requiring facilities equal to cities of 40,000 inhabitants. The linking up of the coast guard telephone system with the Bell companies required the stringing of 1,200 miles of new wire. Fourteen battalions of picked officers and men, trained in telephone and telegraph work, joined the Signal Corps from the Bell companies.

At the end of the year the Bell system's stations numbered 10,475,678, an increase in 1917 of 628,486. More than 1,000,000 toll connections were handled daily, in addition to about 30,845 exchange connections, being at the rate of over 10,000,000,000 calls a year. This was an average of approximately 100 calls for every man, woman, and child in the United States.

In respect to earnings the statement issued yesterday showed that while gross revenue increased substantially, expanded costs worked to reduce the net below the total for 1916. The Bell system's gross earnings amounted to $294,894,950, a gain of $30,319,670. Operating expenses of $204,406,144 were $28,500,539 larger than the year before, and the net income of $76,524,489 was $2,828,620 less. Dividends paid out, a large part of which went into the treasury of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, amounted to $36,862,582, an increase of $1,702,463. The year's surplus of $13,851,629 was $8,226,960 less than the year before.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company reported net earnings of $48,940,466 for the year, a gain of $4,197,090. The interest charge was $10,469,360, leaving for dividends a balance of $38,471,106. This was equal to 8.8 per cent. on the oustanding stock, of which 8 per cent. was disbursed as dividends.

Stock Investment Increases.

The company's investment in stocks and bonds of associated companies increased $88,455,220, and the value of permanent plant grew by $12,975,353. Current assets decreased $19,023,302, and the cash account declined $42,173,259. There was a total increase of assets amounting to $40,234,012, and a gain in indebtedness of $31,600,897.

The company bought $14,639,700 preferred stock of the Western Electric Company, and in order to pay for it and arrange for the retirement of $18,300,000 notes on Feb. 1, $40,000,000 6 per cent. notes were sold in January. At the end of the year the total stocks and bonds outstanding was $618,825,500. Shareholders numbered 86,599 on Dec. 31 last, an increase of 16,044 during the year, exclusive of about 33,000 employes of the Bell system who are buying stock on the installment plan. The report stated that a majority of the shareholders were women. Less than 4 per cent. of the stock was in the names of brokers, and less than 2 per cent. was held in Europe at the end of 1917.

Theodore N. Vail, President, informed share owners that the toll line plants represent an investment for the Bell system of $200,000,000 and more.

Marked Improvement in Service.

"In the operation of this vast network of wires," he said in his report, "it has been possible through improved traffic engineering practices not only to effect marked improvement in the service, but also to increase the message-carrying capacity of the wires. In many instances it has been possible, without depreciating the service, to meet the increasing toll business by improved methods of working rather than by new construction. The engineering department has co-operated actively with associated companies in making new complete fundamental plans for all large communities during the last ten years. These plans combined involve an increased development, fifteen years hence, of about 6,000,000 stations. The total additional plant investment represented by these plans, furthermore, will be more than $600,000,000."

President Vail took the opportunity afforded by the report to emphasize the size of the outlay for maintenance and depreciation.

"Statements have been circulated," he said, "to the effect that the Bell companies had neither fully maintained their property nor set aside from revenue the usual allotments for reconstruction. The following figures are a complete refutation of such statements: During the year $94,071,000 was applied out of revenue to current maintenance and depreciation, an increase of $9,515,000. Current maintenance increased $6,227,000, averaging 4.3 per cent. on the average plant in service, which compares with 3.9 per cent. in 1916. The provision for depreciation of plant during the year was $52,919,000, an average of 5.5 per cent. of the cost of the plant, and an increase over 1916 of $3,288,000."

'DRYS' COMBINE ON RATIFICATION

another speaker was raised by the German-American Alliance," said Mrs. Boole.

"Well, we never got a particle of it," said Elon R. Brown, President pro tem of the Senate, raising his voice to an angry pitch, but provoking only laughter. "The Germans are disposed to drink, but they have shown efficiency and an ability to fight, notwithstanding that weakness."

Rumors of "Dry" Defection.

The "wets" are anxiously awaiting the action of the Assembly tomorrow on the Hill-McNab resolution to ratify the Federal prohibition amendment. The general belief at the Capitol tonight is that the resolution will be adopted in the lower house, but there are rumors of defection from the "dry" cause, which cannot be verified or traced to their origin. The ten Socialists at a caucus today agreed to vote against ratification and support a referendum measure.

That an overwhelming Assembly majority would have its effect in the Senate is admitted by the "wets." Following the hearing before the Senate Committee this afternoon the "wets" felt more hopeful regarding the prospects in the House. The Senate Committee is so evenly divided between "wets" and "drys" that Senate Leader Brown, who is ex officio a member and is opposed to ratification, may be in a position to influence its action decisively. The Hill-McNab resolution if adopted by the Assembly will be referred to this committee when it comes over to the Senate for action.

Mr. Anderson, Anti-Saloon League leader, who was the first speaker at the hearing, began by saying that the War Emergency Prohibition bill, proposing to put an end to the traffic in all intoxicants, with the exception of wines and 3 per cent. beer, despite its goody-goody look, had not been introduced with a view of aiding the prohibition cause.

Senator James A. Emerson of Warren, Chairman of the committee, sharply replied that the committee did not introduce either the proposed amendment to the State Constitution, the light-wine-and-beer bill or the bill for an advisory referendum this Fall with any idea of placing obstacles in the way of prohibition.

"Then you miscalculated their effect entirely," Mr. Anderson replied. "They all will have the effect of heading off ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment. We do not oppose the amendment to the State Constitution making this State dry, except for the effect it will have. For one thing, it will very seriously embarrass those engaged in the anti-liquor fight in the thirty-eight cities of the State where local option elections are to be held next month. Our slogan in this fight is: 'Ratification first.'"

Protest from Syracuse.

The "dry" forces in Syracuse, where the local option campaign is already under way, had sent as their spokesman ex-Congressman Michael E. Driscoll. He pleaded for a "square deal" and said the State amendment would seriously embarrass the "drys" in their local option fight.

"Suppose the proposed State amendment goes before the voters and is ratified next year, won't that give us prohibition in this State a great deal sooner than we could have it under the Federal amendment?" asked Senator Brown.

"Yes, but in Syracuse we propose to have it even sooner," said Mr. Driscoll. "I favor State-wide prohibition, but give the cities a chance to vote first under the law you passed here last year."

The Rev. C. D. Skinner, speaking for the ministers of Buffalo, and the Rev. H. H. Barstow of Rochester voiced opposition to the State amendment, the Advisory Referendum bill and the limited liquor measure, and gave way to the Rev. Dr. James Eppringham, who represented the Episcopal clergy and laymen favoring prohibition.

"Why did you take a referendum among the Episcopal clergy?" asked Senator Brown, the moment Dr. Eppringham arose to speak.

"To find out where they stood, of course," said Dr. Eppringham.

"Under the circumstances, would you consider it a wrong procedure for any one else to seek a referendum on this question?" asked the Senator.

"Your proposed referendum is not according to law," said Dr. Eppringham.

Won't Have Americanism Impugned

Dr. Floyd S. Leach, appearing for Episcopal clergy and laity in the New York Diocese, said evidence taken before the Senate Judiciary Committee in Washington had shown that German propagandists were contributing money to fight prohibition as well as to aid the Kaiser.

"Do you think that all who are against prohibition are pro-German?" asked Senator Brown.

"I would hardly go as far as that," the clergyman replied, with a smile.

"You'd better not," broke in Senator Emerson, who presided. "We do not want any reflections on our Americanism or any insinuations in that direction. We are all good Americans and expect to be treated as such."

Senator Brown asked the clergyman if he would favor prohibition even if he knew that a majority of the people in this State were against it.

"I object to that question," interjected Mr. Anderson. "You are trying to trap our speakers into dodging the question."

Mr. Anderson said he would not take a decided stand against the "Diluted" Liquor bill.

"If the liquor interests are willing to place added restrictions on their business for the period of the war," said Mr. Anderson, "we do not feel that we should prevent them from doing so. But your proposed referendum this Fall would have no binding force, and we oppose it for that reason. The real referendum will be when you gentlemen go back to your constitutents for re-election. If a Senator or Assemblyman believes that his constituents want prohibition, he should not wait until Fall to be told so."

Liquor Interests "Control."

"Didn't Congress in submitting this Federal amendment merely 'pass the buck' to the States?" asked Senator Gilchrist of Kings.

"The liquor interests controlled a little more than one-third of the United States Senate," Mr. Anderson replied. "Their activities, however, so aroused some Senators who had been against prohibition even for the period of the war that they joined with the prohibition forces in adopting the amendment in order that the disgraceful liquor traffic should not continue to hold our country by the throat."

Mrs. Boole said the Legislature should not stand on formalities in acting on the prohibition question.

"This is a question of the public good, and the Legislature should speed ratification of the Federal amendment with all its might," she said. "If we want to win this war, now is the time to kill the liquor traffic."

"This measure cannot be made effective for at least three years," interrupted Senator Brown. "Under the circumstances how can it be regarded as a war measure?"

"It will give impetus to the movement to have Congress enact a war prohibition bill," said Mrs. Boole.

Other "dry" advocates who spoke were Olin S. Bishop, State Chairman of the Prohibition Party; Mayor Rann of North Tonawanda, F. B. McCoy of Tonawanda, R. B. Talbert of Niagara Falls, ex-Senator Samuel A. Jones of Chenango, and John C. Ball of New Rochelle.

Mr. Ball said the closing of all saloons in New Rochelle had had such a salutary effect that there had been only four arrests in the city for intoxication.

The "wets" got a hearing after the "drys" had held the floor for more than two hours.

Brewers' Counsel Heard.

William H. Hirsh, counsel for the State Brewers' Association and the Society of Restaurateurs, said Mr. Anderson's charge that the liquor interests had prevented the enactment of war prohibition by Congress was false.

"Those who contend for rapid ratification betray a genuine fear of the merit of their hobby," he said. "They are engaged in the cowardly work of trying to put this thing over on a wave of hysteria. For the sake of the history we are making show some deliberation and follow the dictates of representative government. Give the people back home time to think this question over."

John J. Kavanaugh, speaking for the Society of Restaurateurs, urged that ratification of the Federal amendment at this time would involve tremendous losses to those he represented and would throw out of employment thousands of men too old to change their vocation.

Mark A. Cadwell, representing the Hotel Men's Association, said local option gave home rule, and localities should have the right to enjoy it. He urged the appointment of a commission to investigate the whole liquor subject and recommend legislation.

"You can have the Governor appoint the commission, which should be composed of men and women of such high character that their conclusions would commend public confidence," he said. "We do not believe the people of this State are for prohibition as against temperance."

William Tenjost of Buffalo, who said he represented 50,000 organized holders of liquor certificates, opposed the "diluted" liquor bill on the ground that liquor dealers could not exist on the sale of wine and beer alone.

"Prohibition has come to you, backed by the biggest lobby ever seen in legislative halls," he declared. "Do not listen to the clamor of people who make a living out of meddling wih the personal liberty of others. Local option gives every locality the right to abolish the liquor traffic if it wants to. You were not elected on the prohibition issue; it was not even discussed in the campaign when you ran."

Effect on City Real Estate.

E. W. Estes, representing the Broadway Association, composed of nearly 1,000 New York business men, of whom few are engaged in the liquor traffic, called attention to the plight in which the taxpayers would find themselves if the $18,000,000 excise revenue were suddenly cut off.

"Real estate values in New York City are crumbling," he said. "Real estate there pays out in taxes one-third of what it produces. This war will be won by the power that can draw on the last $100,000,000. The National Government will collect approximately $1,000,000,000 from the liquor traffic during the next year unless this amendment is ratified."

James P. Holland, President of the State Federation of Labor, said he was authorized to speak for 450,000 working people who opposed ratification. Both the American and State Federation of Labor at their annual conventions unanimously voted against prohibition, he told the committee.

"If labor thought this would interfere with the success of our boys in the trenches," he said, "we would not be here. Read Guy Empey's 'Over the Top,' and you will see that the boys over there, every one of them, get a drop of something to shake the cold out of his bones before he goes over."

The Assembly tonight refused to discuss the Socialist bill calling for a referendum on whether the Legislature should approve the pending amendment to the United States Constitution. Assemblyman Walden of New York, Socialist, moved to suspend the rules to bring the bill before the House. His motion was lost, 74 to 40. The bill will receive no further consideration.

Announcement was made tonight that the Senate Taxation and Retrenchment Committee would meet tomorrow morning prior to the session, and probably report out the proposed State prohibition amendment. The Emerson-Malone bill providing for a referendum this Fall on whether New York State should ratify the Federal amendment may be reported also.

HOTEL MEN PROTEST.

Oppose Antis' Liquor Bills and Propose Investigating Commission.

The Hotel Association of New York City has sent a letter to Senator James A. Emerson, Chairman of the Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment at Albany, protesting against "all pending liquor legislation intended to curtail the rights of the public." In the letter the hotel men ask all believers in real temperance to unite with them in urging a middle course for "temperance and moderation, with proper regulation."

The hotel men in their letter assert that the agitation against liquor is misdirected, and that there has been too much legislation devoid of constructive character. The letter advocates the appointment of a commission with unlimited power to investigate conditions and recommend legislation that would "meet with the satisfaction of the people."

The hotel men assert that they "hold no brief for the brewer or distiller or any class of men engaged in this traffic except ourselves." Thomas D. Green, President of the association, signs the letter.

ORDER MAKES CANADA 'DRY.'

Quebec and Ontario Alone Get Respite Until Dec. 31.

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 11.—Canada, except for the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario, will go dry April 1, and December 31 the café in Quebec and Ontario will vanish, and the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors will be prohibited throughout the Dominion.

Under regulations issued tonight, the manufacture and sale of liquor are prohibited; but in Quebec beer may be manufactured and in Ontario whisky and native wines made until the end of the present year. The new regulations, which supplement provincial laws, also prohibit the transport of liquors into or their delivery in prohibited areas.

The manufacture of wine or alcohol for sacramental, industrial, mechanical, artistic, scientific, and medicinal purposes is permitted under license.

Westfield "Wet" Majority Larger.

WESTFIELD, Mass., March 11.—The fact that Camp Bartlett is located in this town had little apparent effect on the license vote at the town meeting today, as the town voted license by 362 majority, a slight increase over last year.

Prohibition Before Delaware Legislature.

DOVER, Del., March 11.—The Delaware Legislature convened in special session today, Governor John G. Townsend, Jr., delivering a patriotic address at the opening. The Governor recommended the ratification of the national prohibition amendment.

Fashions In War Time

Wartime informality is evident in the afternoon frocks, dinner gowns and suits originated in the ateliers of Martial et Armand, Redfern, Zimmerman, Riva, Tollman, Cara, Rondeau, Buzenet, Cauet and Peggy Rotchild, and in the tailored and dress hats by Lucy et Gaby, Eliane and Cruchot.

The pictures were taken in the studios of these fashion arbiters in Paris just prior to the closing of mails for the United States, arriving in New York since March 1.

ASSAILS SEIZURE OF GODSOLL PAPERS

BECKER DEFENDS ACTION

Says Attorney General, in the Interest of France, Should Retain the Documents Found.

Supreme Court Justice Delehanty reserved decision yesterday on a motion made by Attorney General Merton E. Lewis to vacate the temporary injunction granted last week which restrains the State authorities from continuing their inspection of certain papers belonging to Frank J. Godsoll, the Frechman, now under arrest in Washington, who is charged with having made millions of dollars in commissions as a result of his official connection with the French War Commission to this country. When Godsoll was arrested in Washington, at the request of the French Government, Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Becker served a subpoena on Godsoll's secretary in New York and had all of Godsoll's papers brought to the Attorney General's office at 299 Broadway.

Godsoll was represented in the proceedings by John B. Stanchfield, one of eighteen lawyers he is said to have retained to guard his interests, while Deputy Attorney General Becker represented the State. In an affidavit Mr. Becker said that it was in the interest of France, the ally of America, that the State should be permitted to retain possession of the Godsoll papers until an examination could be made of them and the course of future action, if any, in the case was determined. The affidavit said that Godsoll had been interested in German properties, and that the State desired to ascertain just how great an interest he had in those properties.

Justice Delehanty early in the proceedings indicated that he did not approve of the method the State had taken to get the Godsoll papers. The Justice said he could find no excuse under the law for "such conduct," whereupon Mr. Becker remarked that "these are war times."

Denounce Seizure of Papers.

Attorneys for Godsoll argued that the "raid" on Godsoll's office was an outrage and that a great many of the papers seized in the name of the State did not belong to the French prisoner and bore no relation to the matter in issue.

The Godsoll attorneys asserted that a "very formidable document" had been served by the Attorney General on Miss Zelda April, who is Godsoll's secretary, after which they said the State agents seized everything in the office, including the furniture and cabinets.

"Now, Mr. Baker," said Judge Delehanty after the Godsoll lawyers had concluded their opening remarks, "is it your contention that under this subpoena, which was issued under the executive law of 1917, that you could go and make service upon the parties and grab and take away papers demanded to be taken under the subpoena?"

"The subpoena provided under this law," Mr. Becker replied, "makes it a crime for any person to fail to produce forthwith the papers called for."

"Even according to your own affidavits," said Justice Delehanty, "your men went there, they served a subpoena upon this young woman, she made an attempt to get the papers, and she was directed curtly, by those you sent there, to hurry up. Then what did your men do? They took those papers. And not only took them, but they took the furniture in which the papers were contained. They virtually cleaned out the office. And they took them off to the local office of the Attorney General by what authority? Under what process of law can you justify the act? You know the procedure provided by law as to a subpoena duces tecum.

Justice Delehanty's Attitude.

"Now, I don't care anything about Godsoll. I don't know who he is. But his rights are to be respected in this court just as much as the rights of any other individual. And I want to say that the Attorney General is the defendant here, and he will be treated just the same as any other litigant that comes into this court. You have got to justify your act, what you did upon that occasion. Now I want your legal authority, if you have got any authority. Submit it."

"I think your Honor has taken a position which renders further argument rather useless," said Mr. Becker. "This is a wartime law. It was passed at a time when rather instant and rather harsh measures are properly called for. Now I am desirous of protecting the constitutional rights of anybody who has them, but I am positive that there is no case here where any constitutional rights have been invaded, and I am going to go on with issuing these 'forthwith subpoenas' in matters affecting the public interest until somebody strikes me down."

"You know the orderly procedure in such matters as this," responded Justice Delehanty. "That is to serve a subpoena, go away, and in the return day, if the party fails to produce the papers demanded, you have your remedy. But here you go up to that place, and that's the harsh feature, your men go there, and, according to the allegations here, they take not only the papers that were called for in the subpoena, but they practically clean out that place of business, and everything is taken down to your office. It reminds me of the days when Jermoe used to break into these gambling houses and take everything in sight. Now those things don't go here, I tell you."

"I defend the proceeding," replied Mr. Becker, "anad I am prepared to defend it further. Mr. Stanchfield has characterized the law as fantastic."

"And I want to say," said Justice Delehanty, "that if you do not defend it more strenuously than you have, you will have to defend it elsewhere. You may submit your papers and I will reserve decision."

Mr. Becker, it was said last night, would file a brief in the case on Friday of this week.

After the court proceeding Mr. Becker examined several witnesses in the Godsoll case at his office. One of these witnesses was Benjamin Blumenthal, a former business associate of Godsoll, and another was Miss April, the secretary. Several other witnesses will be examined today.

DRAFT PENALTIES SEVERE.

Eight Socialists Get Prison Terms of 20 to 25 Years.

CAMP DODGE, Iowa, March 11.—Found guilty by a general court-martial of refusing to obey orders, eight national army men from St. Paul, Minn., all professed Socialists, have been sentenced to long terms of imprisonment in the Leavenworth penitentiary, it was announced today.

A. S. Broms received a twenty years' sentence, and the other seven were sentenced to twenty-five years' confinement, all at hard labor. The seven are: W. H. Treseler, R. A. Carlson, Carl W. Johnson, Axel W. Carlson, Gunnard Johnson, Forris Kamman, and Nickolaus Ungar.

Broms and Treseler are native Americans. The others were born in Sweden, but had declared their intention of becoming American citizens.

The court-martial ends proceedings in which the eight men had been involved since shortly after June 5, 1917, when they refused to register for service in St. Paul. They were arrested, found guilty of draft evasion and sentenced to eight months imprisonment. The sentence was commuted and the men were brought to Camp Dodge. Here they refused to recognize the authority of their officers.

AMERICAN WOMAN TO BE TAKEN AS SPY

U. S. Attorney General Sends Assistant Here to Confer Over Important Arrests.

PRISONER HAD DRAWINGS

Assistant United States Attorney General John Lord O'Brian, in charge of the enemy alien situation in the nation, conferred here yesterday with Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Knox, Assistant Attorney General William Wallace, Jr., the chief of the newly created Enemy Alien Bureau for the Metropolitan District, and Captain Charles F. De Woody, Superintendent of the New York office of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation. No information was made public as to the matters discussed, but it is believed the conferences had to do with certain important arrests now pending which are said to involve the activities of persons here, among them a well-connected American woman who recently arrived from Europe. She will be accused as a spy. Another woman, who is said to be the subject of a nation with which Germany is allied, also figures in the case. Important arrests in this case are expected within the next forty-eight hours.

The evidence in the case of Wilhelm Korthaus, a German, who was arrested two weeks ago on a warrant issued by President Wilson, shows that he was in regular correspondence with Germans in Portugal, India, and in other parts of the world, and that he was transferred from the German Army for "foreign service" in 1913, coming to the United States from Rio Janeiro in 1914.

Korthaus said he was sent to the Uni Company, one of the leading dyestuff manufacturing establishments in Germany, to study the "dye industry" in this country.

Papers found in possession of Korthaus show that he has been in correspondence with August Herzog, who is said to be an important member of the German spy machine now operating in Spain, who was in Portugal when that country declared war against Germany. The Portueguese authorities ordered his arrest, but before the order could be executed, he escaped into Spain.

Another German agent with whom Korthaus is said to have been in communication was one Herr Braun, who when last heard from was operating in India, while a third person named as among those with whom he was in communication was Albert Kartsedt, who was arrested in Canada some months ago and ordered interned. Evidence has also been found which shows that he has been corresponding with a certain Frau von Scholler of Boston.

Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy, armed with the Presidential warrant, found Korthaus at 745 West End Avenue, where he had rooms, from one of which he had a fine view of the Hudson. Among the prisoner's effects were a pair of powerful field glasses and three cameras. With the aid of these glasses he could identify any warship or other vessel in the Hudson.

The Government ascertained before Korthaus was arrested that he had a number of photographs and drawings, and that he spent much time studying these drawings and writing letters which are believed to have been reports for transmission overseas. These photographs and drawings were missing, however, when the agents searched the man's rooms, as were also a large number of letters known to have been delivered to him. Many envelopes, some of which disclosed the names of correspondents, were found. One bore the name of a Milwaukee German with a business address on Cedar Street, that city.

The documents found in the room showed that Korthaus was released from the German Army in December, 1913, and that soon afterward he sailed for Rio Janeiro. He was in Brazil when the war started and, accompanied by two Germans named Gunther and Besserer, sailed for New York in October, 1914. Gunther is said to be interned in this country, while Besserer with the aid of a forged Swiss passport got through the British lines and is now in Germany. Korthaus with the aid of a fraudulent passport is said to have also sought to return to Germany in 1915, but something happened at the last moment and he remained in this country.

Korthaus was employed in New York by Bayer & Co. of 117 Hudson Street, a drug manufacturing concern. It was pointed out yesterday that the members of this firm had no way of knowing that Korthaus was communicating with Herzog or Braun or other German agents in foreign countries.

A woman servant employed at the West End apartment violated Korthaus's rule that no one was to enter his rooms before 3 P. M. She entered the room and found the German working over his drawings, &c. She got a tongue lashing and lost no time in getting out of the room.

OPEN ENEMY ALIEN BUREAU.

New York Post Office in Charge of Assistant Attorney General.

The New York Port Enemy Alien Bureau, of which Assistant Attorney General William Wallace, Jr., is the chief, and upon which will devolve some of the most important duties in this part of the country, is now in full operation, with headquarters offices on the fifth floor of the Federal Building.

The following statement with reference to the jurisdiction of the new bureau and the scope of its activities was issued by Mr. Wallace yesterday afternoon:

1. The New York Port Alien Enemy Bureau of the Department of Justice has been organized, with offices in the Federal Building, New York City, Room 523.

2. It will function in the Port of New York, which will be held to embrace the following territory:

(a) All of the Southern (Federal Judicial) District of New York, including the counties of New York, Bronx, Westchester, Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, and Ulster.

(b) All of the Eastern (Federal Judicial) District of New York, including the counties of Kings, Queens, Richmond, Suffolk, and Nassau.

(c) A strip two miles deep on the Jersey shore of the Hudson River, extending from the upper State line down to Hudson County, all of Hudson County, and all that area back from and between the port waterfront and a line drawn from the (inland) city limits of Newark to those of South Amboy, including South Amboy, Perth Amboy, Newark, Elizabeth, Bayonne, Jersey City, Hoboken, West Hoboken, and Weehawken.

(d) The waters of the port within the foregoing areas.

3. In the above territory this bureau will, for and under the Department of Justice, discharge all the duties and exercise all the powers with respect to alien enemies conferred or imposed on that department by the President of the United States under the various proclamations dealing therewith.

4. Barred zone permits will be issued as heretofore through the offices of the several United States Marshals of each—the Southern and Eastern District of New York and of the District of New Jersey.

5. Dock permits will be issued as heretofore through the office of the Surveyor of the Port of New York.

6. Failure to register will be handled by the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, aided by the Police Department, which conducted the registration.

7. Internment cases in which (after arrest) investigation has been heretofore begun will be concluded to internment or discharge by the particular United States Attorney's Office that now has the case in hand. Cases in which no such investigation has been begun will be transferred to this bureau and concluded by it. New cases will be handled directly by it.

A number of draft "slackers" were before Mr. Wallace yesterday, and also a number of enemy aliens who are now the subject of investigation by Department of Justice agents. A matter that Mr. Wallace is to take up immediately concerns the proper guarding of the waterfront. Hereafter only guards who have been examined by officials of the bureau and certified as qualified to exercise their duties will be permitted to accept guard positions on waterfront properties.

FIND BERNSTORFF LINKS.

Federal Agents Search Papers of Suspects in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—Federal authorities examining papers and letters seized in the offices and homes of Hans Forcheimer, Ernest Albrecht, Phil I. Adam, and Robert M. Adam, all Germans and lumber exporters here, who were arrested Saturday as dangerous enemy aliens, said today that their papers indicated connection between some or all of the prisoners and Count von Bernstorff, formerly German Ambassador at Washington, alleged to have been one of the directors of Germany's spy system in this country. They said that examination of the papers strengthened the case against the prisoners.

No formal charges have been filed against the men, but today they wer placed in the House of Detention pending further investigation.

LOST 7 RELATIVES IN WAR.

F. M. Dean Mourns His Mother and Six British Kinsmen.

Francis M. Dean, maître d'hôtel of the Hotel Majestic, received a letter from the War Office in London yesterday announcing the death of his mother and six male relatives in the war.

His mother, Isabella Dean, living at 7 Theobald Road, was killed in an air raid on London. Harry Dean, an uncle, died from wounds received at Ypres. Francis M. Dean, a namesake, 21 years old, attached to a Siege Battery, B. E. F., in France, was killed by a shell. John Prior, a cousin, was killed in action in France, as was also Dan Brown, another cousin. Harry T. Kemp, another cousin, died from a gunshot wound in Flanders. A brother-in-law, John Mulholland, also was killed in battle.

Twenty of Mr. Dean's relatives entered the British fighting services. This is the first letter he has received from England in three months. His father, John Dean, a celebrated English athlete, is also in service, but he has not as yet been heard from.

It is no less true

OF AN ORGANIZED BODY, THAN OF THE INDIVIDUAL, THAT THE MEASURE OF EFFICIENCY IS DETERMINED BY THE CAPABILITY TO CONTEND SUCCESSFULLY WITH SUDDEN AND UNEXPECTED EMERGENCIES

When property owners and tenants were unable to obtain coal during the recent long period of zero weather, we were called upon to furnish a world record-breaking amount of Gas. ℂ On February 5 last the output of Gas in Manhattan, The Bronx and Long Island City was the world record for twenty-four hours—

150,537,000 Cubic Feet

Gas companies throughout the Country when drawn upon heavily for a supply of Gas for Heating were compelled to stop the sale of Gas Heaters and other Gas using appliances. Not so with us. We had prepared ourselves and had a large stock of Gas Heaters on hand. When our supply was nearly exhausted we went into the market and purchased more—but only those of the highest standard of make. ℂ Hundreds of thousands of persons depended upon Gas for Cooking and Heating. They could not be and were not disappointed, for our immense manufacturing plants were operated with the greatest efficiency. Handling the Peak Load

WERE every one of the one hundred and thirty-seven railroads served by the Pullman Company to attempt to furnish the same service for itself, the burden of expense would be found insupportable.

Each road would have a heavy investment in extra cars which would be idle perhaps eleven months in the year; and it would be forced at certain times to man all these cars with green crews—to the great discomfort, inconvenience and anxiety of the public.

The Pullman Company mobilizes its seventy-four hundred cars—each as perfectly appointed in its way as a modern hotel—with the keenest strategy. It knows at every hour of the day the location of each one of them; it notes the least threat of congestion here, or shortage there, and is on the alert to supply maximum service wherever needed.

Pullman service meets a national problem; it gives to our passenger traffic facilities a stability and a mobility otherwise almost impossible.

EDISON CO. EXPLAINS REFUSAL OF SERVICE

WEATHER ALWAYS WATCHED

Hint That Lighting Concern May Seek an Increase in the Rates for Electricity.

There is a weather observer stationed on the roof of the New York Edison Company's Building whose duty it is to watch the skyline for portents of storms. When it rains or snows, or clouds shut out the sun, there is instant need of more electric current for lighting purposes, and the company wants to know when such a call may be expected so that preparations may be made. Especially is this the case in the season of thunderstorms. Then the lookout keeps a wary eye on the Orange Mountains, and whenever a dark cloud appears over the crest of them, he calls up the Weather Bureau, confirms his suspicions, and instantly there is much activity in the Edison plants.

This was some of the information given yesterday by John W. Lieb, Vice President and General Manager of the company, when he testified before the Public Service Commission on the complaint of the private plant owners that the company had refused to install for them an emergency service. Mr. Lieb wanted to dispel the idea that there was ever an "off-peak" period when the company could manufacture a great deal more current than it could sell. To prove that the company must always be prepared to supply nearly all of the current it can generate he gave these figures:

Effect of Thunder Storms.

At 2 o'clock on the afternoon of June 5, 1917, a thunder storm came which made the day as dark as the early evening hours. Scores of thousands of hands reached for electric switches and instantly a demand came for current almost as heavy as the night call. An additional 200,000 kilowatts had to be supplied, leaving a reserve of only 30,000, for use in Manhattan Borough. On April 12, 1917, there came a similar demand at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and on Dec. 12 last at 5 o'clock customers of the company in this borough were using 234,736 kilowatts, leaving an available reserve of only 34,000. Mr. Lieb said that it was at such trying periods as these that the isolated plants wanted help, and that the company was willing to help those who conducted plants for their personal use only, but that the company did not want to install emergency service for those who operated "block systems," with a chain of customers.

Mr. Lieb resented the suggestion that had been made that his company was taking advantage of the situation produced by the war, when coal and labor were high and hard to get, to urge the public authorities to shut down the isolated plants. He said that the company had openly pursued, for many years, the policy of presenting publicly its opinion as to the economic advantages to the public of central station service.

"The order for this hearing," he said, "was issued without our knowledge and without any intimation to us of its object or purpose, and we have appeared here at the order of the commission to give such facts as lie within our knowledge and experience to the questions put to us."

Likened to a Rate Hearing.

Continuing, Mr. Lieb asserted that the hearing had all the appearance of a rate hearing because an attempt was being made to obtain for the private plants a lower rate than the standard. Then he said:

"It appears to us most unreasonable and unfair to consider what in effect is the question of the lowering of rates under conditions when no man can foretell what the morrow may bring forth and under circumstances of such uncertainty, precariousness, and dismal outlook that, as the commission well knows, the company is even now seriously considering the necessity of coming before it and asking for a general increase of rates."

At the last hearing Copeland Townsend of the Hotel Majestic testified that an agent of the company had told him that if he would buy his electricity from the company that he would be able to get all the coal he wanted from the New York Service Company.

William L. Ransom questioned Mr. Lieb with the view of learning whether there were any close business relations or any joint interest between the Edison Company and the New York Service Company, but Mr. Lieb said that there were none. Arthur Williams, General Sales Agent of the company, and E. J. Connelly, one of its agents, were similarly questioned without result. Then Gorge L. Martin, President and owner of all the stock of the Service Company, was questioned, and no connection was shown beyond that of such a friendly character as might properly exist between two concerns engaged in an allied business. Mr. Martin explained that his company ran about twenty-eight heating and power plants, including that of the General Post Office, and of several of the subsidiary plants of the Edison Company.

Asked how much the Edison Company paid him for his services, including an occasional consultation, he replied that the amount was about $10,000 a year.

A statement by Charles E. Stuart, representing the Fuel Administration at Washington, was read into the record. It was to the effect that a great economy in fuel would result if all of the private plants were served from a central station, and that it was the duty of the Fuel Administration to devise means for saving coal. The Public Service Commission has no power to order the shutting down of the private plants, but the Washington authorities have the power.

The hearing will be resumed next Monday.

BILL TO BAR VOTES OF 250,000 ALIENS

WOULD AFFECT TEN STATES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Enemy aliens, estimated at 250,000, to whom suffrage has been granted in ten States upon declaring their intention to become citizens, will be deprived of this privilege if a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Henry B Flood, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, is enacted into law.

These States, where aliens have the right to vote for President of the United States and other offices before they are citizens of this country, are: Alabama, Arkansas, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, Oregon, South Dakota, and Texas. They contain thousands of Germans and Austro-Hungarians. Politicians of both parties have informed their Congressmen that many Congressional elections in these States may be decided by fellow-countrymen of the two Teutonic Kaisers unless the measure proposed by Mr. Flood is speedily enacted into law.

Such legislation is deemed necessary by Mr. Flood, who is fearful that enemies of the United States residents here may control the elections in many Congressional districts in the November elections. Many States have had election laws which allowed an alien on taking out his first naturalization papers to participate in all elections until he should become a full-fledged citizen.

Fear is expressed by Republican and Democratic leaders that disloyal enemy aliens having this one-year election privilege may control the elections in Congressional districts which are close politically and in which foreign-born citizens predominate. In order to prevent this, Mr. Flood will press for the enactment of his bill into law before the November elections. The bill reads:

A BILL

To prevent alien enemies from voting for electors for President and Vice President or for United States Senators or Members of the House of Representatives:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that no person not a citizen of the United States shall be permitted to vote at any election to be held for President and Vice President or for Senators of the United States or Members of the House of Representatives who is a subject of a State or nation with which the United States is at war.

Need of Curb on Aliens.

Discussing the necessity for such legislation, Mr. Flood said:

"There are ten States in which at the Congressional election next Fall alien enemies will participate in the election of Members of Congress. In some of these States the alien enemy vote is so large that it may even be decisive in the choice of candidates. This situation grows out of the fact that every male person of foreign birth who may have declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States according to law, who is over 21 years of age, shall be entitled to vote.

"It is too late for the States to change their Constitutions. Therefore, Congress should take some action to protect the Government against the influence of our enemies. I have introduced this bill for the purpose of accomplishing this result."

Captain Charged with Fraud.

FORCED INTO DEBT TO LIVE.

German Families' Necessaries Cost 42% More Yearly.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The cost of living in Germany is increasing at the rate of 42 per cent. a year, requiring the average German family to go into debt for the necessaries of life. According to figures gathered by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average expenditure of families having incomes ranging from 100 to 200 marks for a given period is 222.05 marks.

Rigid economy is practiced everywhere, and the average family spends only 26 cents a month for amusements.

Each special record room is comfortably heated, cleanly kept, well ventilated, brightly lighted. Built completely to specification—with direct telephone facilities, elevator, watchman and janitor service; every convenience of the thoroughly modern business office.

Note shelving, ladders and cabinet filing equipment in foreground.

Which?

(1) Buried so deeply beneath the debris that it will take a month or more to dig them out of their fireproof files?—or

(2) Safe at PIONEER in a specially constructed record room, protected (a) by emergency-fire gong signals and (b) by an armed patrol of night and day watchmen punching at frequent regular intervals, National District Telegraph Automatic Signal Boxes.

Which Place Do You Choose for Protecting VALUABLE BUSINESS RECORDS?

(Surplus, Duplicate and Active)

YOU'VE simply got to choose one way or the other!

You've got to decide now whether you prefer to assume the personal risk and responsibility of keeping your records in a so-called "fireproof" building—or whether you would rather play safe, and protect yourself against loss, by keeping them away from your place of business, out of the congested districts and in a specially constructed PIONEER Fireproof Record Room.

There is no sidestepping the issue! The question is too vital a one to put off for another day! New York's biggest corporations use PIONEER Service—many smaller ones too.

PIONEER is better safeguarded than the best equipped "fireproof" office building. That means an absolute guarantee of safety!

And being only 7 minutes from Wall Street, right at the Nevins Street Subway Station—only 14 minutes from 42nd Street at the De Kalb Avenue Station—your records at PIONEER are readily accessible when you need them.

And finally, from the standpoint of cost per square foot, space invariably proves to be two-thirds cheaper by comparison with Manhattan office rentals.

For any business, large or small, PIONEER Service is indispensable. Rentals as low as $5 per month. Estimates upon application. Phone Main 6900.

FISHERMEN ADRIFT ALL NIGHT IN OCEAN

Sixty Men Carried for Miles in Disabled Motor Craft Battered by Gales.

SEA SWAMPS ENGINE ROOM

Coast Guard Cutter Rescues Sheepshead Bay Craft Far Down the Coast.

After drifting helplessly for twelve hours in the heavy gales blowing off the coast, the disabled fishing motor schooner M. J. R. III. of Sheepshead Bay was towed back to port yesterday by a Coast Guard cutter, with sixty passengers and crew exhausted from their efforts to keep the sixty-foot boat afloat in the heavy seas on Sunday night. The craft had drifted more than sixty-five miles, and was picked up twenty-five miles southeast of Asbury Park, N. J.

The vessel had left Sheepshead Bay early on Sunday morning, with a party of fishermen, for the Seventeen-Fathom Fishing Bank, off the Jersey coast. While she was anchored in the fishing banks heavy gales blew up, and Captain Fred Wrege turned the vessel into the head seas and started for port. When a few miles off the Scotland Lightship a heavy sea swept over her decks and poured water into the engine rooms, short circuiting the motors, and immediately the schooner was helplessly adrift.

When the motors were stopped the lights on the small vessel went out, and as darkness came on Captain Wrege and the four members of his crew had to work over the disabled engines by the light of torches. After dark the motors ran again for a few minutes, but after the vessel had made a few miles toward port, seas again swept the decks and disabled the engines.

When the passengers found that they would not be able to make port that night they suggested that the anchors be thrown out, so that the schooner would not be wrecked, but Captain Wrege protested that they would not hold in the heavy gales. To quiet his passengers he threw out the anchors, but they failed to stay the plunging of the schooner. Under orders from the Captain the fishermen remained in the small cabin, while he took the wheel himself in efforts to prevent the waves from foundering the craft.

As the schooner passed steamers in the darkness, the Captain tried to attract attention by shouting, but his calls were smothered by the gales, and torches carefully lighted in the hold and carried to the decks were snuffed out before they could be seen by other vessels.

After dawn the schooner sighted a coast guard vessel about twenty-five miles southeast of Asbury Park, and signaled for assistance. The cutter towed the disabled schooner into Asbury Park, where temporary repairs were made, but the motors failed again on their trip to Sheepshead Bay, and the cutter finally towed the schooner part of the way until she was able to make port under her own power.

Six men from Babylon, who had gone to Cap Tree Island in a small boat, were caught on the island by the gales and they were unable to launch their boat through the heavy seas and the ice. They crossed to Long Island yesterday afternoon, after the heavy winds had abated.

Joseph Newman, an instructor in the Commercial High School in Brooklyn, was grounded on the Fire Island beach while he was trying to cross from Oak Island, and other power boats were driven ashore without injury to their occupants.

NEW TRAINING SHIP HERE.

200 New England Boys Preparing for Merchant Service.

A training ship of the fleet in use by the United States Shipping Board arrived here yesterday with 200 New England boys on board. The vessel is the second of the fleet to come into this port. In addition to the boys who received training as sailors, firemen, oilers, coal passers, and trimmers, the vessel had on board 150 apprentices.

Henry Howard, director of the Shipping Board's Recruiting Service, announced that a free Government navigation school is soon to be opened at 25 South Street. Eight of these schools are now in operation in different cities, and in the last nine months they have graduated several hundred new engine department officers, many of whom are now on American ships in the overseas service.

Delivery of the Spring issue of the New York City Telephone Directory began yesterday. The book contains the names of 436,000 telephone subscribers, on 1,008 pages, and will have a circulation of 731,500 copies. The telephone company is also issuing new books to its subscribers in New Jersey, Westchester and Rockland counties, New York, and Long Island, so that the directory distribution in the company's metropolitan territory this month will total 1,016,000 books.

Major Sargent, Commandant of Unit, Transferred to War College.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 11.—Major Herbert H. Sargent, who has been professor of military science and commandant of the unit at Princeton since last Fall, is to be transferred to the War College at Washington. As yet no plans have been announced for his successor, and until another officer is detailed by the War Department Professor H. B. Dewing of the university Faculty will have charge of the military work, and will be assisted by Captain Cornelius of the English Army and Lieutenant Paul de Fourmestraux of the French Army, who were recently detailed here. Major Sargent is now a retired officer in the regular army, but it is thought that he will be placed on active service.

With the arrival of the two officers, who have seen more than two years of active service with the allied armies, Princeton's training has become more specialized. All men who will be 21 by September are receiving intensive training in bombing, trench construction, rifle practice and signaling. Professor William Libbey has been commissioned Major in the Ordnance Department and is now awaiting orders. He has a worldwide reputation as an expert in small-arms practice.

Relieving Freight Congestion

THE collapse of the railroads in handling freight has not only imperiled many businesses but actually has threatened in some instances the life of communities.

The truck is adaptable either to long distance hauling or to short hauling with many stops. It meets widely different conditions in different industries, each peculiar, each individual and each presenting its own difficulty.

Whether your situation requires trucks for long hauls or short hauls, we know that the Pierce-Arrow will fit your needs, for we have scores of installations in which Pierce-Arrows are more than meeting every demand made upon them.

New York

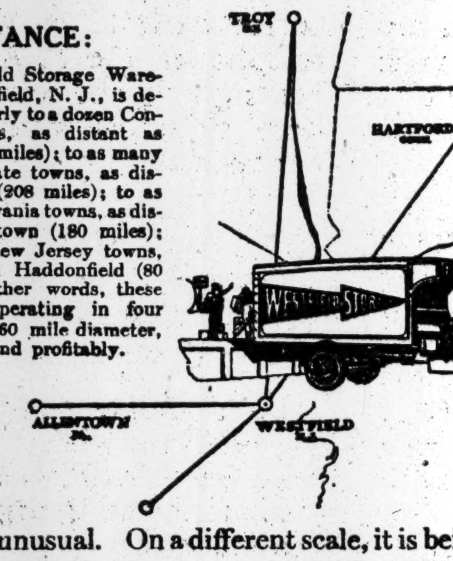
FOR INSTANCE:
Daily deliveries between New York and Philadelphia, 180 miles round trip, can be maintained by many companies. The practicability of such service has been demonstrated by the experience of the United Gas Improvement Company, Pennsylvania Silk Dyeing and Finishing Co., Millers' No. Broad St. Storage & Warehouse Co., A. T. Baker Company, Lippincott's and others, saving time and money, relieving congestion and keeping uninterrupted the flow of communication.

This isn't a unique condition. It is being duplicated in many sections of the country, both over greater and lesser distances. OR—

FOR INSTANCE:
The Westfield Storage Warehouse at Westfield, N. J., is delivering regularly to a dozen Connecticut towns, as distant as Hartford (240 miles); to as many New York State towns, as distant as Troy (208 miles); to as many Pennsylvania towns, as distant as Allentown (180 miles); to as many New Jersey towns, as near by as Haddonfield (80 miles). In other words, these trucks are operating in four states over a 360 mile diameter, economically and profitably.



Nor is this unusual. On a different scale, it is being done in the Pacific Northwest, in the Southwest, in the Middlewest, in New England—in short everywhere, under varying road and climatic conditions, always overcoming different but difficult obstacles.

Labor and the Law United

In Opposition to National Prohibition by Constitutional Amendment

Excerpts from Two Arguments made at a Hearing before a Joint Committee of the Two Houses of the General Assembly of the State of New York, February 26, 1918.

LABOR

By SAMUEL GOMPERS

President of the American Federation of Labor:

I have been invited and requested by the officers of the New York State Federation of Labor, by the Central organized bodies of workers in many cities of the State, to come here and to argue and protest against the ratification by the New York Legislature of the proposed Constitutional Amendment.

* * *

Of all the orators I have heard argue for Prohibition, I have never heard one of them addressing himself to this vital fact: that is, does or will Prohibition, or will the Prohibition Constitutional Amendment, root out the evil of intemperance?  I know of no factor in all our Government or voluntary agencies of America that has had a more potent influence to bring about temperate action on the part of the great masses of the people—temperate in drinking, temperate in every other activity of life—than the much misunderstood and misrepresented organized labor movement of America.

* * *

It may not be uninteresting to know this: That the haters of the organized labor movement, those who have been most hostile to it, and those who are the greatest oppressors of the workers, are supporters—strong, staunch supporters—of the Prohibition Movement.

THE LAW

By AUSTEN G. FOX

Representing the New York State Bar Association:

It is for those who advocate the proposed amendment to show that, in its present form, it is expedient, or at least not inexpedient, to insert it into the Federal Constitution. This is the first time that anyone has suggested that it is expedient to state in terms that "the Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce" any article of the Constitution by appropriate legislation.

* * *

What would have happened to the Thirteenth Amendment* if the South had proposed to insert a provision that "the Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce" this article by appropriate legislation?

We should have said, "Dangerous, if it means what it says. And in any event we shall not run the risk of the Supreme Court holding that the language does mean what it says."

If we really mean to put the enforcement of Prohibition in the power of Congress and take it away from the states, let us say so, and provide, as has always been provided with every other amendment that called for such a provision, that "the Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

If, on the other hand, we deem it wiser that each state shall control its own internal affairs, then we need no amendment at all to the Federal Constitution.

READY FOR SECOND RED CROSS DRIVE

HOW FIRST SUM WAS SPENT

No Part of It, Says John D. Ryan, Went for Any Expenses of the Organization.

Plans for another $100,000,000 drive for the American Red Cross were announced yesterday at the first meeting of the Second War Fund Committee for New York, held in the J. P. Morgan Library, 33 East Thirty-sixth Street. John D. Ryan, Vice Chairman of the War Council, discussed the disbursements of the first $100,000,000 fund and spoke of the necessity for further funds. He announced that the week set apart for the drive is May 20 to 27, and that it is expected that President Wilson will in the near future issue a proclamation setting aside that week for the purpose.

"We have collected $105,000,000," said Mr. Ryan. "We have allowed refunds to chapters—as you know chapters are entitled to retain 25 per cent. of the collections covered by the chapter. They have not in all cases availed themselves of the 25 per cent., but we have allowed $17,006,121 on this account. We have appropriated to date $77,721,918 and we have available for appropriation on March 1 $10,371,217, with the addition of $3,500,000 we know to be perfectly good when called upon.

"The appropriations have been made to the different countries as follows: France, $30,936,163; Belgium, $2,086,131; Italy, $3,588,826; Russia, $1,243,845; Rumania, $2,676,368; Servia, $875,180; Great Britain, $1,885,750, including $1,000,000 that was appropriated by the War Council to the British War Relief, and for other foreign relief work, $3,576,300.

"For relief work for prisoners we have expended $343,304, and this work is only beginning. These appropriations have been made to care for the prisoners that we feared might be taken. We also spent for equipment and expenses of Red Cross personnel sent abroad, $113,800; for army base hospitals in the United States, $54,000; for navy base hospitals in the United States, $32,000; for medical and hospital work in the United States, $531,000; for sanitary service in camps in this country, $403,000; for camp service in the United States, $6,451,150, and miscellaneous in the United States, $1,118,748. We have funds restricted as to use by the donors amounting to $2,520,400, and we have as a working capital for the purchase of supplies for resale to chapters or for shipment to France of $15,000,000. We have working cash advances for France and the United States of $4,286,000.

"People say we use 60 cents to spend a dollar. The expenses of the Red Cross today are well within the amount of money provided by membership fees. No part of the $105,000,000 that we got is spent for carrying on the work."

Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., who presided, introduced William C. Breed, Chairman of the War Fund Committee of this city, who outlined the plan of campaign as follows:

"There will be teams organized, as in the last campaign, furnished with cards containing the names of people presumed to be able to give to the Red Cross from $100 up. A house-to-house canvass for subscriptions from $1 up to $100 will be carried on, as we hope, with the assistance of the Red Cross nurses throughout the city, the Red Cross Auxiliary organizations, and probably by the women's division. The third type of appeal is through the Committee on Industrial Contributions, which will organize in the factories and in all houses and places of business having employes of more than 100."

Chairmen of some of the important committees were announced as follows: Darwin R. James, Jr., for Brooklyn; Olin J. Stephens, for Bronx; Darwin P. Kingsley, for Van Cortlandt District; C. G. M. Thomas, for Queens; Norman S. Walker, for Richmond; Mrs. James A. Burden, Jr., Committee on Women's Activities; Charles A. Coffin, Committee on Industrial Campaign, and Charles D. Hilles, Committee on Public Meetings.

Mrs. August Belmont, who has just returned from France, where she went as a volunteer Red Cross representative, told of the effective work which is being done by the 2,500 men and women who are engaged in Red Cross service in France. She emphasized the great need for public support and sacrifice.

CITY BOYS WORK FARMS.

Five Points House of Industry Reports 300 at This Work.

The Trustees of the Five Points House of Industry, which in 1850 established a home or children at the "Five Points" in Worth Street, then the heart of the worst slum district in New York City, and which in 1909 moved its home for children to a farm at Pomona, Rockland County, held its annual election at a meeting at 37 Wall Street, yesterday. The following were named: President, T. Tileston Wells; Vice President, William H. Wheelock; Treasurer, Hugh N. Camp, Jr.; Secretary, A. Leo Everett.

The annual report of the Five Points House of Industry was made yesterday, describing the improvements which had been made during the year in the village of children at Pomona, where the organization has more than 300 children in cottages on a farm which is scientifically cultivated with the aid of children old enough to be trained in modern agricultural methods.

Among the supporters of the organization are J. P. Morgan, Cleveland H. Dodge, Edwin Gould, James B. Ford, Mrs. E. Finley Shepard, Mortimer L. Schiff, Edward S. Harkness, Miss Eleanor De G. Cuyler, Archibald D. Russell, and F. Delano Weekes.

Ferryboat Gowanus Goes Aground.

The municipal ferryboat Gowanus, on a trip from the foot of Whitehall Street to Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, went aground on the lower end of Governors Island, in the Buttermilk channel. She hung in the mud for three hours, and finally, on a rising tide, several tugs pulled her free. The Gowanus had about sixty passengers on board, and as soon as her plight was known on shore the ferryboat Bay Ridge took off the stranded passengers.

VIERECK'S WITHDREW ITS ISSUE OF FEB. 27

"Conferred" With Postal Authorities About It and Didn't Need to Be Barred from Mails.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Viereck's Weekly, formerly The Fatherland, a publication conducted by George Sylvester Viereck, has been under investigation by the Post Office Department. William H. Lamar, Solicitor of the department, declined today to furnish any information on the subject. He would not comment on a report that the issue of Viereck's Weekly of Feb. 27 had been withdrawn from circulation because of Government disapproval of an article contained therein.

Mr. Lamar, who is the law officer of the Post Office Department, said that for more than thirty years the department had regarded as confidential all matters pertaining to complaints against newspapers for alleged violation of the postal laws, and it had recently been decided that this rule of silence should apply to cases arising under the Espionage act.

The article said to have caused the Post Office Department to institute an inquiry into its character was entitled "Entangling Alliances," and it criticised the allies of the United States and our relations with them. This week's issue of Viereck's Weekly contained the following statement:

> Frequent delays in the delivery of Viereck's Weekly are due to the congestion of traffic, from which all publications suffer alike. The non-delivery of the issue of Feb. 27 was due to another reason. The number in question was withdrawn from circulation.

The facts in the case of the issue of Viereck's Weekly of Feb. 27 appear to be: When the nature of the editorial entitled "Entangling Alliances" was discovered, there was a conference between representatives of the Post Office and Viereck's Weekly, resulting in the withdrawal of the issue, obviating any action by the postal authorities.

In this week's issue of the Weekly George Sylvester Viereck says "in a war between Germany and America the German-American, like Caesar's wife, must be above suspicion; we must pour oil upon the troubled waters of race prejudice; we must avoid whatever would add to the present commotion."

Mr. Viereck said last night:

"The issue of Feb. 27 was withdrawn from circulation. That is all I care to say about the matter."

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., March 11.—Government agents are said to have decided on the property owned by the Paterson Development Company along the Erie Railroad at Clay Street and Madison Avenue, this city, as a site for seven warehouses for the Quartermaster's Department. According to a Washington dispatch, Quartermaster Gen. Goethals has asked for estimates for the construction of a $2,000,000 plant here.

The Ordnance Department has already taken possession of a $25,000 storage warehouse erected by the development company, and is using it for the storage of Ordnance Department supplies. The seven proposed buildings are to be on property adjacent to this building.

Your Blood in Spring

In the Spring all living things awaken to new energy and power — except men and women in poor physical condition. They find Spring a season to be dreaded. Their poison-clogged blood robs them of all ambition and makes hateful even the thought of work. For such men and women Gude's Pepto-Mangan is an excellent Spring tonic.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

"The Red Blood Builder"

Gude's Pepto-Mangan goes to the very root of "Spring Fever"—impure blood. It helps to purify the blood by making it over anew. It supplies the red blood cells with elements that increase their number and capacity to carry oxygen to cells and tissues.

For over 25 years the medical profession has endorsed and prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for weak, anemic, and thin-blooded people of all ages and conditions. Exceedingly pleasant to take, easy to digest, and readily assimilated by the blood.

Friendly Warning: There are many imitations of Pepto-Mangan on the market, but you can be sure of getting the genuine if it bears the name "Gude" and is put up in the bottle and sealed package as pictured here. Ask for it by its full name—"Gude's Pepto-Mangan." For sale at all drug stores.

It Keeps Your Desks Manned

New York organizations which long ago installed the P. A. X. are feeling the press of business and the man shortage far less than those without the P. A. X.

This is especially true in such organizations as the Equitable Trust, the Texas Co., and the American Lithograph Co. which have always regarded the P. A. X. more as a time and man-saver than as merely a superior interior telephone giving 24-hour service without operators.

The P.A.X.—our own familiar term for the Private Automatic Exchange with its automatic telephones—helps good management greatly in two ways:

It keeps men at their desks instead of walking about to get information; and it enables them to do more at their desks and do it more thoroughly.

By taking the burden of interior calls from your city telephones the P. A. X. prevents giving the rebuff of the busy signal to your business connections.

The McGraw-Hill Company, Inc., for instance, found that the P. A. X. is preventing the turning away of 15,000 city calls yearly.

Your desire to give your patrons just what they want, whenever they want it — as well as increasing organization effectiveness — gives you a double interest in the P. A. X.

Call the office of our Mr. Roger — Telephone Barclay 6532, 46 West Broadway, for details and information.

In spite of heavy "preferred" and government requirements, we can furnish you with P. A. X. systems on relatively short notice.

FLOCK OF GIANTS MIGRATING SOUTH

KAUFF REMAINS BEHIND

Benny Called for Physical Test in Draft and His Sartorial Splendor Is Absent as Squad Departs.

While the Giants were speeding toward sunny Texas yesterday to begin another baseball campaign, Benny Kauff remained behind awaiting examination for the draft. Benny doesn't know just when he will be able to join the Giants. He registered in the draft at his home in Pomeroy, Ohio, and has been notified to appear for physical examination on Thursday. An effort is being made to have Benny take his physical examination here, but it is likely that he will have to go to Ohio.

Kauff was placed in Class 1A and did not claim exemption. He is anxious to get into the army and is just as enthusiastic about his prospects of being a soldier as he is about baseball. Kauff has a physical defect, as one of his arms is shorter than the other. This technicality may bar him, but as he is a powerful specimen of athlete otherwise it is likely that he will be accepted. Manager McGraw has anticipated for some time that he might lose Kauff in the draft and is already planning on placing Joe Wilhoit in centre field in case Benny is called.

Even if Kauff is accepted, he will be able to go on the Spring training trip and will be able to play part of the season with the Giants anyway before he is called to report at one of the training camps.

The splendor of Benny's Spring raiment was missed in the Giants' party which left the Pennsylvania Station yesterday afternoon. In his absence, the haberdashery honors went to young Waite Hoyt, the Brooklyn schoolboy pitcher who is getting his second chance on the Spring training trip of the Giants. Hoyt was sent to Montreal last year, where he won seven games and lost seventeen. He is still inexperienced, but McGraw believes that he has a great future as a pitcher.

Another pitcher who was in yesterday's party was George Smith, the Columbia flinger. The collegian was placed under Mike Doolan at Rochester last season, and won eight games and lost eleven. His future with the Giants will depend on what he shows on the Spring trip.

George Burns, Howard Baker, Jack Onslow, Herman Schaefer, and Mike Hogan, the new catcher from Cohoes, were the other players who left for Marlin Springs in charge of Eddie Brannick of the Giants' executive staff. The Giants will all be in Marlin at the end of the week, and will be in training there about two weeks, when they will start on a tour of exhibition games with the Cleveland Indians. The clubs will play at two of the army camps. A game has been arranged between the teams at Camp Shelby at Hattiesburg, Miss. The Giants will also play the San Antonio team for the soldiers at Fort Sam Houston.

This will be the shortest training trip the Giants have ever taken. In past years, when the training trips were limited to thirty days before the opening of the season, the Giants always went to the Marlin camp late in February. As a result of early training, the New York Club usually got away to a good start, but with favorable weather Manager McGraw believes that his club will be ready when the season begins against Brooklyn at the Polo Grounds on April 16.

The Yankees are gradually getting rid of their excess pitching talent. Bill Piercy, who was tried by Manager Bill Donovan last season and then turned over to Toledo, has been sent to the St. Paul Club of the American Association. Several of the other recruit pitchers are slated to go soon.

Another player joined the Brooklyn fold, the latest to sign being Ray Schmandt, the big first baseman who was drafted last season from the Lincoln (Neb.) club.

Fielder Jones has announced that he will play Fritz Mazel, the former Yank, at third base. Fielder has been looking over Maisel's records of the past few seasons and thinks Donovan made a mistake in taking Fritz out of the infield. Jimmy Austin and Joe Gedeon will fight it out for the second base position.

Lee King, Pittsburgh's right fielder, has been spending the Winter in the coal mines in Pennsylvania, and not long ago received a letter from Manager Hugo Bezdek suggesting that he do some limbering up exercises before the training season starts. King wrote back that he had earned $10.20 that day digging coal and he considered that enough exercise for one day. King was a miner before he went into baseball, but now he says mining pays almost as well as baseball playing.

McGRAW AT HOT SPRINGS.

Giant Manager Looks Over Veterans in Training.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 11.—Manager McGraw of the New York Nationals came here today to look over the progress made by the advance squad sent ten days ago. He said he was pleased with the condition of the men.

Twenty-five members of the Boston American League Club arrived and started Spring training. An advance guard of the Brooklyn Nationals also arrived and began practice.

ON COURTS AT PINEHURST.

Mrs. Cassebeer and Miss Blake Reach Semi-Finals.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 11.—The Pinehurst championship tennis tournament opened here today and two rounds were disposed of in both the men's and women's singles, bringing these divisions of the tournament down to the semi-finals.

Mrs. Theodora Cassebeer, who is generally expected to win the women's singles trophy, took both of her matches today with ease, losing only one game in her preliminary round match with Mrs. Ralph W. Page and taking her first round match against Mrs. J. V. Blake by the same margin. Miss Vesta Blake will oppose Mrs. Cassebeer in the semi-finals.

The favorites in the [illegible] are Christian Mack of the Ann Arbor Club, Michigan, who won a leg on the mid-Winter cup two months ago, and Dwight R. Meigs of the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia. Both won their way easily enough through today's two rounds, Mack disposing of Raymond, Balfe and Alfred Stoddard, and Meigs defeating C. B. Little and J. S. Wilmsen.

DATE FOR NET TITLE PLAY.

National Indoor Tourney to be Held on March 30.

The national indoor tennis championships in men's singles and doubles will begin on the courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory on March 30. The title holder in singles is S. Howard Voshell, but it is unlikely that he will be able to defend this year as he is now in the army. The tournament was originally set for February, but was postponed because of the fuel situation, it being impossible to heat the armory.

Entries close on Wednesday, March 27, at 8 P. M., and the draw in singles will be made at 5:30 P. M. on that day.

GARDNER WINS CUE GAME.

Takes Opening Contest of Pocket Billiard Tourney.

The national pocket billiard championship had rather an inauspicious start at the New York Athletic Club yesterday, both of the games scheduled proving to be dull contests that tried the patience of the spectators. In the afternoon Gus Gardner succeeded in gaining the decision over Charles R. Fulton by a score of 125 to 68, and in the evening match James J. Maloney defeated Thomas A. Plunkett by 125 to 94.

The defeat of Plunkett, who represents the New York Motor Cycle Club, was something of a surprise. It was not long ago that this same player won the championship of the Elks, and with such laurels to his credit much was expected of him in the present national tournament. His play, however, was far from being of a formidable quality last night. This was doubtless in part due to the conditions under which Plunkett was playing.

It is customary for billiard players to find fault with the implements of the game because they do not conform to the highest standard, but in the case of Plunkett the difficulty lay in the fact that conditions were far better than ordinary. He has been playing with composition balls in most of his recent practice games, and the change from those to the ivory spheres at the New York A. C. somewhat disconcerted his play. The same condition was true in the case of Fulton, who was playing in his first national championship.

Maloney played an excellent game at times, but there was a deliberate quality in his work that detracted from the interest. He was methodical, always cautious, and the frequent resort to safety play by each of the contenders extended the contest over a little more than three hours. Maloney went into the lead in the first frame, and from then to the close gradually increased his advantage over the Elks' champion.

Gardner and Fulton also played a game in which safety was the outstanding feature. The men would not cut loose, lacking faith in their ability on combination shots, and not being any too confident on break shots. Fulton made the highest run of the day, a cluster which he brought together in the eleventh and twelfth frames.

The scores:

Gus Gardner—10 14 4 14 3 9 11 10 10 13 1 9 7 11 1. Total—125. High runs—15, 9. Scratches—2.

Charles R. Fulton—4 0 10 0 11 5 3 4 4 1 13 5 7 3. Total—68. High run—18. Scratches—2.

J. J. Maloney—9 9 11 11 4 9 6 9 9 9 6 11 6 4 2 10 7. Total, 125; high runs, 15, 9, 9; scratches, 7.

T. A. Plunkett—5 5 3 3 10 5 8 5 5 5 8 3 8 10 12 4 4. Total, 94; high runs, 11, 7, 7; scratches, 9.

HARVARD LIMITS SPORTS.

Only Track, Baseball, and Rowing Teams to be Formed.

CAMBRIDGE, March 11.—When Harvard decided to continue 'Varsity competition in baseball, crew and track, it was also decided that all the minor sports would be dropped. The Crimson will not be represented by teams in wrestling, swimming, fencing, lacrosse, tennis or golf this Spring. Harvard had organized a fencing team several weeks ago and it competed in one tournament, the event for the Manrique Trophy in Brooklyn. Permission to fence against Yale was refused and the fencing team disbanded, so Harvard will not be represented in the intercollegiate fencing tournament this Spring.

The minor sports were all dropped because Harvard is anxious to experiment, having only 'Varsity competition in the three major sports, under the wartime conditions. If the Spring plan of baseball, crew and track is successful and does not interfere too much with military training at the university, Harvard may have a football team next Fall and the minor sports will all be restored.

Another reason for dropping the minor sports is because these teams are composed of such a limited number of athletes that if any one member should be called to the Government service unexpectedly it would leave the team under a severe handicap.

Activity in the minor sports is being encouraged even if there is no outside competition. Boxing and wrestling tournaments will be held under the auspices of the Athletic Association during the latter part of the month. The fencing candidates have abandoned the foils for the bayonet.

RUNNERS HERE FOR MEET.

Ward and Fall Arrive to Train for A. A. U. Championships.

Andy Ward and Eddie Fall, chief boatswain's mate and chief yeoman, respectively, in the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, arrived here yesterday for the senior national A. A. U. indoor championship meet to be held in the 22d Regiment Armory Saturday night. They will make trips to the uptown armory for the purpose of familiarizing themselves with the track. The armory is open to prospective competitors tonight, Thursday, and Friday.

Ward is outdoor 100 and 220 yard sprint champion, and will strive for the sprinting titles, while Fall is the Conference mile champion, and will compete in the 600 and 1,000 yard races. In the latter event Fall's chief rival will be Joie Ray, the Illinois A. C. flier, who captured the mile race at the Meadowbrook Club games in Philadelphia last Saturday night.

Many of the winning athletes in the Meadowbrook Club games will come on for the championships, including W. Ganzenmuller, the Penn State College sprinter, who captured the 40-yard dash; W. Savage, Bowdoin College, who won the 45-yard high hurdles, and W. G. Maxam, winner of the special 660-yard race. The University of Pennsylvania relay team, Gustafson, Sherman, Landers, Haymond, and Irwin, will also compete in the games, in individual events and in the championship medley relay over one and seven-eighth miles.

A telegram was received yesterday from Clinton Larsen, the high jump champion, stating that the former Brigham Young University all-around athlete is in prime condition for the championships. In a recent meet Larsen won two hurdle events, the running broad jump, the pole vault, got second in the 100-yard dash, and followed by winning the running high jump with an effort of 6 feet 2 inches.

WILLARD SIGNS CONTRACT.

Colonel Miller Announces Negotiations for Bout on July 4.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 11.—Colonel J. C. Miller, a retired ranchman and oil magnate of Oklahoma, announced tonight that he had closed a contract with Jess Willard for a fight to be promoted by Miller on the Fourth of July. Willard's opponent has not yet been selected, and Colonel Miller did not announce the terms of the contract.

Colonel Miller said he would go to Kansas City for a conference with Fred Fulton's manager, but if he could not arrange a match between Willard and Fulton he would open negotiations with Jack Dempsey.

Fulton Knocks Out Cowler.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 11.—Fred Fulton of Rochester, Minn., knocked out Tom Cowler of New York in the fifth round of a scheduled eight-round bout here tonight.

Klinger Makes High Average.

Three matches were played in the handicap balkline tournament at Daly's yesterday. Jacob Klinger, the scratch man, disposed of Harry Stern by 225 to 108. Klinger averaged 11⅞. C. Conway defeated T. Bresnahan 185 to 135, and Fred Lowenthal defeated F. Tobias by 185 to 143.

YANKS GET FIRST PRACTICE OF YEAR

Huggins Has Pitchers and Recruits Working in Morning and Afternoon Sessions.

Special to The New York Times.

MACON, Ga., March 11.—The campaign of the 1918 Yankees under the guidance of the new manager, Miller Huggins, is under way. With little Mr. Huggins in command, ten Yankees have been through their first day's work of the present season. Those ten Yankees are Caldwell, Love, Monroe, McGraw, and Thormahlen, pitchers; Ruel, catcher; Ward, infielder; Vick, Camp, and Lamar, outfielders. Assisting Huggins were Rob Connery, the scout, and Pat O'Connor, coach of pitchers and man-of-all-work.

It was not for a cold, windy day, with a temperature around the freezing point, to stop Huggins on his first day or chill his ardor or congeal his plans. He smiled cynically when told it was the frostiest day in a month, a sort of that's-what-they-all-say smile, but said nothing and took his men out with courage unabated, and with a mien which betokened strict business from now on until October.

Easily, naturally, and with nothing suggesting being forced or rushed, the Yankees under Huggins, such as are here, took up and went through their first day's preparation. They had to listen to a few words from the manager first, and then it was work for the rest of the time—work which kept them busy, but was of easy pace and fundamentals of the usual sort. Huggins lectured the men the first thing on the evils of smoking in the clubhouse and several forms of gambling, and said he wanted none of such dissipations.

There were morning and afternoon sessions, and the weather was not nearly as disagreeable as it promised to be in the morning. There was this feature of the work which stood out. It was of a kind to keep the men engaged all the time, of a kind to permit them to slip into the grind without overdoing anything and so varied as to keep them interested without becoming wearisome, though diamond athletes always go to it on the first day with lively interest.

Huggins changed frequently from one form of practice to another. There was no pitching of any kind—the weather was too frigid for that. The pitchers had plenty to occupy them, however. Huggins bunted to them and had them pursuing fungoes in the outfield. He also sent them around the park for a run.

With Lamar at first, Camp at second, and Ward at short, there was an infield drill of a sort and later a more formal one with the three named to the same positions and Vick at third. There was arm exercise in the form of throwing in this practice, also for Ruel, who was behind the bat, but in the forenoon nobody tried anything more severe than a lob heave. Lamar, Vick, and Camp also constituted an outfield, and the morning's work terminated with batting practice for all hands, with Connery the pitcher for that particular drill.

A different infield combination was lined up in the afternoon—the same players, but arranged differently. Lamar was at first, Vick at second, Ward at short, and Camp at third—three outfielders and one infielder. In the last part of this siege hot shot was poured to the makeshift cordon from the bats of Huggins and Connery, and it was speedy work for awhile.

Ward and Camp were especially nifty at scooping the shrapnel, and Camp buzzed the ball over to first a few times with a burst of speed that made onlookers wonder how his arm would feel on the morrow. It was warmer than in the morning, and the pegging was much sharper.

Huggins was by no means a hard taskmaster, yet there wasn't any loafing by anybody at any time. The little man said little but saw everything.

The players had an interested "gallery," composed of officials and pupils of the collegiate balloon school, which is here preparing pilots for the United States Army, and is under the direction of Evard Thompson, the former Yale manager of athletics, the man who built the Bowl, and of Captain Goodale, who used to do balloon stunts from the Jersey Palisades.

CRYSTAL LADY DAISY BEST.

Gains Premier Honors at Boston Terrier Club Exhibit.

Crystal Lady Daisy, W. Kubach's brindle pup, weighing slightly more than ten pounds, was last night adjudged the best of her sex, and also best dog of the show at the monthly exhibit of the Boston Terrier Club of New York at the Gregorian Hotel. The Kubach entry proved her quality over a field of twenty-one rivals which was reviewed by the judge, Ernest Hano. I. Greenwood's Rowdy gained the honors in the winners' class, dogs.

The annual meeting of the club was held prior to the show. Twenty-five applications for membership in the organization were favorably acted upon, bringing the total membership close to 200. This makes the local terrier club one of the leading organization of its kind in the country.

Daniel P. Ritchey of the Gregorian Hotel was elected President, and Mrs. George H. Pell of White Plains, N. Y., Vice President. William Kubach was chosen Treasurer, Louis E. Rode of Brooklyn, Secretary, and Mrs. F. Dix Taylor, Chairman of the Trophy Committee. The Bench Show Committee is composed of George O. Heinlein, Chairman; Alva B. Rosenberg, Julius Feder, John J. Barrett, S. W. Spencer, Julian M. Platz, Arnold Ruege, John E. Smith, James G. Rossman, Samuel R. Foster, and William F. Kinder.

The annual specialty show of the organization will be held on Oct. 26.

FLANAGAN LOW AT GOLF.

Pittsburgh Player Has Leading Score in Belleaire Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 11.—W. W. Flanagan won the qualifying round in the Belleair amateur championship, which began here today, with a card of 83. The high wind made good scoring almost impossible, and several of the stars had to be satisfied with a 90 or worse. Dr. C. H. Gardner of Agawam required a 91, and T. A. Ashley of Boston, who won the Washington Birthday tournament, took an even 90. About eighty players teed up.

The summary:

W. W. Flanagan, Pittsburgh, 83; Clarence Hobart, New York, 85; T. W. Kennedy, Dubois, Penn., 86; C. A. Mills, Columbia C. C., 89; R. S. Porter, Baltusrol, 89; T. A. Ashley, Woodland, 90; G. Ball, Belleair, 90; Dr. C. H. Gardner, Providence, 91; J. R. Hanley, Bay City, Mich., 91; J. C. Allen, Winnipeg, 92; W. A. Alexander, Old Elm, 93; H. A. Wrenn, Harbor Oaks, 94; D. A. PINEHURRST, N. C., March 11.—The first eighteen holes of the thirty-six-hole silver foils championship golf tournament were played at Pinehurst today on the No. 1 course. Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd led the field by a margin of 2 strokes at the conclusion of the first day's play, finishing in 49, 44—93, with Mrs. Ronald S. Barlow of Philadelphia second in 46, 49—95.

GREEN FIVE OVERWHELMED.

Cornell Easily Disposes of Dartmouth by 44 to 5 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 11.—Dartmouth proved easy for Cornell tonight, and even the substitute five that Sharpe sent against the Green team proved too strong for the visitors, the final score reading 44 to 5. This was the low score for a team in the league this year.

For Cornell Stewart found the basket four times from play and four from the foul line, while Tripp with six field baskets proved himself the shining light of the contest. The first half ended 26 to 2 in Cornell's favor. The second half saw the whole Cornell second team go into the game, holding the visitors to only three points during the period. Cornell ended its season in third place in the intercollegiate league by winning tonight.

The lineup:

Cornell, (44.)	Position.	Dartmouth, (5.)
Stewart	L. F.	Mogridge
Tripp	R. F.	Deane
Karr	C.	Hutchinson
Allen	L. G.	Ainsworth
Kendall	R. G.	Larmon

Field goals—Tripp, (6,) Stewart, (4,) Allen, (3,) Kendall, (3,) Maniasian, (2,) Lurio, Henry, Mogridge, (2.) Foul goals—Stewart, (4,) Hilliker, (1.) Substitutes—Maniasian for Karr, Lurio for Stewart, Lofton for Tripp, Henry for Allen, Huback for Kendall, Sullivan for Deane, Hilliker for Ainsworth. Referee—H. C. Curtis, Oberlin. Umpire—W. C. Hickok, Ithaca Y. M. C. A.

ARTILLERY QUINTET WINNER

Defeats City College Radio School Five by 47 to 26.

The basket ball team of Far Rockaway Coast Artillery trounced the City College Radio School quintet in comparatively easy fashion on the Far Rockaway court last night by the score of 47 to 26. The victorious team held the lead from start to finish of the game. Their margin at the whistle was 20 to 11, and this was materially increased through good team work and accurate shooting in the second half.

The lineup:

Rockaway, (47.)	Position.	Radio School, (26.)
Abrams	L. F.	Taylor
Kelly	R. F.	Owen
Raphael	C.	Becker
Mallow	L. G.	Van Mater
Detrich	R. G.	Lord

Field goals—Abrams, (4,) Kelly, (7,) Raphael, (8,) Mallow, (2,) Taylor, Owen, (3,) Becker, (4,) Van Mater, Lord. Foul goals—Kelly, (3,) Owen (6.) Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

NAVY YARD SKATERS DEFEAT WANDERERS

Local Hockey Seven Loses Chance for Second Place in National League.

Standing of the Teams.

	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Pittsburgh A. A.	10	0	1000
Boston Navy	4	5	.444
Wanderers	3	7	.300
Boston Arena	2	7	.222

The Wanderers hockey seven lost a chance to gain second place in the National Hockey League race last night, when it was defeated by a score of 4 to 3 by the Boston Navy Yard team. It was the closest and hardest fought contest of the series here. The score was tied three different times.

Tom Howard, Jr., at cover point for the jack tars, skated wild all over the ice, and a dazzling piece of work by him early in the second period broke the 3-to-3 tie and gave the navy yard team the victory. In negotiating the winning tally Howard took the puck around his own net and then started up the side of the rink at whirlwind speed. Every Wanderer skater who tried to check him was brushed aside, and Howard slammed the disk at Lewis. The puck hit Lewis's stick and bounded playfully over the barrier into the net.

Boston won through superior combination play. The Wanderers tried to win by individual effort, and there was little co-operation in their work. The Boston skaters backed each other up effectively in every play, and showed some of the prettiest passing of the season. There were times during the forty minutes of play when the game became so fast that the crowd was howling and cheering madly in its enthusiasm. Howard did the most spectacular work.

For the Wanderers, Mickey Roach put up a great fight to overcome the navy yard's lead, and toward the end of the game he repeatedly led assaults on the cage of the sailors, but each time La Croix was able to thrust the drives aside.

Throughout the first period it was any one's game, and the score was continually deadlocked. Downing first scored for the navy from scrimmage, and Crovat tied it up when he shot a goal after taking a pass from Wellington. A long shot from the centre of the rink by Dufresne put the Wanderers in front, but Downing soon tied it again after taking a pass from Hutchinson.

Howard then staged the flashiest play of the game when he broke loose for half the length of the rink, shot the puck to Hutchinson, who quickly relayed it back to Howard as he swept through the Wanderer players and made a shot from what looked like an impossible angle. Just before the end of the period Turk Smith tied the score again.

Navy Yard, (4.)	Position.	Wanderers, (3.)
La Croix	G.	Lewis
Skilton	P.	Dufresne
Howard	C. P.	McCarthy
Hutchinson	R.	Smith
Downing	C.	Roach
Shaughnessy	L. W.	Wellington
Geran	R. W.	Crovat

Goals—First period: Downing in 3:47, Crovat in 4:50, Dufresne in 6:24, Downing in 12:33, Howard in 17:55, Smith in 19:13. Second period: Howard in 1 minute. Penalties: Wellington, 2 minutes for tripping; Skilton, 2 minutes for hooking; Crovat, 2 minutes for tripping; Wellington, 2 minutes for body checking; Howard, 2 minutes for body checking. Referee—John W. McGrath, International Skating Union. Assistant Referee—Harry Denfeshau, Boston A. A. Time of Periods—20 minutes each.

ROGERS PEET COMPANY

Exporting still meets with John Bull's approval.

Seldom a sailing without a shipment for "Rogers Peet"—perhaps it's because of long standing affiliations with the best mills of both England and Scotland.

Anyhow, besides amply caring for her fighting millions, Great Britain still finds it possible to "come across." Considers it one good way to help get cash to win the war.

IBSEN'S 'WILD DUCK' AT THE PLYMOUTH

A Study of Shallow Idealism and Half-Mad Impulses Very Creditably Produced.

MME. NAZIMOVA AS HEDVIG

Arthur Hopkins Provides a Generally Good Cast, with Scenes by Robert E. Jones.

Werle	Dodson Mitchell
Gregers Werle	Harry Mestayer
Old Ekdal	Edward Connelly
Hialmar Ekdal	Lionel Atwill
Gina Ekdal	Amy Veness
Hedvig	Mme. Nazimova
Mrs. Sorby	Norah Lamison
Relling	Lyster Chambers
Molvik	St. Clair Bayfield
Graberg	Adelbert Knott
Pettersen	A. O. Huhn
Jensen	Frederick Gibbs
A Flabby Gentleman	Walter C. Wilson
A Thin-Haired Gentleman	J. H. Wright
A Short-Sighted Gentleman	George Paige

Few of Ibsen's plays are richer in intimate, half humorous studies of character, or more deeply impregnated with an atmosphere of its own, than "The Wild Duck." As opposed to the so-called "positive" plays, such as "Brand," "A Doll's House," and "An Enemy of the People," which centre in the revolt of a vigorous and commanding character, it is "negative," like "Peer Gynt" and "Hedda Gabler," which portray the strivings of shallow and futile people. We have here a study of mistaken idealism working itself out in half-mad impulses to a sordid futility. There is a reason why the play has been hitherto unproduced on Broadway.

The bulk of the play takes place in a photographer's gallery, to which Old Ekdal has been reduced as the result of illegal business practices. He has been, one gathers, more ignorant and careless than criminal, but he has served his term in prison, and his family are social outcasts. His son, Hialmar, is the photographer.

Both are warped and perverted by the ignominy of their lives, but the father has taken refuge from the reality of his fate in rum, and the son in a flabby and vaporous posing. Both are quite happy in their way.

There is a touch of symbolism in a sort of annex to the garret, in which there are rabbits and stray fowl—especially a wild duck which has been crippled by a sportsman and is making herself comfortable in captivity. Old Ekdal, now a dweller in the slums, once loved the forest and was a hunter of big game.

Into this abode of stunted but not unhappy creatures comes Gregers Werle, whose father, Old Ekdal's business partner, has fattened in prosperity through the crime which sent the innocent Ekdal to prison. Gregers is the apostle of "the claims of the ideal," and takes it upon himself to right the wrong wrought by his father.

The photographer's garret seems to him to reek of a moral "marsh vapor," and he takes it upon himself to purify it with the winds of truth. The result is wreck and ruin. Hialmar's wife, Gina, is revealed as a former mistress of Old Werle, and his supposed daughter, Hedvig, as Werle's, not Hialmar's, child. Instead of the expected regeneration the older people sink deeper into the poisoned marsh, and young Hedvig kills herself.

The various characters, though abnormal in the extreme, are drawn in Ibsen's most vivid manner, and with such an intensity of characterization that the audience was frequently moved to laughter. The old garret reeks with the sense of distorted impulses and ingrowing ideals. It is a play that gives scope to the highest art in casting and producing, and in the main Arthur Hopkins has come well through the test.

The Hialmar of Lionel Atwill is the most successful of the performances, the very acme of grandiose futility. Harry Mestayer is not physically the type of Young Werle, being robustly material rather than the thin-blooded idealist, but his performance is capable and effective. As Gina, Amy Veness misses some of the literal good sense and racy humanity of the character, yet manages to keep thoroughly within the picture. Edward Connelly as Old Ekdal and Dodson Mitchell as Old Werle are competent if not distinguished.

The one positive blemish on the production lay in the performance of Nazimova. Hedvig is a child of 13, full of normal and beautiful impulses, infantile affections, and an eagerness for life that, in the manner of children, is at once gay and wistful. Her suicide is one of the most deeply moving catastrophes in the modern drama. Mme. Nazimova elected to wear her hair so bobbed about her ears that it was forever falling forward before her eyes.

The prevailing gesture in her performance was an imperious shake of the head to throw it back in place. The values of her facial expression were quite lost in this meaningless antic. That was no great deprivation, however, for throughout she played at the part instead of embodying it—with the result that her performance was thoroughly mechanical and disillusioning.

The scenes by Robert E. Jones were in his flat and "decorative" manner, and, while good in themselves, were curiously lacking in the atmosphere indispensable to the piece.

War Thrift Concert Tonight.

The War Thrift Concert, intended to raise money for the educational fund of the New York War Savings Committee, will be held at the Metropolitan Opera House tonight. The concert was arranged under the supervision of Charles B. Dillingham, now a Captain in the Aviation Corps, and he was assisted by a volunteer committee of leading theatrical men.

Among the artists to appear are Mme. Louise Homer, who is to sing "The Star-Spangled Banner"; Lucien Muratore, who is to sing "La Marseillaise"; Mabel Garrison, Giovanni Martinelli, Percy Grainger and the 15th Coast Artillery Band, Riccardo Stracciari, Georges Baklanoff, Helen Stanley, Leo Ornstein, Grace Hoffman, Florence Macbeth, Alice Nielsen, Sascha Jacobinoff, and Nahan Franko and his orchestra.

Nora Bayes Hurt; Theatre Is Closed

A slight accident to Nora Bayes of "The Cohan Revue" made necessary the closing of the New Amsterdam Theatre last night. Miss Bayes turned her ankle early in the day, but at first expected to appear as usual. Late in the afternoon it became evident that she would not be able to walk, and the performance was accordingly called off. It is announced that Miss Bayes will appear tonight.

OPERA'S LAST NOVELTIES.

"Shanewis" and Pantomime "The Dance in Place Congo" on March 23.

The Metropolitan's last pair of novelties, both by Americans, are announced for Saturday afternoon of next week, March 23. Mr. Gatti will complete his productions, numbering at least thirty-three since last November, by presenting for the first time on any stage Charles W. Cadman's two-act opera, "Shanewis," or "The Robin Woman," and Henry F. Gilbert's ballet-pantomime, "The Dance in Place Congo." A triple bill, for good measure, will include from the current repertory Leoni's "L'Oracolo," which is also American in scene.

With Alice Gentle in the title rôle of Cadman's opera, others in the cast will be Kathleen Howard as Mrs. Everton, a Californian; Marie Sundelius as Amy, her daughter; Paul Althouse as Lionel, the vacillating hero, and Thomas Chalmers as Philippe, the heroine's faithful Indian suitor. There are also Marie Tiffany, Cecil Arden, Phyllis White, and Veni Warwick, as American school girls in the California bungalow party, and Angelo Bada, Pietro Audisio, Max Block, and Mario Laurenti, as old Indians in the Oklahoma powwow.

Messrs. Moranzoni and Setti have rehearsed the orchestra and chorus, Mr. Ordynski directs the stage, and the two scenes are respectively by James Fox and by Norman and Belle Geddes. Mr. and Mrs. Geddes also designed the native costumes. Oskenonton, the Indian baritone, now with the Henry W. Savage company in "Toot-Toot" at the Cohan Theatre, has given expert advice as to native ceremonies in the Indian scene of "Shanewis."

The principals in Gilbert's "Dance in Place Congo" will be Rosina Galli as Aurore, Giuseppe Bonfiglio as Remon, and Ottokar Bartik as Numa. Mr. Bartik also is responsible for the training of the ballet. Pierre Monteux will direct the performance. Both the costumes and the scene of old Place Congo in New Orleans are from designs by Livingston Platt.

The performance will also conclude with "L'Oracolo," sung by Mmes. Easton and Braslau, Messrs. Althouse, Scotti, Didur, Rossi, and Audisio. Mr. Moranzoni will conduct the one-act opera of San Francisco's Chinatown.

Chamber Music Society Concert.

The New York Chamber Music Society gave its third concert last evening at Aeolian Hall on a stage hung with four American flags, to which was added a new service flag with a star for Engelbert Roentgen, the 'cellist, now at Camp Upton. The society's manager, J. M. Priaulx, also has a son at Camp Dix. Miss Beebe and her ten associate players opened their program by playing "The Star-Spangled Banner" to a standing audience. Beethoven's quintet, Op. 16, for piano and wind instruments, preceded three modern works, of which a quintet for piano, strings and oboe by the veteran French composer, Theodore Dubois, was heard for the first time in New York. There were also a "Pastorale," Op 8, by D. G. Mason, for piano, violin, and clarinet, and a suite by Emmanuel Moor, Op. 103, for all the ten members except the pianist in this excellent ensemble.

The novelty on the new bill at the Palace is designed for the enjoyment of billiard players. Catherine Haywood, Welker Cochran, Maurice Daly, and Albert G. Cutler are among those who compete, with the Billiard Players' Ambulance Fund as the prospective beneficiary.

There is a new Gus Edwards revue, again putting forward the rapidly growing Georgie and Cuddles as the centre of a lively if naïve entertainment, and the Dooley brothers, Gordon and William, again exhibit their remarkable flair for eccentric comedy. Eva Tanguay and Jack Wilson are among the familiar entertainers on the program.

Helen Moller Dancers Add Drapery.

Ethel Leginska Plays for War Work.

Ethel Leginska, an English pianist who has appeared here before, gave a recital in Carnegie Hall last evening, the entire proceeds of which were announced to be devoted to the war work of the Y. W. C. A. of New York. The manager said that several hundred dollars would be the Y. W. C. A.'s share of the concert receipts. Miss Leginska played for the first time Leopold Godowsky's "Angelus," with pieces by Paradies, Scarlatti, Chopin, Balakirew, and Liszt's B minor sonata and "Rigoletto" paraphrase

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Eugene Cowles will join the cast of "Chu Chin Chow," at the Century, on Thursday night. He will appear in the role of Abdullah, hitherto played by the late J. Francis Boyle.

An additional Thursday afternoon performance of Tony Sarg's marionettes will be given at the Punch and Judy this week. Performances will continue to be given on Saturday mornings.

"The Widow's Weed," a comedy drama by Alfred H. Brown and Forrest Crissey, was played for the first time last night by the stock company at the Lexington. It will continue for two weeks.

'TOOT-TOOT' WINS WITH ITS JINGLE

IT IS BASED ON 'EXCUSE ME'

But Some of the Humors of Successful Farce Are Lost in Adaptation—Has Patriotic Motif.

TOOT-TOOT! A musical comedy based on Rupert Hughes's farce, "Excuse Me." Book by Edgar Allan Woolf, lyrics by Berton Braley, music by Jerome Kern. At the George M. Cohan Theatre.

Lieutenant Shaw	Louis A. Templeman
Lieutenant Hudson	Anthony Hughes
Porter	Harry Fern
Mr. James Wellington	Edward Garvie
Mrs. James Wellington	Flora Zabelle
Walter Colt, D. D.	Earl Benham
Mrs. Walter Colt	Louise Groody

Lieutenant Harry Mallory	Donald Macdonald
Marjorie Newton	Louise Allen
Messenger Boy	Lew Renard
A Ballyhoo	Alonzo Price
Pandora Buncombe	Florence Johns
Hyperion Buncombe	Billy Kent

Conductor	Ben Hendricks
Gambler	Alonzo Price
Minister	Louis A. Templeman
Indian Chief	Oskenonton
Karontowanen	Greek Evans
Peter Deerfoot	Albert Racklin

"Toot-Toot!" seen and heard for the first time in New York last night at the Cohan, follows the mode of the moment in musical shows by being based on a successful farce. In this case the groundwork is Rupert Hughes's "Excuse Me," of pleasant memory, and the work of doing it over has been left to Edgar Allan Woolf, who has hitherto made vaudeville his field; Berton Braley, a newcomer to the ranks of lyricists, and a welcome addition, and Jerome Kern, who appears to have any number of tunes at his finger tips.

The result is an entertainment which is quite certain to be popular. The musical numbers are lively and well staged, the girls are as pretty as could be expected, and, finally, the patriotic motif has been deftly worked through the piece. This last has been accomplished with unusual dignity for a musical show, and brings the piece thoroughly up to the minute.

In his handling of Mr. Hughes's material, however, the adapter has not been quite so happy, and a number of the humors of "Excuse Me" are lost in the show at the Cohan. The porter, originally the hit of the piece, goes for nothing in "Toot-Toot!" although this may be due to the fact that he is no longer being played by Willis P. Sweatnam. Throughout the remainder of the piece, also, there is a plentiful sprinkling of vaudeville gags which begin to be wearing as the evening progresses.

While the music plays and the cast sings and dances, however, "Toot-Toot!" is a good show. The best of the songs is a patriotic interpolation, a swinging number, by Lieutenant Emil Breitenfeld, staged with great snap and gusto as a finale to the first act. The lyrics, by Berton Braley, furthermore, are among the best of the season. A song called "It's Greek to Me," for example, is a Greek classic, and there are others almost as good. Jerome Kern's music is tuneful, although, as a whole, it is slightly below his standard.

In addition to these merits "Toot-Toot!" actually boasts good-looking chorus men, and solves the problem of what to do with them by putting them in khaki for the evening.

The numbers which caught the fancy of last night's house, in addition to "The Last Long Mile," were "Let's Go," sung by Donald Macdonald and Louise Allen, and "If," rendered by the same pair plus Billy Kent and Louise Groody. The last-named young woman, incidentally, was the success of the evening so far as the eye was concerned.

Flora Zabelle is now the would-be divorcée, and has several numbers which she enters into with vim. Donald Macdonald smiles and dances much as usual, and the rotund Edward Garvie is as amusing as his part permits. Among the others who emerge with honor are Billy Kent, Earl Benham, and Oskenonton, the Indian.

MME. FARRAR AS THAIS.

Sings Massenet's Heroine to Brilliant House—Amato as Athanael.

"Thais," with Mme. Farrar in the title rôle, was sung to a brilliant house at the Metropolitan last evening, when the heroine again defied recent rigors of wintry weather by appearing in her most remarkable costume, consisting of a light harness of jewels and nothing more above the waist. She was in good voice, and acted with animation.

Clarence Whitehill, owing to a cold, was out of the cast of Massenet's opera, which was heard for the fourth time. Pasquale Amato, at a late hour, in deference to the influential Monday audience, consented to sing the rôle of Athanael, after rehearsing all day with Caruso and others for tomorrow's revival of "The Love of the Three Kings." Mr. Diaz and the rest of the singers in "Thais" appeared as usual, and Mr. Monteux conducted.

NAVAL PARADE TODAY.

1,000 Men from Pelham Bay Station to March Down Fifth Avenue.

New York today will have its first glimpse of 1,000 men from the Pelham Bay Naval Training Station, who at 10 o'clock this morning, accompanied by a band of 110 pieces, will arrive by the subway at Columbus Circle and march, with full equipment, down Fifth Avenue to the 69th Regiment Armory, where they will be quartered until after the Military and Naval Meet, in which they are to take part, to be held at Madison Square Garden Friday, Saturday and Sunday, for the benefit of the Women's Oversea Hospitals, U. S. A. The detachment of men from the Training Station, of which Commander W. B. Franklin is the Commandant, will be in charge of Lieutenant B. C. McCulloch.

Another announcement in connection with the Military and Naval Meet made last night by Mrs. Ogden Mills Reid, who is in active charge of many of the details of the big undertaking, is that Troop K of the New York State Police will arrive here tomorrow evening. This troop of sixty men, under Captain James M. Skiff, are coming to New York through the courtesy of Captain Alfred Wendt, Commander of Squadron A. They correspond to the famous Mounted Police of Canada, and may parade in New York on Thursday morning. While here they will be quartered at Unit No. 5 of the War Camp Community Service at 55 West Twenty-seventh Street.

NORWORTH THEATRE DARK.

Rosenfeld Barred from Giving Performance of "Under Pressure."

In spite of the statement of Sydney Rosenfeld, author and manager of "Under Pressure," that the play would continue, no performance was given last night at the Norworth Theatre. After the performance on Saturday Joseph F. Moran, who leased the Norworth Theatre from Sam Shannon two weeks ago, served notice on Mr. Rosenfeld to vacate. Mr. Rosenfeld refused to do so, claiming that he had leased the theatre from Shannon upon the condition that he should have two weeks' notice before vacating.

Mr. Moran sent representatives to the Norworth Theatre about 7:30 o'clock last night, where they waited with several detectives to see if Mr. Rosenfeld would attempt to give a performance. All the actors in the play arrived at the theatre about 7:45 in response to telegrams received from Mr. Rosenfeld, they said, which stated that the performance would be given as usual. The detectives kept them from entering, and they waited outside the theatre for Mr. Rosenfeld. At 9:30, when he had not yet arrived, they went to his office at the Hotel Flanders. Mr. Rosenfeld had not appeared there, either. It was said at his home, at 438 West 116th Street, that he had gone to Philadelphia.

'MRS. WARREN'S PROFESSION'

Play Revived with Mary Shaw at the Comedy—Police Attend.

The Washington Square Players, as their fifth and final subscription program at the Comedy, last night produced Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession," with Mary Shaw borrowed for the occasion to play her old part of Mrs. Warren. Considerable tumult was raised by the original production of this piece in America, ten or a dozen years ago, but it was revived for a few performances last season without interference. Representatives of the Police Department attended last night's performance at the Comedy.

Diantha Pattison made her first appearance with the Players as Vivian Warren, and the male rôles were played by Arthur Hohl, Robert Strange, Saxon Kling, and Samuel Jaffe.

Lotta Madden Makes Her Debut.

Lotta Madden, a young and unheralded singer from the West, with one of the best soprano voices heard this season, made her début at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. She reminded many hearers of Florence Hinkle in respect of vocal quality and purity of style, especially in old Italian airs of Traetta and Paisiello. There were songs by Beethoven and Peter Cornelius, Debussy, Chausson, and others, and a final group by a New York writer, Mabel Wood Hill. Miss Madden was assisted at the piano by Francis Moore.

Ran Auto Into Mayor's Tree.

Max Singer, 49 years old, of 288 Pulaski Street, Brooklyn, appeared in Gates Avenue Police Court yesterday in answer to a summons issued by Policeman Conrad of the Ralph Avenue precinct, who charged him with operating his automobile in a reckless manner. On Sunday afternoon an auto operated by Singer swerved from the roadway and crashed into a tree in front of 959 Bushwick Avenue, the home of Mayor John F. Hylan. Singer told the Magistrate that a particle of dust was blown into his eye by the high wind which prevailed, and that he lost control of his automobile. He was paroled pending an examination Friday.

Women Raising Ambulance Fund.

A drive has been started by the Women's Auxiliary of the Harlem Board of Trade to raise funds to purchase and maintain one or possibly two ambulances for use with the American troops in France. The drive was started at a patriotic rally held in the rooms of the board on Lenox Avenue last night, where $150 was raised. Private Joseph G. Williams of the 2d Canadian Engineers told of his three years' experience at the front.

20 SCULPTORS SHOW WORK OF THREE DAYS

Paul Manship Carries Off Laurels in Humoresque in Exhibit at Mrs. H. P. Whitney's Studio.

In Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's studio, 8 West Eighth Street, there is an exhibition of what is called "Indigenous Sculpture." It follows an exhibit of work similarly done in painting. Twenty sculptors were invited and given three days to do any kind of work they liked. The clay was furnished and they brought their own tools. They were at liberty to work all of the three days or any period during the time that they pleased. The result is interesting, and some fine work has been turned out, as well as a few humorous pieces.

The strength of the work is accentuated by the roughness of the clay in such pieces as James E. Fraser's pair of horses, "Storm Driven," and Mahonri Young's "Sailor." There is grace as well as muscular force in E. McCartan's "Acrobat," standing on the toes of one foot and grasping the other, raised high in the air with the arm over the head. Laura Gardin-Fraser shows a couple of finely muscled wrestlers in action. Hunt Diedrich has one of the larger pieces of the exhibition, "Death on Horseback," and Jo Davidson has a fine portrait head. There are humorous pieces, a "Mrs. Dog," standing, wearing feminine robes, the head dressed on either side with natural yellow tulips, both now wilted, and a lorgnette and a silver crown made of tinfoil. Another figure, which has the appearance of a Chinese idol, holds in one outstretched hand a single little white natural blossom, also wilted.

Paul Manship carried off the laurels in the sculpture humoresque. He shows in "The War Waif" a seated female figure, which is a combination of over and under development. The head is enormous, with curls like lead pipe, an infinitesimal mouth, eyes large, set on, and minute feet. Mr. Manship's "Fallen Angel," a female figure, wears overdeveloped wings and one small, high-heeled slipper. The wings droop, the tips touching the floor, and form what seems to be a chair, in which the lady is sitting. The snakelike strands of her hair stand straight in the air. The fallen angel has the effect of having fallen before prohibition days.

Mrs. Whitney is one of the exhibitors, and a tiny piece of sculpture has been created in her honor. It stands on the mantel piece, and is crudely put together. On a pedestal, standing, is a slender figure of a woman, and strenuously attempting to storm the position are admirers, clambering up the pedestal. There is a base to this pedestal, and on it are the words:

"Erected in admiration of the woman and sculptress who can cage twenty sculptors without bloodshed resulting therefrom."

At a later date, soon to be announced, the sculpture and also the "indigenous" paintings will be sold for the benefit of some charity. What that will be has not yet been decided, but it will probably be for the benefit of American artists who go to the front. The exhibition will continue for two weeks.

MR. KITCHIN'S WAR FINANCE BILL.

The War Finance Corporation bill is to be taken up for debate in the House today in the form agreeable to Mr. Kitchin. He allows President Wilson half the sum he asks for "as a necessary war measure." Mr. Kitchin proposes political qualifications and disqualifications for the Directors of the corporation. Nobody could wish that politics should play any part in connection with such a matter, but it was left for Mr. Kitchin to suggest it by forbidding it. Mr. Kitchin fears sordid and selfish motives on the part of the unnamed managers of the nation's funds and prohibits such motives too. He discovers discrimination between different classes of financial institutions and enacts equality by an amendment. This does not exhaust the list of Mr. Kitchin's improvements in the Administration's proposals, but it suffices to indicate their quality.

There is no intention of wholesale condemnation in saying that if it were necessary to take or leave the amendments as a whole it would be better to reject them. One reason is that Mr. Kitchin tries to use the same methods in his banking amendments as in his revenue legislation by putting excessive details into a statute. He brings forward his elaborate amendments of the proposals of men who have earned confidence at the same time that his revenue legislation has been marked for disapproval at the earliest feasible time. If he could have foreseen the universal condemnation of his tax methods, apart from the sums to be paid under them, he never could have proceeded with them. It is necessary that a lawmaker should be something of a prophet, for laws look to the future. The failure of Mr. Kitchin as a seer of results of laws creates a presumption against him as a prophet of how the original War Finance Corporation bill would work, and of better results from his amendments.

How does he know what the progress of the war may make necessary? If his amendments should be approved under the conditions of today, it is sure that they would be less suitable under conditions which will alter certainly, while the statute by the minuteness and rigidity of its provisions will prevent conformity to the new conditions. If his amendments were proposals of by-laws for the guidance of the Directors, the same objections would not apply in the same degree, for the Directors could alter them. But it takes months or years to alter a statute, and there might arise urgent cause when Congress was not even in session. Bankers are suspect with Mr. Kitchin. He assumes that they are ignorant of banking and are presumably of a character which requires watching and restraint. From that point of view his amendments are intelligible. But if it is assumed that the War Finance Corporation will be administered by competent bankers of good character, the less that is put into the statute the better. Any reasonable thing asked for by the Administration, on its responsibility for war results, should be conceded until such time as it may forfeit confidence.

At the very best that can be said of Mr. Kitchin's proposals, they raise questions which must be debated. Thus there is a certainty of delay, with small prospect that the delay will be profitable. Apart from the merits of the amendments, delay is undesirable when the President is asking haste and the leaders of the House on both sides are arranging for special rules to hurry up what ought to have been done long ago. In the words of Mr. Pou, leader of the opposition:

> We will appeal to the members to do less talking and more voting. Too many speeches are being made simply to get a man's name in the Congressional Record for campaign use. Congress seems to have forgotten that the war is going on in the scramble for re-election.

That would be a good policy to be adopted on both sides of the House.

SOCIALISM INTERESTED AT LAST.

What could not be accomplished by the ravaging of Belgium, the destruction of Montenegro, the slaughter of Poland, the crushing of Serbia, the devastation of Armenia, the assault on France, and the long series of outrages on the United States, seems to have been accomplished by Germany's assault on Russia. That is, it has shocked a number of Socialists into considering whether it would not be well to take the side of the United States as against Germany in this war. We are not here referring to those American Socialists, like Russell and Spargo, who from the first declared themselves for outraged and endangered liberty as against the oppressor. We are referring to a number of those who sided with the oppressor until he committed what in their eyes is the unpardonable sin—until he laid rude hands on the edifice of Bolshevism.

They had been told that the would-be despot of the human race would have no more mercy on Bolshevism than on democracy, but they listened to such warnings with winks. The warnings were the patter of capitalism, mere cries of "wolf." They disregarded the warnings even of Independent Socialists in Germany itself, such as Bernstein, who told them they were endangering socialism. It took Germany's blow in the face of Bolshevism to strike the superior smirk from their mouths and awaken them to realities.

Now these awakened Socialists, who would by no means fight for America, who would by no means fight for Belgium or for Poland or for liberty, are talking of raising "Red Guards" to fight for Russia. There arises a demand that the Executive Committee shall meet and rescind or amend its pro-German declaration of last May. It is said that Mr. Hillquit is favorable to the idea. But it will be noticed that this kind of talk comes from Socialist centres in which the Russian element is strongest; we do not hear it from those in which the German element is strongest. We do not hear a word of it, for instance, from Wisconsin, where Victor Berger is standing four-square on that disloyal May declaration. Internationalism seems to simmer down to nationalism after all, when it is your own ox that is gored.

GERMANY AND THE NORTHERN NEUTRALS.

The recent concerted bitter attack upon the northern European neutral countries in the German press, evidently by direction of the Berlin Government, is mainly a repetition, with added emphasis, of what the same controlled papers have been saying for several weeks past, during the progress of negotiations for the trade agreements of those countries with the United States. While the greater emphasis may be due to German successes in the north, the acquisition of Finland and the Aland Islands included, these trade compacts were the original cause of German anger and hostility. There is an abundance of published evidence. For example, on Jan. 24 prominent German papers warned the neutrals that they would be punished for "selling themselves to our enemies," and the Kölnische Zeitung said:

> It is easy to see the double object pursued by America with shameless insolence—first, to cut off Germany and her allies completely from all trade with neutrals, and thus to make the barbaric starvation scheme of the English effective; and, second, to make neutral tonnage subservient to the needs of America and her robber allies.

What have the Central Powers lost? For a long time Germany was importing iron of fine quality from Sweden, receiving from that source, it is estimated, more than half of the quantity consumed in her munition factories. Norway sold to her food, nickel for torpedoes, and other metals. A daily meat train crossed the boundary from Denmark, and food of many kinds came in from Holland. These supplies are reduced by at least 75 per cent., owing mainly to the new agreements, although the neutrals now have not so much to sell. At the same time Germany sees 2,100,000 tons of Norwegian, Dutch, and Swedish shipping, about 400 vessels, chartered to our Government or the Allies. Many of these will carry foodstuffs to Germany's foes in Europe, and some will release American ships for the transportation of troops to France. The needs of their own people and industries compelled the neutrals to accept the terms which the Berlin Government denounces.

All of these countries—even Sweden, whose royal family, aristocracy, and army have been pro-German—must now expect Germany's hostility. How will it be shown? Warning has been given that their ships will be torpedoed. But this will not be a new manipulation of enmity, for nearly 1,300 of their vessels have already been sunk; and several thousand sailors went down with them or were killed in lifeboats. Norway lost 12 ships last month. There is complaint at Berlin that the Norwegian press "minimizes German successes." It has not minimized the destruction of 726 ships. The neutrals' sea commerce will be attacked, but in this there will be nothing new. They should consider in conference the question whether they ought not now to become openly the foes of this enemy, and as belligerents to join those with whom they have made the trade agreements so sharply attacked at Berlin.

REASSURING THE FARMERS.

Mr. Hoover will find it difficult to reassure both the farmers and the consumers of farmers' products regarding the regulation of prices. He truthfully says that he has named maximums for only wheat and sugar. He has assisted beyond that only in arranging agreements on prices for other products, such as milk. There is no contradiction of Mr. Hoover in the fact that other prices have risen because of the prices he has fixed. It is not possible to raise the price of wheat without raising the price of all substitutes for wheat. Oats are high because wheat is high, and the same is true of corn. The consumers' grievance is not that prices move together upon the regulation of any one of them, but in the fact that the movement is not proportioned to the regulation.

Prices have been increased in greater proportion than production, and sundry commodities have not reflected their established ratio of prices under normal conditions. Corn has been out of its relation to wheat in price, although corn has been abundant and wheat has been scarce. The moment an artificial price turns consumers toward a substitute the substitute gains abnormally in value. Mr. Hoover knows it well, and is baffled by it, as the British regulators have been, although his regulation has been more successful than theirs, and in their interest rather than in the interest of American consumers, apart from their superinterest in the winning of the war. For that reason they submit to Mr. Hoover's benevolent regulations cheerfully.

It was the Fuel Director's misfortune that he inherited a false step in price regulation, and has not been able to work out from under its handicap. The Directors of Food and Railways have sought constantly to stimulate production, for two reasons. First, the disturbance of prices has been the result rather of defective distribution than of inadequate production, and prices will decline with the betterment of distribution processes. Second, because plenty is the best remedy for scarcity and scarcity prices. Food which is cheap nominally and unprocurable in fact fills no stomachs and silences no complaints. Rather it inspires complaints against the regulators. Too low rates are no compensation for deficiency of railway service. Experience has placed emphasis rather upon supply than price, and the Directors of Foods and Railways will be popular and successful so long as they continue to increase the supply of what the public needs.

THE WEEKLY WAR REVIEW.

There seem to be inspiration and information, as well as ginger, in the latest War Department review of the military operations in Europe and Asia. It appeared exactly a week from the day on which Major Gen. Peyton C. March, just returned from France, assumed the duties of Chief of Staff. It reflects, in stating that "we now "have troops in the trenches at four "separate points," and in announcing that the Americans hold four and a half miles of front in the Toul sector, the General's opinion that the censorship has taken a wrong view of its responsibility, judged by its consistency in suppressing military information that it would be wise to publish.

Whoever wrote the new weekly review received some "tips" from General March. Why shouldn't the American people know from official sources where their troops are, and how long is the line which the main force holds? The enemy's airmen with their binoculars can tell the difference between the French and the American soldiers, and the airmen's reports are confirmed by raiders. "We now hold four and "a half miles of the battlefront in our "principal sector," says the official statement, as if it came straight from General March himself. Elsewhere the American people are told:

> In our Toul sector the Germans are carrying on extensive preparations, continuing to bring up fresh units and accumulating material, apparently with a view to undertaking more extensive operations.

The American people will now begin to study their war maps (The New York Times recently issued a very useful set of them) with an intelligent and lively interest. They have been prepared for an assault by the Germans in force in the Toul sector, and at the first sign of initiative on the part of the enemy, heavy artillery fire or activity in the air, or both, the maps will come out and the fortunes of the American Army will be followed with tense absorption from day to day. It is a wise relaxation of the censorship that quickens interest in the war. When the American people know where and how the army is fighting in France, "The Star-Spangled Banner" will have a greater thrill than ever, and it will be played more and more.

The new edition of the War Department's review is bold in conclusion. "The key positions of the war are France and Flanders," it says. Offensives elsewhere are described as "diversions." If this judgment does not come from the new Chief of Staff, whose is the inspiration? Like Haig and Robertson, he belongs to the school that believes the war will be decided in the west. It is not news that the Germans are strenuous in the neighborhood of Rheims and in Alsace, but there is no mistaking the professional view when the fact is put in this form: "We note that the enemy "has developed two principal axes of "activity, the one pivoting on Rheims, "the other in Alsace, in front of "Lunéville." For the present the storm signals seem to be flying there.

For the first time the account of operations has a certain moving picture quality about it. It seemed to be perfunctory before; now it has life and color. The vernacular is used. Thus of a feat of the British: "They "were able to mop up the enemy "trenches in short order." What is said about the work of the American soldiers leaves no room for doubt that they are keeping the enemy on the jump and acquitting themselves already like veterans of the trenches. Between the lines of the following statement can be read General March's conviction that the Germans will not break through: "The morale of the "French and British forces has never "been better. They are keenly anx-"ious to give battle to the enemy, "confident of their superiority." The influence of the acting Chief of Staff, who is rather famous for his moral courage, will evidently be used to put sense in the censorship, and the American people may look forward to a weekly review of military operations that will be readable and informing.

PURE WATER ASSURED.

Who can object to the proposal for a park on the Croton watershed? Clearly only those who would prefer to see a hospital there. The substitution of the park for the hospital is one of those things that argue themselves. The case is all the stronger because the site of the park—or hospital—has already been paid for by the State, with the larger part of the cost falling upon this city, whose drinking water it was proposed to expose to risk of defilement as though by malice.

The insane will not suffer by New York City's gain. The State already has a hospital for the insane which it is proposed to enlarge, of course with the assistance of this city's usual contribution to support of State activities. All that New York City asks is that it shall not be exposed to the necessity of drinking water that may be poisoned by defilement from a State institution planted on land cleared for sanitary purposes at the city's cost.

It is amazing that this proposal should have been argued for ten years and that "up-State" would have succeeded in carrying through its pollution proposal except for Governor Whitman's declaration that his signature could not be had. It has been a hard and long fight on the part of the Merchants' Association, and the Chairman of its Water Committee is to be congratulated, as well as the city.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Faithful to the New Allegiance.

Loyalty and Americanism could hardly be expressed in words with more of vigor or less of qualification than they have received in a resolution adopted and sent to President Wilson by the District Superintendents of the ten German-speaking conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States, recently assembled in convention in Des Moines, Iowa.

The Superintendents begin by saying that the German Methodists have been brought under suspicion by "the questionable attitude of some citizens and residents" and their "utterances of sympathy with the Prussian autocracy." This is a little less definite than it well might be, but the meaning is clear enough, and the Superintendents proceed to declare their condemnation of the "citizens and residents" whom they do not name, and they explicitly assert that "our branch of Methodism is not playing politics in the interest of a foreign potentate," that "we are positive that in the world crisis now upon us the American spirit as voiced by our President is the right spirit," and that he has correctly formulated the only principles on which can be gained a peace worth having. Here is the final paragraph of the resolution:

> We hereby pledge the President of the United States that we will not only stand by him, but travel with him in the complete patriotic program of the Government until the military power of the German Government is defeated and permanent peace is assured on the basis of righteousness. Without mental reservation, we pledge our powers and efforts to the dissemination of light on the subject of right thinking and action wherever and whenever it is needed.

For "citizens and residents" of like origin as these Superintendents, but of different minds, these words make sorry reading, and they will not be pleasing in Berlin, though there they will confirm certain previously formed fears that not much in the way of effective assistance for the Hohenzollerns is to come from the German-Americans.

Inquiries Unwisely Addressed.

It is not surprising that in answer to questions sent to Sheriffs in the several counties of this State by an Assemblyman who wanted light and leading in regard to the bill increasing by one company the State Constabulary, fourteen of these officials opposed the measure and that in varying degrees of vehemence they declared the new force worthless and expressed a desire that it be decreased or abolished rather than enlarged. What is just a little surprising is that eight Sheriffs favored the proposed addition and declared that the State Constables were doing good and needed work.

Assemblyman Donohue should have gone to other sources for the information he needed, not to men upon whose competence to do the work theoretically expected of them and their deputies the very existence of a State Constabulary is an obvious reflection. Of course it happens, now and then in the rural districts, that somebody is elected Sheriff with both ability and inclination to deal with crime and criminals effectively. The office, however, has long tended to be one purely political, with occupants elected for reasons quite other than aptitude for the performance of duties requiring skill as detectives and courage in the apprehension of evildoers. But it is natural that the Sheriffs as a class do not want to have their official importance diminished in the eyes of their constituents, and that is what the State Constabulary tends to do in exact proportion to its efficiency.

If, as is said by a majority of the Sheriffs who have answered Mr. Donohue's inquiries, the New York Constables are not doing good work, there is something wrong in the way they are selected and managed. What can be accomplished by means of such a force, when properly organized and administered, has been so well demonstrated in Pennsylvania that its possibilities in the preservation of law and order and in making the countryside safe are no longer matters of discussion. And that even eight Sheriffs lauded the services of the New York Constables and urged the creation of one or more new companies of them is satisfactory evidence that here, too, the experiment has been a success.

Rank and Title Their Due.

To give military rank and titles to women nurses is a proposal likely to excite opposition at first thought, but experience has taught both the British and the Canadians that to do so tends strongly to increase the efficiency of the nurses whose work is done for wounded soldiers. That, in itself, is enough to justify our own adoption of the plan, and, such being the case, the change cannot be made too quickly.

Certainly it should precede the great battles with heavy casualties through which our men will sooner or later be going. Never before, as in this war, has the line between civil and military tended to fade away. Peoples, not armies, are now engaged, and the nurses in both the advanced and the base hospitals are as really a part of the fighting force as are the soldiers. And there is much in names, especially in dealing with soldiers. Every army surgeon knows how much more easily he can control his patients now than in the old days when they all addressed him as "Doc" and obeyed him or not as they chose. The military nurse would derive a like advantage from being a Lieutenant or a Captain, for it is not soldier habit to trifle with the wearers of those titles.

And not only do the nurses have a training hardly less arduous than that by which men are prepared for the firing line; to a considerable extent they share the dangers of the front and they often die for their country as bravely and in the same way as the active combatants.

This Rule Should Be General.

When the keeper of a hotel or restaurant fails to obey the orders—which now have all the force of laws—issued by the Food Administration with respect to the observance of "days," he lays himself open to the strong suspicion of actual disloyalty—of deliberately trying to weaken the United States and to help its enemies. The offense is, therefore, a most grave one, and the punishment of it should be prompt and severe.

The first penalty that comes to mind is publicity—the disclosure of just who the men are who refuse to consider national interests, putting above them their own certainly and those of the Kaiser probably.

But why is not the same discipline applied to butchers and bakers that the Federal officials are enforcing against the hotel and restaurant men? It is neither right nor consistent that the butchers should sell forbidden meats, and the bakers forbidden breads and cakes and pies, on days when those foods should not, but assuredly will, be consumed if trade goes on as usual.

It is irritating to "hooverize" when one feels that the sacrifices made are not general—that they are brought to nothing, or at any rate to less than they should effect, merely because other people are indifferent or disloyal.

ART NOTES.

The Macbeth Galleries are showing their annual exhibition of "Thirty Paintings by Thirty Artists." Standing out in the collection is a large canvas on the rear wall of the galleries, a marine by Emil Carlsen—blue sea, blue sky, and high foaming surf dashing over the rocks. It is flanked on one side by Frederick C. Frieseke's "The Blue Kimono," doubled by its wearer's reflection in a mirror, and on the other side by Richard E. Miller's "A Sunny Morning," all delicate tones, a woman with hair of a pale shade of red reclining in a lounging chair, a work basket on the ground beside her and a pale green parasol making a pretty note of color in the picture. An unusual composition is Ivan G. Olinsky's "The Song." There is the standing figure of a charming young girl, the delicacy of the molding of her features repeated in the molding of the slender wrist and hand which holds her music. The figure is thrown out by a background in glorious tones of purple. There is another figure in the picture, almost concealed by that of the girl, a man seated at the piano.

Charles Melville Dewey has a delightful landscape in the softest of olive greens with faint touches of equally soft blue. Elliott Daingerfield in "Golden Fields," shows two women at work in the Autumn fields, rich in golden tones, burning the brush. "Gold and Blue" by H. Dudley Murphy shows the brown red fields of Autumn, a few trees in the same warm hue, standing out against great banks of white clouds outlined by a deep blue sky. F. Luis Mora has two brilliant but different types of women in "Two Brunettes," in brilliantly flowered robes. A strong contrast is to be seen in Thomas W. Dewing's "The Lady with a Palm Leaf Fan," a delicate sweet-faced, sitting figure, wearing a gown of a soft tan shade, the hair striking a not much deeper note. In the lap lies the fan. There is a peculiar background, red, because it can be called nothing else, but a soft and indescribable shade. Childe Hassam shows the "New Haven Green," Willard L. Metcalf a delightful Winter scene in "Falling Snow." Arthur B. Davies's "Redwood Grove" is there and Douglas Volk has a soft-eyed "Hopi Maiden," holding in her lap a characteristic pottery bowl, sitting outlined against a rock, a pool of water just below.

The French Government loan exhibition at the Brooklyn Museum, which was to have closed on March 17, will be continued until Sunday, March 31. The attendance at the museum up to date has been over 40,000.

The exhibition of etchings loaned by J. Pierpont Morgan, on view at the print gallery of the New York Public Library, is to remain on view until April 18 instead of closing on March 31.

The exhibition of the sculptures of Gaston Lachaise will be continued at the Bourgeois Galleries for another week.

GERMANY AND MEXICO.

An Answer to the Newest Propaganda from German Sources.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You publish a cablegram from The Hague, Holland, to the effect that Germany is scheming to get all the Mexican trade after the war. It is alleged by pro-Teutonic interests that if Germany cleverly and tactfully uses the opportunity which Mexico presents she will eventually have all our commerce and riches; it is also said in that cablegram that Mexico, with the exception of Spain and Sweden, is Germany's only and best friend, and, furthermore, that if Mexico is now obliged to import from the United States this is only a temporary necessity, as Mexicans hate Americans as much as they like Germans.

Permit me to say that every word of the above statement is false. Mexico is not Germany's best friend, in the sense which they want to use that sentence; they cannot control our trade, nor do the Mexicans hate the Americans. It is all German intrigue and Kaiser propaganda.

In regard to the feeling between the people of Mexico and the people of the United States, may I recall thirty-five years of cordial and sincere friendship, thirty-five years of steady progress and peace, during which we have met every moral, financial, national, and international obligation, as well as those to humanity and civilization, without any cost to your people in time, blood, or treasure, during which one hundred thousand Americans lived in our midst, and we have granted them all and more than they have asked for, always treating them and regarding them as our best friends?

Americans have suffered in Mexico, yes; but not because they are Americans. There has been no discrimination against American people because they are American people, while Mexicans were protecting the interests and lives of other foreign colonies; no, Americans, like Englishmen, like Frenchmen, like Germans, like Spaniards, like Mexicans, too have suffered the consequences of a social revolution which, in turn, is the consequence of a long, vigorous, cruel, personal government of General Diaz and the short, corrupt, and usurped government of General Victoriano Huerta. But as to the hate of Mexicans for Americans, there is no such thing, except in the German minds, and for their own purpose.

As to the trade of Mexico, Germany cannot control our industries and commerce now or after the war. We trade chiefly with the United States, because we are neighbors, and transportation is short and cheap; because we have land and water communication; because there is a natural intercourse and a necessary exchange of merchandise between the two countries that no German activities or propaganda can prevent or interfere with. We sell you coffee, cocoa, rubber, gum, sisal, hides, all kinds of lumber, especially mahogany, all kinds of metal, especially copper, lead, silver, &c., and we buy from you cotton, coal, automobiles, pianos, typewriters, locomotives, all kinds of machinery, steel, &c., and this trade is increasing every day, instead of decreasing now or after the war.

During the last two years the volume of trade between our two countries has not only equaled what it was before the revolution but is larger than at any time during the life of the two nations.

From this you will see how inconsistent is the statement coming from German sources that Germany will take hold of the Mexican trade and commerce after the war.

Anti-Suffragist Votes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A few nights ago The Evening Sun ended an editorial with the following words: "The way the women turned out to vote proves they really wanted the ballot." I at once wrote a letter challenging the logic of this statement. As the number of women who vote has constantly been misused to prove that women want the ballot, I beg that you will give space to the letter.

"You must be perfectly aware of the fact," I wrote, "that hundreds and thousands of women who did not want the ballot have been urged to vote, not to prove that they wanted to, but to prevent traitors from being elected to office. It is a 'bit thick,' as our English friends say, to be forced to the voting booth against our will, from patriotic motives, and then on top of that to be held up as a proof that women have always wanted to vote! If a prohibition law is passed, would the number of citizens who obey the law and refrain from drinking be accepted as an evidence of the number of persons who had always been in favor of prohibition? I remember what a howl went forth a few weeks ago when I suggested in the columns of The Times that anti-suffragists should refrain from voting in order to prevent this absurd argument from being made—i. e., that a large number of women voters meant a large number of suffragists. And here it comes! If we anti-suffragists refuse to vote, we are held up as unpatriotic. If we vote, we are proving that we always wanted to vote! A bit thick, indeed!"

The Definition of "Pacifist."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

No confusion ought to be possible in regard to the use of the words "pacifist" and "pacifism." As defined in Larive et Fleury's dictionary, a pacifist is a "partisan of pacifism," and pacifism is the "doctrine of the partisans of peace at any price." As yet, the words do not appear in Murray's dictionary. When they do, undoubtedly the same definitions will be given. There seems, therefore, to be no authority for assuming that the words "pacifist" and "pacifism" have any other than a meaning of reproach.

However, those who object to their use—not abuse, since they have never been incorporated into the language with an honorable sense attached to them—might be willing to accept the terms "defeatist" and "defeatism," (from the French "defaitiste" and "defaitisme.") A "defeatist" differs from a pacifist in that, by his cowardly or treasonable attitude, he weakens the moral fibre of his fellow-citizens and thereby invites defeat. Many consider that between a pacifist and a "defeatist" the difference is so small as to be a negligible quantity.

SOLDIERS OF DELIVERANCE.

Not for conquest, not for loot,
Lance at hip and spur at boot,
As the barbarous Uhlan horde
Over stricken Belgium poured,
Not to widen our domain
Over all the world to reign,
Staking new claims in the Sun
Like the all-devouring Hun,
But that in the world advance,
Each may have an equal chance,
Marching for deliverance.

That the nations, small and great,
Learn the word co-operate,
Safe from any single race,
Seeking in the Sun a place,
Riding over all roughshod
With their backs to Love and God;
Smitten thus with holy ire,
Do we face the battle fire,
Pledging true allegiance,
Striking hands with bleeding France,
Marching for deliverance.

ROSE MILLS POWERS.

FOR CITY OWNERSHIP.

Citizens Union Will Co-operate with Mayor at Hearing in Albany.

The Citizens Union will back the city administration in its attempts to have the Legislature act favorably on the Wagner-Donohue Municipal Ownership bill. The union, it was announced yesterday, will be represented at the hearing today at Albany before the Joint Cities Committee of the Senate and Assembly and will submit amendments which, in the judgment of the organization, will tend to improve the form of the proposed legislation. In announcing the position of the union, Secretary R. E. McGahen said:

"The Citizens Union has for several years taken the position that all the cities of the State should be granted power to acquire, maintain, and operate public utilities. It has supported in the past a simple amendment to the general city law, which, if enacted, would have included this among the general powers conferred by statute upon cities. Such a bill was introduced in the Legislature this year by Assemblyman William C. Amos. The union withheld its support of the original Wagner-Donohue bill because of fundamental defects in its form. These have in the main been eliminated in the new bill, and, with certain amendments which will be suggested at Albany this week, we consider it an excellent proposal."

Mayor Hylan will leave this morning at 8:30 o'clock for Albany to be present at the hearing. He is expected to return this evening.

RENEWS DR. MUCK PROTEST.

Mrs. William Jay Inquires Why Conductor Is Not Barred Here.

Mrs. William Jay, a member of the Board of Directors of the Philharmonic Society of New York, conducted by Josef Stransky, issued a statement last evening in regard to the scheduled appearance of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and its conductor, Dr. Karl Muck, at Carnegie Hall tomorrow, in the Boston organization's final trip outside its home city this season.

Mrs. Jay, with former Justice George L. Ingraham, Mrs. Carolyn Kane Wright, and Mrs. William P. Douglas, recently protested to Major Henry L. Higginson, founder of the Boston Orchestra, against retaining the conductor, who had voluntarily placed his resignation in Major Higginson's hands at the start of this season, following America's entry into the war.

In her statement Mrs. Jay says that Major Higginson "persists in disregarding the protest," which she recently caused to be printed, with his reply, as well as a second rejoinder from herself and the others named, in a local society magazine.

Major Higginson, in his reply to the original protest of the New Yorkers, said that their proposals, if carried out, would mean that his orchestra would have to disband. He asked if Mrs. Jay and her associates wished to assume the responsibility of throwing out of employment a hundred musicians, more than three-quarters of whom were Americans.

The statement last night recalled that when the Boston Orchestra was barred by the Department of Justice from Washington, Dr. Muck received permission to play elsewhere. "This occurred months ago," Mrs. Jay added. "And may I ask why, if Dr. Muck is a dangerous alien in Washington, should he be considered a harmless alien in New York, the great American port and centre of all but Federal activities?"

After remarking that some subscribers, including herself, had left their seats vacant at recent concerts, Mrs. Jay says that she has received messages from other persons, of whom she mentions Miss Elisabeth Marbury and Mrs. Clarkson, the latter telling her that she would not occupy her box on Thursday night.

Mrs. Ashton Clarkson telephoned The Times last night that she had heard of the movement to show disapproval of subscribers at the last of the Boston concerts, and that she shared that disapproval but was averse to any violent manifestations of it.

TO SIMPLIFY TAX RETURNS.

Commissioner Notes Cases in Which Reports Are Not Required.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Regulations were issued today by the Internal Revenue Commissioner clarifying the War Revenue Act's requirement that each person or business interest making a payment of $800 or more of income to another person or firm in 1917 must make a report to revenue officials. These reports are to be used in checking up the accuracy of other tax returns, and it is estimated that several million such reports will be submitted by April 1, the latest date they are due.

Reports are not required in a number of cases, including the following: Insurance payments, or payments to corporations or associations, bills paid for merchandise, telegrams, telephones, freight, and similar charges, traveling or other expense payments to employes, salary, wages, or other compensation due in December, 1917, but not paid until 1918, or payments of rent to real estate agents, (agents are required to report payments to landlords.)

Factories employing large numbers of unskilled workmen, whose records are not kept continuously, or where the workmen have left the companies' employ, are not required to report in many cases. Living quarters furnished by employers for their own convenience, such as workmen's camps, need not be included in the yearly compensation. Government agencies do not have to report payments to soldiers, sailors, or civilian employes, since these records are already available to revenue officials.

BLIZZARD 30 YEARS AGO.

Anniversary of the Great Storm Which Paralyzed New York.

It was just thirty years ago today that New York experienced the great blizzard which is recalled as the worst storm the city and much of the country have known since records were kept. The severest weather of the long drawn out Winter now waning was mild beside that which on March 12, 1888, paralyzed the transportation system of New York City, then entirely on or above the surface, and caused injuries and deaths.

The total snowfall was not more than two feet, and the wind velocity never exceeded fifty miles, according to the official records, which were challenged at the time, but the steady blow and the constant whirling blanket of wet snow combined to make conditions hazardous for those compelled to be out of doors. Never since has New York been isolated so completely from the rest of the world as it was on that occasion.

The New York Times of March 13, 1888, was devoted almost entirely to the blizzard, and editorially pointed to the need of a subway transportation system to relieve congestion on surface and elevated lines and to save the town from being at the mercy of another such storm.

'FOUR-MINUTE MEN' IN INCOME TAX DRIVE

COTTON MEN HEAR EDWARDS

The campaign which Collectors of Internal Revenue in this city are making to get taxpayers to file their returns covering income and excess profits taxes, received a big impetus yesterday, when 350 "Four-Minute Men" of the last Liberty Loan started an intensive week's drive here to arouse citizens to the importance of getting their returns in before April 1, the final date for filing.

Joseph B. Thomas, Chairman of the New York City section of the "Four-Minute Men," with headquarters at Vanderbilt Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, assigned 100 speakers to visit the moving picture houses of the city. These were at both afternoon and evening performances and between the acts, explained in a popular way why America was in the war and the necessity for all patriotic persons liable to the tax, to pay promptly.

In some instances, the movie houses threw suggestive sentences on the screens, among them, "Pay promptly, punctuate Prussianism," "No white feather in our family," "The passing in of the income tax means the passing out of the Potsdam gang," "Pay yours now," and "Help Pershing take the flag to the front by taking your income tax return to the Collector of Internal Revenue."

In addition to the speakers at the picture theatres, special squads were enlisted to urge prompt revenue payments at meetings held by churches, lodges, settlements, and at Y. M. C. A. centres. Most of the speakers emphasized in their brief remarks that the present war was not a capitalistic one, and quoted Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, to that effect. The "Four-Minute Men" will continue the tax drive every day and night this week. It was estimated at local headquarters of the minute men that at least 300,000 persons would be reached each day of the campaign.

Address at Cotton Exchange.

In an address before members of the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday, Collector William H. Edwards of the Second, or Wall Street, District predicted that the downtown revenue district would take in this year $500,000,000 in income, excess profits and other taxes, against $90,000,000 last year. The Collector in commending the "Four-Minute Men" campaign, asked all members of the Cotton Exchange to "enlist for four minutes each day in talking income and excess profits taxes to some one—to your neighbor.'

"Gentlemen, the war is upon us," Mr. Edwards added. 'Not at the Battery as yet, but American blood has been shed. This country is stripped of its young men. They need food, clothes, and ammunition. It takes money to pay the bills. To arms with your purses—every one of you. Gladly pour your share of earnings into the Treasury of the Government, not only that we may live, but others as well. Having done this, you will have performed your duty, and in the days to come you will recall it with pride and satisfaction."

Status of Wives of Aliens.

Collector Mark Eisner of the Third, or Upper Manhattan, District has been getting many inquiries relative to the status of women who have married aliens, and who now are either divorced or widowed, in so far as the specific exemption under the income tax law is concerned. The Collector gave out yesterday the following statement on the subject:

> A non-resident alien is not permitted to deduct the $2,000 or $4,000, being the specific exemption for a married person; or $1,000 or $3,000, being the specific exemption for an unmarried person, or person not living with husband or wife, under agreement or court order. An American woman who marries a foreigner takes the nationality of her husband. If her husband dies or she obtains a divorce from him, she may resume her American citizenship, if abroad, by registering within one year as an American citizen with a Consul of the United States, or by returning to reside in the United States. If her husband died, or she was divorced while she was residing within the United States, she resumes her American citizenship by continuing to reside in the United States.
> A foreign woman who acquires an American citizenship by marriage to an American is assumed to retain her American citizenship after the death of her husband, or after a divorce, if she continues to reside in the United States. If she resides abroad, she may retain her citizenship by registering within one year with a United States Consul.

Collector Eisner added that the foregoing rules should guide women in determining whether or not they are aliens. The question as to residence, of course, was, the Collector said, one of fact fully within the knowledge of the person making the return.

EXCESS PROFITS TAXES.

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Representative Claude Kitchin, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, declared today that Secretary McAdoo was opposed to the proposition advanced by Representative McFadden of amending the last revenue law to permit the payment of excess profits taxes in four instalments.

"Personally hoping that the time of payment could be extended," Mr. Kitchin wrote Representative Fess of Ohio, "I have had several conferences with the Secretary of the Treasury, and, after considering all phases, we concluded that it would not be for the best interest of the Government to extend the time of such payments.

"To extend the time it would only mean that the Government would have to issue that many more bonds in order to meet obligations coming due June 15. It also makes the amount of money available for Government use uncertain, and might place the Federal Government in a very hazardous position.

"I think the Ways and Means Committee is pretty well agreed that the extensions proposed would be inadvisable. We have allowed business interests to prepare for the payment of the tax by providing that they may turn in money throughout the year, for which advance payments a credit of 3 per cent. would be given."

HOLD FEW ENEMY BONDS.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—National banks of the United States hold comparatively few bonds of the enemy Governments. Controller Williams made public today figures showing that on Dec. 31 banks had $280,653,000 bonds of foreign Governments, of the total only $709,000 being securities of Germany or Austria-Hungary.

Other foreign securities held by the banks amounted to $69,990,000, making the total of foreign securities $350,644,000, as compared with $297,236,000 on Nov. 17, 1916, and $158,500,000 May 1, 1916.

LAST BRITISH DRIVE FOR RECRUITS HERE

NEW PLAY, TANK, PICTURES

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—The British-Canadian Recruiting Mission launched here today a last big drive for recruits among the Britishers and Canadians in the United States, with the presentation at Harmanus Bleecker Hall of "Getting Together," a spectacular recruiting play written in collaboration by Major Ian (Hay) Beith, J. Hartley Manners, Percival Knight, Lieutenant K. Rice, and Harrison Brockbank, and featuring Miss Blanche Bates, who came temporarily out of retirement to take part in the production; Holbrook Blinn, and many others, who have volunteered their services.

In an effort to bring 20,000 more volunteers under the British colors before the draft convention recently signed becomes effective the production will be taken through the country, together with the British tank Britannia, and the first moving pictures seen here showing the participation of the tanks in the battle of Cambrai.

The initial presentation of "Getting Together" received a semi-official atmosphere through the presence of Governor Charles S. Whitman and Mrs. Whitman and members of the Governor's staff. The distinguished audience included ex-Governor Martin H. Glynn and Mrs. Glynn, Acting Adjt. Gen. Schermerhorn, Mrs. William Bayard Van Rensselaer, Colonel Charles E. Walsh of the New York Guard, and Colonel John S. Dennis, commanding the British Recruiting Mission, and his staff; Captain Kenneth G. Strachan, Captain Hastings, Captain P. P. Sise, Lieutenant Lawrence Grossmith, and Lieutenant H. C. P. Cresswell. The last were the guests of Major Wallace McCutcheon of Brooklyn, who won his spurs in the British Army.

Earlier in the day thousands of persons witnessed an exhibition of the capabilities of the British tanks when the Britannia, a huge mass weighing twenty-six tons, crawled its way in caterpillar fashion up the steep incline of State Street to the Capitol, over snow and ice. Arrangements have been made whereby the tank will make trips through the city, carrying passengers, for the benefit of the Albany County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The tank was scheduled to start on its trip through Albany at 9 o'clock in the morning from the New York Central Railroad yards, but it was near noon before it was ready for its share in the day's work. In the meantime, hundreds of persons had gathered in the railroad yards to view its unloading and followed it through the streets as it crawled its way slowly but surely. After the trip up State Street three young women, Red Cross workers, took brief rides in the tank. The machine was in charge of Captain Haig and a crew of seven, all veterans of the trenches.

Colonel Dennis, who commands the recruiting mission in the absence of Brig. Gen. White, issued a warning to British citizens liable to service that they must enlist or they will be drafted.

"Every British and Canadian man of fighting age must volunteer for service under his country's colors or he will be drafted for service in the United States Army," said Colonel Dennis. "International draft conventions between the United States and Great Britain and between the United States and Canada provide that after the full completion of the conventions:

"Britishers and Canadians between the ages of 20 and 40, inclusive, and citizens of the United States in Great Britain between the ages of 21 and 30, inclusive, shall have sixty days in which to volunteer for the army representing their citizenship. If they do not volunteer they will at once become subject to the draft regulations of the country in which they reside. This simply means that if the 300,000 British and Canadian citizens in America do not volunteer within a short time they will be drawn into the United States Army."

"Getting Together" is a war play in three acts and seven scenes. It is presented under the auspices of the British and Canadian Recruiting Mission and with the co-operation of the United States military and naval forces.

Seven effective scenes have been painted by Pember especially for it, one showing a trench in France occupied by soldiers of the Allies who go "over the top" with a war tank belching forth flames from its Lewis guns. This was a specially effective, vivid spectacle, and aroused much enthusiasm. The second scene shows a recruiting meeting, and the last a ruined village in France taken over by war workers, of whom Miss Bates was one. There is a strong, dramatic love story running through the entire play.

The play was received very favorably tonight. Five hundred boys in uniform, from the Christian Brothers Academy and the Albany Boys Academy, occupied seats in the body of the house and cheered lustily the many military episodes of the play. J. Hartley Manners was in the audience, while Percival Knight, another of the collaborators, was principal comedian of the cast. A telegram from Major Ian Hay Beith was read between the acts.

The cast included, besides Miss Bates, who in private life is Mrs. George Creel; Holbrook Blinn, William Roselle, Ruth Benson, (Mrs. Holbrook Blinn,) Harriet Sterling, Dorothy Knight, Suzanne Feday, Edwin Taylor, John Thorne, Sergeant Shannon Cormack, Private Charles Francis, Arthur Fay, Timothy Conway, Leonard Barry, and Piper Shaughnessy.

The audience rose and cheered when fifty members of the 10th Infantry, New York Guard, "supers" loaned by Colonel Charles E. Walsh, commander of the regiment, marched across the stage near the final curtain.

"Getting Together" will be presented in Albany for three nights, and then goes to Syracuse for the balance of the week, opening at the Lyric Theatre in New York City next Monday night, March 18, for only one week. After that it will visit Philadelphia, Boston and several other large American cities.

TAKES UP VICE REPORT.

Mayor Hylan attacked the Committee of Fourteen in a letter he sent last night to Commissioner Enright, in which he asked the police head, "even at this late date, regardless of its source," to remedy any evil condition that may exist. The Mayor's letter was in comment upon the committee's report for the year 1917, made public yesterday, in which the committee described the "extension of the very grave evils manifested in the cabarets" as Mayor Mitchel's responsibility and the "blot on his police administration."

In his letter the Mayor remarks that the committee "has again come to life several months after Mayor Mitchel has retired from office." "Little has been heard of it as a committee during the last four years," he continued, "but prior to election some of its members had become very active in an attempt to interfere with the electorate of the city. I do not know whether this was caused by the membership on the Committee of Fourteen of William Hamlin Childs, Chairman of the late Fusion slush fund, amounting to several million dollars, which was used in an attempt to re-elect Mayor Mitchel, whose administration they now condemn, or Edward J. McGuire, who was to deliver the Irish vote to the late Mayor along with the assistance of Tim Healy, who was to deliver the labor vote. I take this as the beginning of an attempt on the part of these distinguished reformers to cast discredit upon the present administration."

PIGEON CARRIES HER REPLY.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—A carrier pigeon bearing a message of regret from Mrs. Woodrow Wilson that she could not attend a military and naval meet at New York next week was released at the White House at 11:10 o'clock this morning. The invitation was brought by a pigeon yesterday.

The homing pigeon which was liberated from the White House grounds in Washington at 11 A. M. yesterday, carrying a reply to Mrs. Charles S. Whitman's invitation to Mrs. Wilson to attend the Military and Naval Meet at Madison Square Garden on March 15 failed to arrive at its home on top of the Belnord Apartments, Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street, last night, according to its owner, A. S. Vincent, Superintendent of the apartment house. Mr. Vincent said that the pigeon had undoubtedly been blown off his course by the strong wind which had been blowing the greater part of the day. He said that he thought the pigeon would arrive safely some time today.

A DEADLY BILL FOR CATS.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 11.—Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson, nephew of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, is jealous of his uncle's big-game hunting record. He would bring hunting within the scope of every one, and the cat would be the sufferer. The Senator tonight introduced a bill which provides that no cat shall be allowed to run at large unless equipped with a bell "that will give forth a clearly audible sound when the cat wearing the same is in motion."

If the cat is found minus the bell any person "may humanely destroy" it. A cat at large found hunting or killing any bird protected by law or with a dead bird in its possession may be killed and no action for damages can be instituted.

The bill was referred to the Conservation Committee.

Benefit for Russian Orphanage.

A performance of "Her Country" at the Punch and Judy Theatre, for the benefit of the Russian Orphanage at Springfield, Vt., will be given on Thursday evening, March 28. A musicale and reception for the same purpose will be given Wednesday evening, March 27, at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of Princess Lwoff, 109 East Thirty-ninth Street. The performance and the musicale are under the auspices of his Eminence, Bishop Alexander, of the Russian Cathedral, and the Russian Charity Society. On the occasion of the musicale the portraits of contemporary great Americans painted by Princess Lwoff, loaned through the courtesy of the owners, will be on view. The home for Russian orphans was founded by Bishop Alexander, and at present is caring for about sixty-four children born in America of Russian parents.

Fisher-Torrance Engagement.

Mrs. Charles H. Fisher of 112 East Seventeenth Street announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Fisher, to Henry Torrance of 131 East Fifteenth Street and Tenafly, N. J.

Miss Fisher is a member of the Pen and Brush and Women's University Clubs. Mr. Torrance was graduated from the Stevens Institute of Technology, class of '90, and belongs to the Engineers' and Machinery Clubs and the West Side Tennis Club.

Miss Gertrude Carrere Engaged.

Mrs. L. Sidney Carrere of 137 East Seventy-third Street announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Gertrude Carrere, to H. Maynard Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rogers Dickinson of this city, formerly of Providence, R. I.

Miss Carrere is a niece of the late John M. Carrere, the architect. Mr. Dickinson is a Princeton man and left the university last May to join the Naval Reserve.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Evarts to Wed Shelton Hale.

Mrs. Maxwell Evarts of Windsor, Vt., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sue Evarts, to Shelton Hale, son of Mrs. Annie Riley Hale of 12 East 85th Street. Mr. Hale is now in Washington, D. C., as Assistant Secretary of the War Trade Board.

Sisters Enlist in Navy as Yeomen.

Miss Mary Clark, 22 years old, and Miss Elizabeth Clark, 18 years old, sisters, of 102 Bryant Avenue, Jamaica, have enlisted in the navy as yeomen, and are now stationed at Washington. Their brother, Joseph Clark, a law partner of First Assistant District Attorney Edgar F. Hazleton of Queens, enlisted in the navy as a yeoman and is stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The girls gave up positions as stenographers to enlist. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Clark.

TOLSTOY SAYS KAISER CANNOT WIN RUSSIA

Tells Canadian Club Russians Will Again Take Up Arms Against Germany.

GLAD OF THE REVOLUTION

Declares If It Had Not Come the Czar Would Have Joined with the Teutons.

Speaking last night at the annual smoker of the Canadian Club at the Hotel Biltmore, Count Ilya Tolstoy predicted that Germany would never conquer Russia, that the more territory the Germans appeared to seize from Russia the greater would be the fighting spirit of the Russian people when it was aroused, and that the day would come when Russia would win the sympathy of the Allies by taking up arms again against Germany.

The Russian revolution was of benefit to the world, Count Tolstoy said, because it prevented the consolidation of the Czar and his empire with the German and Austrian Emperors and their countries.

"Had the Russian revolution not come when it did," he continued, "there would now be an alliance of the three Emperors of Europe, an alliance that would have crushed the idea of democracy for generations."

The other speakers were the Rev. Lauchlan MacLean-Watt, chaplain of the Gordon Highlanders and the Black Watch, also known as "the piping parson" for his ability with the bagpipes; Major Donald Guthrie, and Sir George Reid, ex-Premier of Australia.

"I tell you we soldiers are tired of your division at home," he said. "We are tired of your squabbles in the name of Christ. After the war we are not going to return to our old shibboleths that divided us. The churches will have to get rid of their churchliness and speak to the people of the things they know.

"There is no bigotry in martial religion," continued the preacher. "I bunked with a Jesuit priest. We ate together, worked together, and talked together. His Jesuitry did not taint my Presbyterianism, nor did my Presbyterianism taint his Jesuitry. We buried Baptist, Methodist, Catholic, Presbyterian side by side and let God sort them out.

"I hear a lot of politicians speak of war aims after three and a half years of war. If you ask the men at the front what their war aims are they will tell you they want peace, but they want a peace that can only come by victory over cruelty, wrong, and arrogance. There must be less talk. This thing has got to go on until there is a final clean finish. We are compelled to put down might with might, but ours is the might that has the righteousness of a right cause behind it."

When any one asked him when the war was to end Major Guthrie always asked, he said, "How are we going to lick the Germans?"

"The four and a half million of us have something to say about this peace settlement," he continued. "It is not all a matter of what the politicians at home say. We have made up our minds. Notwithstanding the plans of certain politicians, notwithstanding the talk of pacifists which is treason, notwithstanding Socialists and other pestilential persons, we have made up our minds that the war will not end until, as the President says, the world is made safe for democracy.

"I am often asked whether the Germans will break through the western front. When you think of the few guns we had two and a half years ago, virtually popguns, and the lack of ammunition, and you realize that they did not break through then, you will realize that they have as much of a chance to break through as they have of pulling the sun from the heavens at midday. Two and a half years ago the British bulldog took the German wolf by the paw, and in spite of heavy bombardments he held on grimly. With every blow the bulldog's grip went up the wolf's leg until now it is near the shoulder, and soon it will be at the wolf's throat, and that will be the end."

DELEHANTY'S LEAD IS 826.

Trial of Contest for Judgeship Adjourned for a Week.

With the consent of Supreme Court Justice Sawyer, who has been conducting the trial of the suit of ex-Judge James A. Delehanty to oust Judge John F. McIntyre from General Sessions, counsel for Judge Delehanty announced yesterday that Delehanty's plurality on the recount was 826, the total vote standing: Delehanty, 106,136; McIntyre, 105,310. The case was adjourned for a week, when the jury will be summoned to hear questions that have arisen. It may take two weeks before the trial ends.

On the face of the returns McIntyre was elected by 816 votes. As the recount stands he gained 324 votes and Delehanty gained 1,966 votes. In the thirty-one districts in Manhattan Delehanty gained in twenty-two districts and McIntyre in nine, the largest Delehanty gains being 284 in the Thirty-first, 260 in the Fourth, and 222 in the Eighth District. McIntyre's biggest gain was 56 in the Nineteenth District.

NEW SUBWAY BLOCKED.

Derailed Car Stalls Traffic on the Broadway Line.

Traffic in the new Broadway subway was delayed for an hour early last night, when, following a collision of empty trains, a car was thrown across the north and south bound tracks at Eighteenth Street. Partial service was maintained south of Fourteenth Street by shuttle trains.

Fully 6,000 persons tried to gain entrance to the Union Square Station while traffic was tied up, and in the end the police reserves had to be called to maintain order.

Mrs. Mary Whidden, the guard on the derailed car, was thrown to the floor by the collision, but was uninjured. A crew of forty men after an hour's work cleared the tracks.

John P. Leo Heads Standards Board.

Mayor Hylan yesterday appointed John P. Leo, an architect of 770 St. Nicholas Avenue, as Chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals, to succeed Rudolph P. Miller, who was appointed during the Mitchel administration. The salary is $7,500 a year. Along with the other members of the old board, Chairman Miller sent in his resignation to the Mayor when it was requested several weeks ago. Within a few days the Mayor is expected to appoint the other members of the new board.

JUDGE WADHAMS AIDS FAMILIES OF SOLDIERS

Will Devote Time to Organization of Society Devoted to Care of Those Left Behind.

It was announced yesterday that Judge William H. Wadhams of General Sessions would for the next two or three months devote his time to the organization of a patriotic society to be known as "The Soldiers' Families of America," the membership of which will consist of the nearest of kin to the soldiers and sailors in the service of the United States. Judge Wadhams is the National Director of the new organization.

The objects of the organization are:

In every way to strengthen and aid the armed forces, to minister as far as possible to the various needs and comforts of the men in the field.

To care for the families of the men in the field, looking after the children, seeing that they go to school and are properly cared for. Obtaining employment where it is need, and otherwise providing that the dear ones of those who are serving the nation are not forgotten or neglected.

The motto of the organization is "Keep the Home Fires Burning." The members of the Organization Committee include Colonel and Mrs. Isaac Erwin, Mrs. Walston Brown, Mrs. C. Chauncey Stillman, Mrs. Henry W. Cannon, Dr. Albert Shaw, Mrs. Wadhams, Mrs. George L. Wheelock, Miss Helen V. Boswell, Mrs. Benjamin Green, and Mrs. McNeil Swazey.

Mrs. Brown, who is the President of the National Child Welfare League, is responsible for the movement. Every city, town, and county in the United States is expected to be represented in the organization.

GET GERMAN SAILORS' HOME

Army Officials Take Possession of House in Hoboken.

The German Seamen's Home at 60 Hudson Street, Hoboken, N. J., was closed and taken possession of by the United States Army yesterday. The home, which had accommodated 100 German sailors, was managed by the Rev. Charles Broeckner, pastor of the German Evangelist Church, Hoboken, who is said to have boasted that he had been the Kaiser's private secretary before he came to America. Mr. Broeckner is said to have been interned on Ellis Island as an enemy alien and to have been released under a heavy bond. He testified at the time of the sinking of the Lusitania that he had seen guns mounted on her. Mr. Broeckner is alleged to have said that the Kaiser contributed $100 a month to the support of the Seamen's Home.

It was said that army officials were anxious to convert the home into a barracks which would accommodate about 300 sailors.

BUENZ SENTENCE UPHELD.

Hamburg-American Manager Must Serve Prison Term.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Conviction of Karl Bünz, Managing Director, and two other officials of the Hamburg-American Line for violating the shipping laws by sending supplies to German cruisers from American ports were in effect sustained today by the Supreme Court, which refused to review the proceedings.

Bünz and George Kotter, Superintending Engineer, will be compelled to serve eighteen months, and Walter Poppenhouse, a second officer, one year in the Atlanta Penitentiary. Adolph Hackmeister, purchasing agent for the line, died after he was convicted.

JOHN W. TURRILL A SUICIDE.

John W. Turrill, chief confidential clerk of the paint department of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., who has been missing since Saturday, was found dead about noon yesterday in a room in the Hotel Breslin. He had cut his throat with a safety razor blade, apparently some time Sunday night, after failing to do it successfully with a pocket knife.

Mr. Turrill was employed by the Bridgeport Wood Finishing Company for more than twenty-five years, and, according to D. E. Breinig, general manager of the company, was considered a man of model habits and great value. When this company was bought up by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. last Fall Mr. Turrill came to New York and, pending the setting up of his household here, made his home with old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Haskell of 159 Midwood Street, Brooklyn. On Saturday morning he left the house at about 10 o'clock to meet Mrs. Turrill, who was coming down from New Milford, Conn., and with whom he was going to Camp Dix, N. J., to see their son Donald, a Yale graduate, who is in the artillery there. He did not appear at the train, and Mrs. Turrill went to the Haskell residence. On Sunday morning Mrs. Haskell notified the police.

A note found on the body expressed regret "to you and D.," the note, though unsigned, being presumably addressed to Mrs. Turrill; but no reason was given for the suicide.

JOHN D. VAN BUREN DEAD.

Former State Engineer Succumbs in His Eightieth Year.

John Dash Van Buren, State Engineer from 1876 to 1878, and for many years a prominent consulting engineer of this city, died yesterday at his home in Prospect Avenue, New Brighton, S. I., in his eightieth year. Mr. Van Buren had been retired for several years. He was born in this city, and was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy in 1860. During the civil war he saw service on naval vessels in the Potomac River, and at the close of the war was admitted to the bar in this State.

Mr. Van Buren practiced law only a short time, and, returning to his original profession of engineering, he was appointed by Governor Tilden a member of the commission to investigate frauds in connection with the Erie Canal construction. As a result of his investigations Governor Tilden appointed Mr. Van Buren State Engineer.

Dr. Lydia A. Bickford.

Dr. Lydia A. Bickford of 245 Fort Washington Avenue, one of the oldest women medical practitioners in this city, died on Saturday night in the New York Medical College and Hospital for Women in her sixty-ninth year. Dr. Bickford was born in Saco, Me., and was graduated from the institution in which she died with the hospital class of 1894.

Dresses More Active.

Though dress manufacturers have already done a good Spring business up to date, there is said to be renewed activity in their lines. As one dress manufacturer pointed out, suits come first in Springtime and dresses follow as the season progresses. "The fact that we have already done a big Spring business," said this manufacturer, "simply means to me that there is still bigger business coming. Suits have had an excellent season, but later on, when the real warm days come, women will want dresses. Retailers who have been buying suits are now coming to us for dresses to meet this demand when it develops. We are really having this year two big seasons in one."

Sports Waists Popular.

Waist buying is continuing on a large scale, according to reports from manufacturers in this city. The demand is greatest, it is said, for sports waists which, with separate skirts, seem to have replaced to a certain extent at least the sports dresses that were so popular last year. Lingerie blouses are among the most sought, and in these lines handkerchief linen seems to be the leader. This fabric is taken in a wide range of colors, such as blue, orange, rose, and light green. Those waists cut along sports lines, when in solid colors, are usually made up with white collars and cuffs. Sometimes little bits of hand embroidery are used for decorations.

Some New Things in Hats.

Local wholesale millinery houses are featuring black and white hats in which the brim or crown is made of lisére or milan, with facings and flanges of white georgette. A few rough straws combined with georgette are also seen. Among the high-priced goods that are selling are hats of black lisére, milan, or rough straw, combined with light gray, tan, or sand in all the new shapes. In popular-priced goods the wholesalers are showing hats with large, floppy brims and high crowns in lisére, milan, or reversed lisére. The edge of the brim is piped with patent leather, or the tip of the crown is made of that material. It is also draped around the crown and finished with a bow in the front or on the side. These hats are good for tailored or sports wear.

Quite a Few "Misprints."

Not a few of the decreased returns of goods that the local manufacturers of dresses are getting this season are due to "misprints," in other words, to defects in the printed silks that are being cut up. Some of these fabrics show "strike-overs," in which one color in a design has lapped over on to another one, while in others the patterns are blurred. Sometimes small patches of white show up in a design where they should not. One of the best known manufacturers in the trade is authority for the statement that more of these defects are being seen this season than ever before. He attributes it to the lack of skilled workers, from which the textile printers are suffering as a result of the demands of the war.

Burlap Demand Increases.

The local burlap market opened yesterday with more snap to buying than has been seen for some time. Prices were uneven, but it is understood that sales of spot 7½-ounce, 40-inch goods were made as high as 18 cents. Ten-ounce and 10½-ounce burlaps of the same width sold at 21 and 21½ cents, respectively, and both prices were said to have been withdrawn before the close of business. Prices moved up in the West Coast markets as well, business being done on 10-ounce 40s in Seattle at 20½ cents. Eight-ounce goods were quoted at 17½ cents there, and 10½-ounce at about 21 cents. Comparatively the local market is still "low," but now that the upturn in prices has come it is expected that quotations here will soon rise to Calcutta levels.

Bleached Cottons Going Up.

The price to the jobbing trade of 4-4 "Fruit of the Loom" bleached muslins, which on Monday last was advanced to 22½ cents a yard, was yesterday put up to 25 cents. Notice to this effect has been sent to the trade by William E. Wall, selling agent for B. B. & R. Knight, together with the announcement that 7-8 goods of the same brand are now priced at 22½ cents. Prices in both cases are net, sixty days, and subject to further advance without notice. With the last increase, the price on "Fruits" has been advanced 7 cents a yard since Jan. 1, the significance of which to the consumer may be gained from the fact that just prior to the outbreak of the war in 1914 the 4-4 goods sold from the mill at 7½ cents a yard. The new 25-cent price is really nominal, as there are at present no goods on hand to be sold at that figure. Orders for future deliveries are taken "at value" only.

No More Cutting Up for Spring.

A resolution to discontinue cutting up wool materials for Spring suits until stocks now on hand are completely sold out has been adopted by the Merchants Ladies' Garments Association. This action was taken in order further to aid the Government campaign for wool conservation. It has been decided that, should one stock house sell its entire stock and still need more, it will obtain its additional requirements from others in the trade who yet have goods on hand until the entire trade is clean out of made up garments. From then on Spring goods will be made up only on actual orders. Not only will this measure conserve wool, but it will keep the market in a healthier condition by not flooding it with merchandise at the end of the season, as has usually been done heretofore. Should any stock house have more piece goods left over than it cares to carry, it may sell them to the association at the prevailing market price.

Gray Goods Buyers Were Busy.

Buyers were active in the local gray goods market yesterday, and firm to higher prices resulted. Bids of 12 cents for 27-inch 64-60s, for delivery in March, April, and May, went begging, but some spots were sold at that figure. Fourteen cents was paid for 38½-inch 60-48s for shipment through this month and next, while deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s as far away as September brought 16 cents. Spot Eastern 39-inch 68-72s sold at 18 cents, while contracts running to October were disposed of at 17¾. Among the sheetings business done were sales of "quick" 5.50s at 14½ cents. In the fine goods, 21 cents was paid for prompt shipments of 40-inch, 96-100, 7-yard lawns. Printcloth prices closed this way:

39-inch, 72-76s	19¼c	38½-inch, 64-56s	15⅝c
39-inch, 68-72s	18c	38½-inch, 60-52s	14¼c
39-inch, 56-44s	13½c	38½-inch, 60-48s	14c
38½-inch, 64-64s	16½c	27-inch, 64-60s	12c

Does Not Like the Situation.

One of the best-known sellers of gray goods in the local market is not at all pleased with the turn things have taken since the Government came into the field for huge quantities of cloths for war purposes. "Buyers are getting panicky," he said yesterday, "and are forcing prices up on themselves. Men who under ordinary circumstances would comb the market in order to save a sixteenth of a cent on a yard now appear perfectly willing to pay advances of half a cent to the first seller who will take their orders. This has led to a situation in which Worth Street has come to resemble Wall Street and, unless the mills prevent it, lawyers, real estate agents, &c., will be buying goods one day and selling them at a profit the next. The mills do not want that kind of thing, and most of them are guarding against it by refusing to sell to other than regular customers."

RULES AGAINST RAILROADS.

Court of Claims Decides Mail Pay Cases Involving Millions.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The attempt of the railroads to recover from the Government $40,000,000 under the old system of weight compensation for transporting mails was defeated today in the Court of Claims, a decision in favor of the Government being reaffirmed.

The court also held for the Government in the suits of New England railroads which claimed extra pay for transporting parcel post matter on the ground that their mail contracts did not require them to do so. They asked for large sums.

In the first case, the point in dispute was an order of the Postmaster General requiring the inclusion of Sundays in estimating the average daily weight of mail carried during a specified period by the roads. As the companies' returns were cut materially by the order, suit was brought to recover additional compensation from the Government.

A decision of the Court of Claims in favor of the Post Office Department was affirmed by the United States Supreme Court, but by an evenly divided ruling. The case was reopened in the lower court, which today adhered to its previous decision.

TREASURY OFFER MADE AT 4 1-2%

McAdoo Announces $500,000,000 Issue of Certificates at Higher Rate of Interest.

ANTICIPATES LIBERTY LOAN

Notes Run Three Months to June 18—Allotment to New York District Reduced $20,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The first offer of Treasury certificates at the higher rate of interest, which is 4½ per cent., was announced tonight. The issue is as usual for $500,000,000, to meet the monthly advances to the Allied Governments under the standing program to which the United States is committed for the present fiscal year. Payment is fixed for March 22 at the latest, which will make the funds derived from the sale available for advances to be made late this month and early in April.

A noticeable matter in connection with Secretary McAdoo's announcement of this issue is that the amount of certificates tentatively allotted to the New York Federal Reserve District is roundly $20,000,000 lower than heretofore, being $173,000,000, instead of $194,000,000, as in the last sale of certificates. A new feature of Secretary McAdoo's announcement also is a statement of the number of subscriptions made by banks and individuals in each Reserve district. The Secretary's announcement follows:

"The Secretary of the Treasury, under the authority of the act approved Sept. 24, 1917, offers for subscription at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve Banks, a minimum of $500,000,000 Treasury certificates of indebtedness, payable June 18, 1918, with interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum from March 20, 1918. Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve Banks. Subscription books will close at the close of business March 22. Certificates will be in the denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

"Said certificates shall be exempt both as to principal and interest from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes and (b) graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes, and excess profits and war profits taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States, upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations. The interest on an amount of bonds and certificates authorized in said act the principal of which does not exceed in the aggregate $5,000 owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above.

"Upon ten days' public notice, given in such manner as may be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, this series of certificates may be redeemed as a whole at par and accrued interest on or after any date, occurring before the maturity of such certificates, set for the payment of the first installment of the subscription price of any bonds offered for subscription by the United States hereafter and before the maturity of such certificates. The certificates of this series, whether or not called for redemption, will be accepted at par with adjustment of accrued interest, if tendered on such installment date, in payment on the subscription prices then payable of any such bonds subscribed for by and allotted to holders of such certificates. The certificates of this series will not be accepted in payment of taxes.

"The right is reserved to reject any subscription and to allot less than the amount of certificates applied for and to close the subscriptions at any time without notice. As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve Banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions up to an aggregate in each district as follows:

Boston	$33,000,000	Chicago	$60,000,000
New York	173,000,000	St. Louis	25,000,000
Philadelphia	40,000,000	Minneapolis	15,000,000
Cleveland	45,000,000	Kansas City	25,000,000
Richmond	18,000,000	Dallas	18,000,000
Atlanta	15,000,000	S. Francisco	33,000,000

"Payment at par and accrued interest for certificates allotted must be made on and after March 20 and on or before March 22. After allotment and upon payment, Federal Reserve Banks will issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive certificates. Qualified depositaries will be permitted to make payment by credit for certificates allotted to them for themselves and their customers up to an amount for which each shall have been qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by Federal Reserve Banks.

"The number of subscriptions by districts for the issues dated Jan. 22, Feb. 8, and Feb. 27 were as follows:

	Jan. 22.	Feb. 8.	Feb. 27.
Boston	272	471	554
New York	275	769	1,192
Philadelphia	415	800	730

CUTS WASHINGTON RENTS.

Bill Discussed by House Also Regulates Hotel Rates.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Prices of everything householders must pay for, from pork chops to rent, were discussed in the House today during consideration of the bill designed to prevent exorbitant rentals and hotel rates in Washington. While admitting that some rentals, particularly those for furnished houses and apartments, were very high, opponents of the measure disagreed with the theory of trying to regulate these charges, on the ground that it would lead to the fixing of prices of everything sold in the capital.

Charges that profiteering were running rampant and that the people who had come to Washington for war work were the chief sufferers were met with declarations that similar conditions obtained in all cities that were centres of war activity, and that the great majority of people coming here now did so in the hope of bettering their own conditions. Representative Graham of Illinois said prices of delivered groceries here were 33 1-3 per cent. higher than in cities of similar size, and Representative Howard of Georgia declared that a single man in Washington earning $100 a month had little left after paying actual expenses.

EXTRA LARGE ICE CROP.

Senator Wagner Says It Is Double the Usual Harvest.

ALBANY, March 11.—The natural ice crop harvested this year exceeds the normal cutting by more than 1,500,000 tons, or about double the usual amount harvested, Democratic Leader Wagner of the Senate declared tonight in arguing for the passage of certain technical amendments to the Ice Control bill.

The measure, which was recommended by State Ice Controller Benjamin B. Odell, was passed by a vote of 36 to 5.

South American Export Trade.

Exporters in this city with South American connections are of the opinion that, while the license system governing exports and imports is for the purpose of controlling foreign trade so as to conserve shipping space, the Government intends to interfere as little as possible with South American business. "There are a number of commodities," said one large exporter, "such as wool and certain articles of food in South America which must be brought to this country, and ships have got to go down there for them. There are many American products wanted in South America of which we have a surplus here, and which we can advantageously continue to manufacture."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Railroad Stocks Show Strength in Quiet Market—Italian Exchange Gains Ground.

While business in securities was dull throughout yesterday's session of the market, the firmness of stocks, particularly among the railroad shares, was of a quality to encourage partisans of the constructive side. The talk of increased freight rates under Government auspices has apparently lent a fair stimulus to buying, and the hope of early and positive action in respect to maturing railroad obligations is reflected in the quiet accumulation of rail stocks, which has been in evidence for several days. The investing and speculative public are equally interested in the negotiations between the Government's railroad officials and representatives of the New Haven over the company's large note issue which matures next month, and the developments in Washington probably will be of vital import in respect to the railroad security market for some time after a decision is reached.

Chesapeake & Ohio, New Haven, Reading, and Union Pacific profited by yesterday's purchases more than others of the more prominent shares, but there were few which failed to end the day with advances. Dealings were marked, perhaps, more by the lack of offerings than by urgent buying, but this in itself augured well for the soundness of underlying conditions. The industrial list was spotted with irregular movements, with the tone generally firm, and several stocks, notably General Motors, moved forward with fair strength.

The meeting of the New York Clearing House Association over the proposal to limit interest rate on demand bank deposits resulted in no definite action. The spirit of the meeting was well indicated by the unanimity with which the bankers resolved that the present was not a proper time for banks to enter into competition for deposits.

In the foreign exchange market a sharp improvement of Italian rates heralded the initial operation of the Italian Government's plan for licensing dealings in that country in foreign drafts and currency. The program was undertaken more than two months ago, but, according to information which reached local bankers yesterday, had not been whipped into working form before. The lire check rate closed at 8.55, compared with 8.72½ on Saturday and a recent low level of about 8.96. The purpose of the Italian authorities is to check speculative operations on the Italian markets of a sort to depress the lire abroad. There appeared to be less offerings of lire at this centre on foreign orders, and, while the demand continued light, the absence of as much pressure as was noted last week helped quotations. In view of news that Germany had assumed a more or less threatening attitude toward certain of the Scandinavian countries, bankers looked for a reflection of political conditions in the exchange market. There was none which showed disturbance in the northern nations, however, as quotations continued to fluctuate within a narrow range.

LONDON MARKET IS DULL.

Week's War Bond Campaign Believed to Have Netted £150,000,000.

LONDON, March 11.—Money was in smaller supply today and discounts were steady.

With the conclusion of the week's war bond campaign, which is believed to have netted nearly £150,000,000, business did not expand. A few industrials, Argentine rails, Spanish bonds, and shipping shares were strong and active. The market otherwise was steady. Japanese bonds made a recovery.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

City to Sell Notes Today.

The Controller of the City of New York will receive bids today for $12,000,000 of corporate stock notes maturing June 28 and for $8,000,000 of revenue bills maturing July 8.

A Bond Salesman's Wish.

Yesterday's meeting of the Clearing House on the subject of interest rates was talked about so much that even the bond salesmen began thinking about the relationship of securities to bank deposit interest rates. One of the brightest of Wall Street's young bond salesmen said: "I would like to see the Clearing House compel the banks to cut down interest rates. If the trust companies were prohibited from paying 4 per cent. on savings bank accounts, I would be able to sell the savings banks some bonds which would yield them 4 per cent. and better. With the high rates paid it is hard to get savings institutions to make investments, even in short-term obligations of the City of New York."

To Protect Russian Bondholders.

A London dispatch announces that for the protection of holders of Russian railway, municipal, and Government bonds, for the issuance of which they have been responsible, the following six banking institutions have agreed to work together. Barings, Hambro, Lloyds, London County and Westminster Bank, Rothschilds, and Schroeder. It is also reported that British investors who deposited their American securities with the Government, and whose term of deposit under the original plan is now expiring, are being asked to continue their deposits until March, 1922.

The Shipbuilding Leadership.

The recent publication of figures on ship construction in the United States, following statements made regarding British construction in Parliament, shows that already, without even waiting for the completion of the Government's big new fabricating yards, the United States has taken from Great Britain the position it held so long as the world's premier shipbuilding nation. Construction in Great Britain in January amounted to only about 55,000 tons in round numbers, while in the United States it amounted to over 79,000 tons. January was a very poor month for both countries, but reports for February will probably show better, as Great Britain did not expect more than 125,000 tons for that month at the outside, and around 120,000 tons were built in this country. Of course, an appreciable percentage of the American construction was wooden, but it looks good in the present emergency for all that. When the big fabricating yards get into full swing there will be no question as to who is leader.

Cotton Hopes and Fears.

Uncertainty is a quality which the cotton market shares with pretty nearly everything else at present, but of late cotton, in the opinion of men who used to feel that they knew something about the market, has seemed to have more than its fair share. First there is a short crop. Then it appears that, owing to extensive holding back, the crop is really considerably bigger than everybody believed. Then it is said the crop is bigger, but of poorer quality. Then the export situation is said to be improving. It is improving, but is still so far behind normal as to counterbalance the poor crop. But the domestic consumption is above normal—and so it goes.

⁂

Cuban Wages and Labor Scarcity.

It has been necessary to import Chinese and Spanish labor into Cuba in order to get the cane crop harvested, according to reports from the island received by the Federal Sugar Refining Company. At the same time the labor scarcity has resulted in the offer of unprecedented wages by the planters, men who formerly were considered well paid at from 70 to 80 cents per 1000 arrobos of cane cut now commanding $1.50 for the same quantity. These wages, according to some other similar intimations from Cuba, are creating a general prosperity for the island in some places analogous to that in the neighborhood of a new munition factory, and peddlers of musical instruments, for instance, are reaping a harvest.

Important Steel Meeting Soon.

The American Iron and Steel Institute's Special Committee on Steel and Steel Products, headed by Elbert H. Gary, is scheduled to confer with the War Industries Board at Washington on Wednesday of next week. The meeting promises to be memorable as related to the question of fixed prices for steel and measures to be evolved for speeding up production. The committee it is understood, will be empowered to speak for all the steel manufacturers in the country. As a means for stimulating production, it is expected that the committee will present data in behalf of many steel makers intended to show that prices for certain lines, particularly plates and other materials used in shipbuilding, should be increased.

Aetna Explosives Proxies.

The regular company proxies for the annual meeting of the Aetna Explosives Company, on March 19, have been sent out, and a Stockholders' Protective Committee, headed by Josiah Howard, former Vice President, is also seeking proxies. From what can be learned differences of opinion exist between the various interests, stockowners, noteholders, and creditors, in regard to what should be done for the future of the company. A plan for reorganization is being worked out. In quarters close to the directing powers in the corporation it was said yesterday that, despite rumors to the contrary, no serious differences existed, and a calm meeting was predicted when the shareowners get together.

⁂

Warning from Reserve Board.

Fred I. Kent, Director of the Division of Foreign Exchange of the United States Federal Reserve Board, issued the following statement yesterday:

"Bankers, merchants, manufacturers, exporters, and importers, and all others carrying accounts with or for foreign correspondents, either in account current or securities, who have not made application for registration certificates by March 18, as required by executive order of the President, will be prohibited from continuing transactions covered by the order.

"Due to the difficulty in obtaining satisfactory and extended publicity, the Federal Reserve Board has authorized Federal Reserve Banks to continue to take applications for registration certificates beyond the date originally set, but it is now felt that sufficient time has elapsed to enable all concerned to familiarize themselves with the requirements of the law, and notice is hereby given that no foreign exchange operations covered by the executive order can be carried on after March 18, 1918, unless a registration certificate shall have been applied for on or before that date."

BANKS DEFER ACTION FIXING DEPOSIT RATE

Clearing House Association Condemns Drive for Funds at Higher Interest.

SITUATION IS UNCHANGED

Governor Harding of Reserve Board Tells Members Advance Would Injure Nation's Financing.

The New York Clearing House Association held a special meeting yesterday afternoon to act upon the proposed amendment to its by-laws, previously approved by the Clearing House Committee, which provides for a limitation of interest rates paid on demand deposits. Consideration of the amendment, however, was deferred until a subsequent meeting, subject to the call of the committee, and instead the members unanimously adopted a resolution declaring "any general campaign" for deposits at increasing and competitive rates of interest as "improper" at this time.

The meeting was attended by representatives of all of the fifty-eight banks and trust companies. Postponement of action on the proposed amendment to the by-laws was suggested by Walter E. Frew, President of the Corn Exchange Bank, and Chairman of the Clearing House Committee, and there was not a single dissenting vote. The President of the association, Gates W. McGarrah, who is also President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, who presided, then introduced W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, who had come to the city especially to present his views on the subject of interest rates to the New York bankers. Mr. Harding, who spoke for about an hour, deprecated the movement for increased interest rates, and pointed out that if the New York City institutions raised their rates the banks in the interior would be forced to do likewise, and in the end there would be a general increase all around, with the result that the Government's financing operations would be interfered with.

Rates Affect Whole Country.

Governor Harding, according to the bankers who attended the meeting, said that he did not care to mix in the local affairs of New York City bankers, and that he had only determined to speak to them because he realized that the question of interest rates affected the banking conditions of the whole country. It was from the national rather than the local viewpoint from which he addressed himself.

Mr. Harding suggested that the banks might divide their deposit accounts into two classes, the first consisting of out-of-town bank balances, and the second of local savings bank and general corporate or mercantile accounts, and fix rates for cash. As Governor of the Reserve Board, he said, he was concerned only with interest rates paid on out-of-town bank balances. In the public statement issued by Governor Harding about two weeks ago he did not specify whether his criticism of advances in interest rates applied to all deposits or to deposits of banking correspondents, but it now appears that he had out-of-town bank balances in mind.

Governor Harding told the bankers that he proposed making appeals to all clearing house associations throughout the country in an effort to curb the movement of banks paying unreasonably high rates of interest on deposits.

Following Mr. Harding's address, William Woodward, President of the Hanover National Bank, introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

> Resolved, That this association wishes to record that any general campaign for deposits at increasing and competitive rates of interest, inasmuch as such action is disturbing throughout the nation, and does not add to the collective strength of banking resources, is, at this time, improper, and should not be undertaken by any institution.

Situation Is Little Changed.

With the Clearing House Association deferring action on the proposed amendment to its constitution, which if passed, would have fixed the maximum rate which members might pay on demand deposits to 2 per cent. under the prevailing Reserve Bank's discount rate for ninety-day commercial paper, and in no case higher than 3 per cent., and with the adoption of the foregoing resolution, the banks and trust companies are virtually in the same position that they were before the Clearing House undertook to regulate interest rates. In other words, every bank may pay whatever rates it pleases. The resolution merely records the general views of the association in respect to the practice of enticing new accounts by offers of higher interest rates, but will not be effective in bringing about any material change in the general situation, for banks which recently decided to pay 2½ per cent., instead of the old-established 2 per cent. rate, will no doubt continue paying 2½ per cent., and trust companies which have been paying still higher rates on savings bank and other accounts will not alter their policy.

If the proposed amendment to the by-laws had been adopted, a bank which violated its provisions would have been liable to a fine of $10,000, and to expulsion for a second offense.

Many bankers believe that the postponement of action on the amendment means that it will not be brought up for consideration again, while others believe that the Clearing House Committee will endeavor to modify the text to meet the criticisms made by the trust companies and others, and then resubmit it to the vote of the membership.

There is a feeling in certain banking quarters that the discussion of interest rates has caused much trouble, and that the situation has become worse, rather than better, as a result of the Clearing House Association's desire to co-operate with Governor Harding of the Reserve Board in an effort to curb advancing interest rates. It has been pointed out that many depositors who had previously never received interest are now demanding its payment under threat of withdrawing their accounts to other banks, and out-of-town institutions, finding that New York bankers are in disagreement as to interest rates, are making a canvass of the banks with the view of lodging their accounts where they can obtain the highest rate.

THE COTTON MARKET

Trading Turns Firmer After Shaky Opening—Net Gain 25 to 38 Points.

The local cotton market, after a rather shaky opening, turned firmer yesterday afternoon and finally closed with a net advance of from 25 to 38 points over Saturday's last prices. It was a rather narrow market all day, but the general tone was much stronger than toward the end of last week owing to the absorption of floating contracts and the continued firmness of Southern spot markets.

The opening was up from 2 to 13 points, following Liverpool, but there was comparatively little demand from any quarter, and scattering liquidation, continued from last week, sufficed to send prices down. There was not, however, any such aggressive selling for a reaction as marked the close of last week. Unofficial ginning figures continued to put the crop total at upward of a million bales higher than the Government estimate last Fall, but these were discounted by reports that the quality represented was very poor and that white cotton of any grade was increasingly scarce.

There were no other new features in the market, and a fairly steady, though not voluminous, amount of trade buying at the lower levels gradually made itself felt. When covering on the reaction started, the narrowness of the market was the chief factor in sending prices back up the hill quite rapidly. Quotations, having fallen from 3 to 5 points below Saturday, climbed back to over 30 points above that level, and the close was only a small margin off from the best of the day.

Private returns are said to show domestic mill takings in February of 529,000 bags, against 547,000 a year ago—all things considered a higher total than was expected. No exports were reported yesterday. Southern spot markets were unchanged to 25 points higher.

Indian Refining Earns $2,828,395.

The report of the Indian Refining Company for the calendar year 1917 shows a net income of $2,878,395 for the year, of which $1,200,000 was set aside as a reserve to meet war taxes. In 1916 the net income was $2,771,774, which covered a deficit of $2,686,322 existing at the outset of that year, leaving a surplus of $85,451. A total of $1,402,500 was paid out in dividends in 1917, of which $1,102,500 represented unpaid back dividends on the preferred stock. The earnings on the common stock for the year, after deducting reserve for taxes and paying off back dividends on the preferred, amounted to $12.19 a share. A surplus of $361,347 was carried over.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The movement of wheat at interior points was again very light, and the visible supply of domestic and foreign wheat in the United States showed a decrease for the week of 790,000 bushels, bringing the total to 8,949,000, compared with 56,240,000 last year. Crop advices from the West continue to show improvement. Advices from Kansas were particularly encouraging, it being stated that in that State the recent rains have resulted in wheat germinating which had been considered lost. The fields are greening up over a large part of the soft Winter wheat belt, and it is the general impression that the crop has passed through the Winter under unusually favorable conditions, and that therefore the promise at the present time is for a large yield.

RYE.—The local market was dull and nominal, and, while prices in the West were firm, quotations remained about unchanged from Saturday, No. 2 rye in Chicago being quoted at $2.90.

CORN.

The big movement of corn at Western points last week has resulted in a somewhat easier cash market. Cash prices in the West yesterday were from 5 to 15 cents lower and the demand was distinctly less active. This was not believed to indicate that the demand has been filled, but buyers were not disposed to make further extensive contracts until they have received some of the corn already purchased. Railroad embargoes against shipment to the East were still in force, and receivers here say that it is a difficult and long procedure to secure all the official permits necessary for shipment and to have them properly executed. The visible supply showed an increase for the week of 2,319,000 bushels, bringing the total to 11,268,000, compared with 12,677,000 last year. In the local cash market kilndried No. 2 yellow, $2.21½; No. 3 yellow, $2.01½; No. 3 white, $2.26½; cost and freight New York; Argentine, $2.50, free on board cars.

OATS.

The oats market was in much the same position as corn, and the fact that buyers were inclined to limit their purchases until some of their many present contracts had been filled gave the market an easier tone, and the final prices were ¼ to ½c net lower. Cash premiums in the West were firm, however, and it was said that exporters had bid as high as 11c over Chicago May. The visible supply gained 1,252,000 bushels for the week, bringing the total to 15,199,000, compared with 35,994,000 last year. The local cash market was firm; natural quoted at $1.08 to $1.09; clipped white, $1.09 to $1.12, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

Trading operations in the provision market were extremely small during yesterday's session and prices were lower. Sentiment was influenced by lower prices of hogs at Chicago and further complaints of a poor cash demand. The weight of hogs is materially over last year and reflects heavy feeding on the farm. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 60,000; estimated for Tuesday, 40,000; Kansas City received 14,000 and Omaha 14,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was neglected and in absence of business prices were entirely nominal. The undertone was a trifle steadier, however, owing to an absence of selling pressure, and final bids were 10 to 20 points net higher. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The market for coffee futures was quiet again yesterday, but prices ruled easier under scattering liquidation, with prices opening at a decline of 2@6 points and closing 6@11 points net lower. The local spot market was quiet but steady on the basis of 8⅞c for Rio 7s and 10⅞c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

Much of the Cuban crop is being brought here by sailing vessels, which takes from two to three weeks, making the time of arrival very uncertain and interferes with refiners, as their stocks are not large. The domestic demand continues much larger than the supply, and the trade is getting only very limited deliveries of refined sugar. The International Committee is purchasing raw sugar as fast as freight room becomes available, but the arrivals at United States ports are below expectations, and stocks show no signs of accumulation. The International Committee reported purchases of 40,000 bags Cubas, March shipment to New Orleans, at 4.925c, cost and freight, and 32,000 bags Porto Ricos, prompt shipment to New York, at 6.005c, cost, insurance, and freight.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 6,364 packages. Trade is still moving along very slowly and the market has an easy tone. Some of the business is at about late prices, and in some instances receivers are making slight concessions rather than lose an opportunity of moving the goods. The weakness is more pronounced in the undergrades than on the finer qualities. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 47½@48c; extras, (92 score,) 46½@47c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 45¼@46¼c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 43½@45c; thirds, 42½@43c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 48½@49c; extras, 47½@48c; firsts, 46@47c; seconds, 44@45½c; creamery, held, as to quality, 43½@46½c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 46½@47c; good to prime, 45@46c; common to fair, 40@44½c; renovated, extras, 44@44½c; firsts, 43@43½c; lower grades, 38@42c; imitation creamery, firsts, 41@41½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 36½@37½c; seconds, 35@35½c; lower grades, 33½@34½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 35c; No. 2, 34c; lower grades, 31@33c.

EGGS.—29,939 cases. The market strengthened Saturday afternoon under more active trading and a better clearance of stock free to be sold, sales being made from the decline up to 37c. Yesterday's opening sales were at 36@36½c, but later 37@37½c were the prevailing prices with free bids and a firm close, with some very fine Northern goods probably passable as extra firsts, reaching 38c. Nearby white eggs share in the improvement and are meeting a good demand, and California goods are also doing better. Advices indicate free supplies in transit, and prices here today are above a parity with leading Western markets. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 39c; extra firsts, 38@38½c; firsts, 37@37½c; seconds, 36@36½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, ordinary to fine, 44@45c; ordinary to good, 42@43c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 41½@44c; Pacific Coast whites, No. 1, 42@43c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 39@40c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 37@38½c.

STUDEBAKER PROFITS DECLINE 60% IN YEAR

President Erskine Says Heavy Loss Is Due to Disturbed Conditions Caused by War.

The report of the Studebaker Corporation and its subsidiary companies for the calendar year 1917 shows total sales of $50,147,516, against $61,988,594 for 1916—a decrease of $11,841,078 in the year, while net profits declined from $8,611,245 to $3,500,741, a loss of $5,110,504, or close to 60 per cent. in a single year. The net earnings for 1917 represent 9.11 per cent. on the common stock as compared with 26.1 per cent. for 1916. In August, 1917, the Directors cut the dividend on the Studebaker stock from 10 to 4 per cent.

The heavy loss both in gross business and profits, says President Erskine in his report, "occurred in the automobile division of the business, after our country entered the war, and largely because of the disturbed conditions that afterward existed. In the first quarter we sold 16,083 cars, against 15,580 in the same period of the preceding year, but in the remaining nine months we sold only 26,274 cars, against 50,305 cars in the same period of 1916. Our net profits suffered greater shrinkage proportionately than sales, because of the curtailment in production we were required to make in May, and increases in costs of raw materials, wages, and selling expenses."

On the other hand, partly owing to heavy Government orders, Mr. Erskine reports, Studebaker made and shipped more vehicles in 1917 than in 1916, receiving orders for 73,000, compared with 56,000 in 1916, and shipping 56,000, against 46,000 in 1916.

"Having telegraphed the President on Feb. 6," says Mr. Erskine, "that our plants were at the disposal of the Government, we commenced, early in April, to receive Government orders for large quantities of articles of character suited to our equipment and in line with our manufacturing experience, and as these orders required immediate attention and prompt shipment, it became necessary to reduce our manufacturing schedules of automobiles and vehicles and rearrange our plants on a war basis."

The cost of financing operations in wartime proved much higher, the report reveals, and to carry their heavy surplus inventory investments the company had to obtain bank loans which at one time totaled $13,231,500, an increase of about $7,000,000 over the average for the previous year. Before the end of the year, however, this figure was reduced to $7,400,000. At present the company's Chicago plant is leased outright to the Government, and a great deal of Government work is under way at the others.

What Makes Big Business Men

Men who grow constantly in ability and become really great are those who never lose the habit of close inquiry. Such men will give prompt consideration to credit insurance and its vital significance at this particular time. They will be interested in the American Credit Unlimited Policy, which not only insures against abnormal failure losses, but promotes the means to prevent those losses—and provides for the collection of covered accounts not over 45 days past due.

Big men protect what they have. Big men take precautions that insure the maintenance of what they have made. Here is proof: During 1917 the American's new business with Millionaire Houses increased 180% in number and 279% in premiums.

If you are a Manufacturer or Jobber, why not get the complete particulars of our service.

SINCLAIR GULF CORPORATION.
First Lien Ten-Year Convertible Six Per Cent. Gold Bonds due March 1, 1927.

Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee under the Mortgage dated March 1, 1917, under which the above-mentioned bonds were issued, hereby gives notice that the amount now on hand in the Sinking Fund provided pursuant to Article Three of such Mortgage is $1,174,507.74, and invites offers to be made to it, as Trustee, for the sale of such bonds on April 1, 1918. Such offers must be sealed, be addressed to the Trustee, and be received by the Trustee, at its Trust Department, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City, by 12 o'clock noon on March 25, 1918. From the bonds so offered the Trustee will purchase on April 1, 1918, for such Sinking Fund an amount sufficient to exhaust as far as may be the funds then in the Sinking Fund at the lowest price or prices so offered, but at prices not to exceed 110 per cent. of the face amount thereof, with interest accrued to April 1, 1918. Prior to such last date the Trustee will give notice to those whose offers may be accepted so that delivery of bonds purchased may be made to the Trustee on April 1, 1918. All offers should indicate the address where such notice may be sent. The Trustee reserves the right to reject all or any part of the bonds so offered.

Proper Federal Income Tax ownership certificates covering the amount of accrued interest must accompany the accepted bonds when delivered to the Trustee.

CITIES SERVICE PLANS $5,000,000 BOND ISSUE

Proceeds to Be Used Largely for Extension of Operations in Oil Fields in Kansas.

Directors of the Cities Service Company are considering the issue of between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000 convertible 7 per cent. debenture bonds, the proceeds to be used in chief part for the extension of operations in the organization's oil fields in Kansas. The board was scheduled to hold a meeting in respect to the issue yesterday, but a quorum was not present, and a decision on details was not reached. The offering will be made to stockholders for subscription on terms to make the conversion of bonds into stock a profitable transaction later.

The company has outstanding about $58,000 convertible bonds of a $5,000,000 issue dated Jan. 1, 1916. This issue was convertible on the basis of $100 bonds for one share of preferred stock and one-quarter of a share of common. It was reported yesterday that the new issue, if offered in the form now under discussion, would be made convertible on the basis of 80 per cent. of 6 per cent. preferred and 20 per cent. of common stock, par values being considered.

The Cities Service Company became a big producer of petroleum last year, largely through the holdings of the Empire Oil and Gas Company, a subsidiary operating in the new Kansas fields. From a production of about 4,000 barrels daily at the beginning of 1916, the output was raised to more than 30,000 barrels a day by Dec. 31, 1917. The refineries have facilities for handling considerably more than 30,000 barrels daily. The Western refineries are connected with the fields by 180 miles of pipe lines, with approximately as many miles more under construction. The total oil storage capacity of the subsidiary concerns is in excess of 3,200,000 barrels of petroleum.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Reading continued prominent in the dealings on the Consolidated Exchange and the market generally followed its lead. The railroad list as a whole displayed strength, and for the greater part of the day was dealt in to the largest extent. The copper stocks were notably firm, particularly in the earlier dealings.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Guaranty Trust Company Buys Liberty Street Building to Assure Occupancy.

In order to assure permanent occupancy of the large quarters now occupied in the new fifteen-story office building at 60 to 64 Liberty Street, the Guaranty Trust Company has acquired title to the property from the Sixty Liberty Street Corporation, representing William H. Barnum and William Everdell, Jr.

This structure has been connected with the corner building fronting on Broadway, occupied by the Guaranty Trust Company. About 80 per cent. of its floor area is now used by the purchasing company to meet increased banking needs. It abuts the New York Clearing House, having as neighboring properties, in the same block, the tall Postal Life, Bank of Commerce, and American Exchange National Bank Building.

Front Street Resale.

Resale of a Front Street business building in a cash transaction reflected the steady interest which is being shown in properties in the lower Wall Street section.

Harry K. Gregg has resold the six-story office building at 132 and 134 Front Street, on a plot 40.10 by 85, at the southwest corner of Pine Street, which he bought last month from Thomas T. Grace.

Arthur H. Lamborn, President of a sugar company at 98 Wall Street, is the buyer of the property, which was formerly the home of the Tea Auction Room. George R. Read & Co. negotiated the transaction.

Sale on Fifty-eighth Street.

William J. Sloane sold to the Three States Realty Company, representing Frank J. Gould, the dwelling at 222 West Fifty-eighth Street, on a lot 20 by 100.5. The adjoining parcel at 224 was acquired weeks ago from Raphael M. Reay by the same buyer, who now controls a plot with a frontage of 80 feet at this point.

A $200,000 Dyckman Long Island Trade.

The K. N. R. Corporation purchased from the Nason Realty Company, Max N. Natanson, 160, 162, and 164 Sherman Avenue, two modern five-story walk-up tenements, each on a plot 50 by 100. In addition to cash the buyers gave property at Lynbrook, L. I., held at $50,000 free and clear. The Sherman Avenue houses were held at $160,000, and were acquired by the seller from Lorin A. Scott last September. Samuel Rosen negotiated the sale.

Operator Buys West Side Flat.

James H. Cruikshank, operator, purchased from Julia C. S. Grant of Tarrytown, N. Y., the five-story double flat at 312 West 133d Street, between St. Nicholas Avenue and Eighth Avenue, on a lot 25 by 100. Porter & Co. were the brokers.

Bank Sells Loft Building.

The Brooklyn Savings Bank sold to the 29 West Seventeenth Street Company, with a Directorate of Percy A. Shedlock, Harry Miller, and Louise Bonar, the ten-story loft building at 29 West Seventeenth Street, on a lot 25 by 92, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. This property was taken over by the bank at foreclosure in October, 1915.

Daughters of Israel Buy Home.

Joseph Wollman sold to the Daughters of Israel 220 East Fifth Street, a three-story building, which the society has occupied as a day nursery for several years. The building occupies a lot 21.2 by 92.4, located between Second Avenue and the Bowery.

Tenement Deals.

Elizabeth G. Buch purchased for investment from Edith Zaman 346 East Ninety-second Street, a five-story tenement with store, on a lot 25 by 100.8.

The Lincoln Trust Company sold to S. Puglise the four-story building, 1,028 First Avenue, with store, on a lot 20 by 80. David Lion and S. Soraci negotiated the sale.

Brooklyn.

M. McKinnon, Jr., sold the three-story brick dwelling, 8,516 Fifth Avenue, for J. Bahrenberg to a client for investment, also the one family cottage, 428 Ninety-ninth Street, to a client for occupancy.

Queens Borough Sales.

The Academy Realty Corporation sold to J. Schenfield the property 50 by 100 feet on the southeast side of Academy Street, 400 feet southwest of Hopkins Avenue, Long Island City.

H. B. Jennings sold to R. Fah the property 40 by 100 feet on the east side of Stoothoff Avenue, 260 feet east of Arthur Avenue, Richmond Hill.

J. S. Armbuster sold to L. Bindrim the dwelling and plot, 50 by 100 feet on the west side of Seventh Avenue, 50 feet north of Sixth Street, Whitestone.

Westchester County.

Griffen, Prince & Ripley sold for the Realty and eRalization Company a residence at Shore Acres, Mamaroneck, N. Y., to the Misses Anne Towle and Mary Stewart Towle of Mamaroneck. The property was held at $17,000.

Commercial Lease.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd leased the five-story building at 130 Front Street to Louis Somma, coffee merchant, at an increased rental of 25 per cent. James J. Kane & Son are the buyers of this property, recently sold by the same brokers.

Recent Buyer.

Realty Notes.

The regular monthly meeting of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers will be held at the board rooms, 189 Montague Street this afternoon at 2:30.

The Metropolitan League of Savings and Loan Associations will hold its annual meeting on Friday, March 22, at 321 Court Street, Brooklyn. Officers and three trustees are to be elected.

The Charles F. Noyes Company was the broker in the sale of 295½ Pearl Street for James J. Moore to Dr. O'Sullivan.

ARMY MAIL CONGESTION ABROAD STILL SERIOUS

Military Authorities Taking Steps to End Delays, Due to Mass of Matter.

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Feb. 16.—The handling of the tons of mail sent from America to this country for the army is a stupendous task. Three experts of the United States Postal Service have arrived to endeavor to end the congestion which exists at the present time. They have come too late, however, as the military authorities have decided to take the mail away from the Postal Service and handle it themselves.

The Post Offices at the landing ports are choked with American mail and, in addition, warehouses have been taken to store the sacks of letters, newspapers, magazines, and parcels in. This matter is highly inflammable and a source of danger. Recently a pier where several tons of magazines were stored caught fire and was partly destroyed.

Some army officers think a halt should be called in America for at least six months on sending magazines to the soldiers. This would enable the officials to clean up the congestion at the ports.

Some steamships arrive with magazines heaped in their holds as thrown in by longshoremen, with oil drums and machinery stowed on top of them. By the time the vessel reaches France these periodicals are practically unreadable. Here they are loaded on trucks and sent to the Young Men's Christian Association depots. One chauffeur at headquarters received a mail sack of magazines weighing 100 pounds.

Some letters for officers and men have lain two to four weeks in one of the French Post Offices before they were sent out for distribution. Mail bags have remained unopened three weeks at general headquarters which contained letters addressed to officers who were waiting anxiously for news from home.

Many of the soldiers, however, are not pining for things to read, as they have books, magazines, and newspapers at the Young Men's Christian Association huts, and have only candles to read by. This gives them only a limited time during the Winter nights, and they prefer to spend it in writing letters home. Some of the men write as many as thirty letters a week to relatives and friends.

Hundreds of packages arriving at the camps have been rifled. Railroad cars have been opened and packages containing cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, and food robbed of their contents. One thief was shot by a sentry while forcing open one of the cars at night.

Firemen's Strike Closes Cotton Mills

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 11.—Five thousand cotton mill operatives in this city were idle today, according to figures compiled at noon by the police, because of a strike of 324 union firemen, whose demands for shorter hours and a closed shop were rejected last week by the Manufacturers' Association. Four of the seven mills of the American Printing Company and the plants of the American Linen Company and the American Thread Company were closed, although other factories operated with the aid of volunteer firemen.

I am authorized to offer this magnificent property to any desirable purchaser at a total price of less than the house alone could be built for today and on practically your own terms. It is wonderfully situated, overlooking a magnificent inland lake 500 ft. above sea level, with beautifully planted grounds of several acres; fine old trees, shrubs and flowers in profusion. The charm of its land and water views is unparalleled near New York. In a picturesque part of the famous Montclair-Morristown section, possessing ideal commuting facilities to New York city. There are 21 spacious rooms, 6 finely appointed tiled baths, 5 open fireplaces, every modern convenience and present day luxury you can imagine, and all planned and executed in splendid taste. This house is nearly new and handsomely finished throughout, ready for immediate occupancy, and is in an ideal location for access to all outdoor sports, including golf and boating, and several exclusive clubs near by. An inquiry by 'phone or letter will bring prompt and full information. GEORGE R. PEARE, 640 Riverside Drive, N. Y. C. Tel. 6634—Audubon.

Wills for Probate.

CRANE, LYDIA H. Hampton Normal and Agricultural College at Hampton, Va., receives a bequest of $5,000, while other bequests amounting to more than $50,000 are made by decedent. Helen Wilbur Crane of Madison, N. J., receives a life interest in a fund of $40,000 and Arthur Dix Temple of Mexico receives a life interest in $9,000, the principal to revert to his daughter Dolores. The residuary estate is divided into four parts, one each going to Harriet C. Coggeshall of East Orange, N. J.; Howard L. Beach of Washington, D. C.; Louise H. Marvin of Jamaica, L. I., and Henry W. Crane of Bloomfield, N. J.

PENTLARGE, FRANK, 375 West End Avenue, (Feb. 24.) Two Hebrew charities in Brooklyn receive $1,500 each. They are the Jewish Hospital and Hebrew Orphan Asylum. He makes his wife residuary legatee. He gives to his daughter, Alice Kleeman, of 150 West Eightieth Street, $25,000; to another sister, Julie P. Kuffler, of Brooklyn, the use of a house and lot at 111 Taylor Street for life and the income of $5,000; three legacies of $1,000 each are given to other relatives. The daughter has the income of one-half the balance of his estate. The widow has the income from the other half and the widow is then made the residuary legatee.

ROCKHILL, CLAYTON, 2,170 Broadway, (March 1, 1918.) Two of his heirs got family Bibles and relics, the Bibles bearing dates of 1607 and 1791. His estate is estimated at nearly $75,000. To his younger son, Jerome Burton Rockhill, is left the old Rockhill Bible, printed in the old text in 1601, and a number of other heirlooms of the Rockhill family. He is made a residuary legatee with his brother, the elder son, Clayton Robeson Rockhill, who receives the old Mary Robeson Bible, printed in 1791. The will states that as his mother, Evangeline Rockhill, had given considerable property to him it was unnecessary for the father to give a large bequest to the elder son. The widow receives a life interest in a trust fund of $20,000 and a life tenancy in the family home, with all the household effects. A daughter, Eleanor Rockhill, receives a bequest of $30,000, and also is made a remainder legatee. Charity is remembered to the amount of $500 for the Shelter for Respectable Girls on East Forty-sixth Street.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Pressure is generally low from the upper Mississippi Valley westward, and there has been a decided fall throughout the Central Valleys, the lake region, and the Southwest, with principal centres of disturbance over Minnesota and Western Kansas. In the Atlantic and East Gulf States pressure is high but falling.

The weather was generally fair except in the Pacific States and the extreme Northwest, where there were rains and light, scattered snows. It is much warmer over the great basin of the country and somewhat warmer in the Atlantic Staees. West of the Rocky Mountains temperature changed but little.

Fair weather will prevail Tuesday and Wednesday in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, while in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee it will be cloudy Tuesday, with rain in the upper lake region and Tuesday night in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee, followed by generally fair weather Wednesday.

It will be warmer Tuesday over these districts except the upper lake region, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee, and on Wednesday in the lower lake region, New England, and the Middle Atlantic States.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate to fresh south and southwest, shifting to west and northwest Wednesday night; fair, followed by rain by Wednesday; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate to fresh southwest, shifting to northwest by Wednesday night, fair; South Atlantic Coast, moderate south except east off the Florida Coast, fair.

FORECAST TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair, warmer Tuesday; local rains at night or Wednesday, except fair in the extreme south portion; somewhat colder Wednesday.

New Jersey—Fair, warmer Tuesday. Wednesday fair; somewhat colder.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair, warmer Tuesday. Wednesday partly cloudy and somewhat colder.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

57 FOOD OFFENDERS ARE TIED UP TODAY

Investigators Will See That Restaurant and Lunch Men Obey Orders.

WARNING TO ALL OTHERS

No Beef and No Pork May Be Served on Tuesdays Under Penalty of More Drastic Punishment.

Plans for expediting the shipment of much needed cereals abroad were discussed by United States Food Administrator Herbert Hoover, at a conference with the members of the Milling Division, at 74 Broadway, yesterday.

Mr. Hoover declined to make any statement and left for Washington with several members of his department at 3:30 P. M. Before leaving, however, he had a brief interview with Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams and State Food Commissioner John Mitchell, in which he expressed his approval of the steps taken by the local food board to close down for one day all restaurant and hotel proprietors who showed any reluctance to conform with the meatless and wheatless regulations of the United States Food Administration.

The suspension of fifty-seven proprietors as the result of violations went into effect last midnight, and will remain in effect until midnight tonight. In order that there may be no evasion of the order to suspend, the members of the investigating bureau of the Federal Food Board will make the rounds of the establishments at least three times today. The board issued the following notice to the proprietors in question:

"Proprietors of the fifty-seven lunch and dining rooms found guilty last Saturday of violating the food regulations are hereby informed that the decision of the board in their cases has been approved by the United States Food Administrator and will go into effect this midnight. Any violation of the decision will cause the offenders to be resummoned before the board to show cause why their supplies should not be permanently cut off. The board takes this opportunity of informing every establishment serving food to the public, whether hotel or restaurant or places known as 'beef and —,' that the food regulations were made to be observed and that every offender may expect even more drastic punishment than has been given to the fifty-seven offenders in this instance. The board will exercise its authority to the limit.

"Owners of lunchrooms have no excuse for not serving their customers proper substitutes on beefless and porkless days. Those of them who may not know of the changes are hereby informed that they are permitted to serve mutton and lamb on beefless and porkless Tuesdays. The hotel trade should also keep these substitutes in mind when making up their bills of fare for Tuesday.

"This board takes this occasion also to remind all retail dealers throughout the city and State that the fifty-fifty rule must be strictly and uniformly observed. They are required to sell an equal amount of wheat substitutes, including potatoes, with every sale of flour. Any violation of the fifty-fifty rule will cause the summoning of the offender before the board to give a reason why his supply should not be cut off, or, in case of a license, why his license should not be instantly revoked."

One hundred east side bakers were before the board yesterday charged with failing to use the designated proportion of substitutes with wheat flour in their bread. It was recognized by the board that there has been difficulty in procuring sufficient desirable substitute material, and the defendants were all let off with a warning. Cyrus C. Miller, Director of the Bureau of Transportation and Distribution, and Floyd W. Fiske, Assistant Director, informed them that plenty of substitute flour was coming into the city now and that no excuse would avail in the future if they failed to observe regulations.

The Federal Milk Commission held a conference yesterday over the notice received from the condensed milk interests that the latter would not agree to be bound by the price-fixing regulations of the commission after April 1. The condensers declare the absence of bottoms with which to ship their products abroad will make it impossible for them to produce up to a 100 per cent. capacity. With their business reduced and with an oversupply of goods on their hands they maintain they will be unable to pay the milk prices now allowed to the producers. A similar position has been taken recently by the condensers of Chicago.

Distributers who are accustomed to manufacture butter out of their surplus milk have also indicated an intention to withdraw from the agreement after April 1, because of the high price allowed to the producer for his milk. They insist that the price of milk makes it impossible for them to compete in butter making with the regular manufacturer of butters.

FAVORS CITY CONTROL OF ICE.

Dealer Says Company Can't Sell Product at $3 a Ton.

Solomon M. Schatzkin, Vice President of Burns Brothers Ice Company, told the special committee of the Welfare Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday that the best solution of the entire ice question would be for the city to take control of the ice business just as the Federal Government had taken over the railroads. He said, in his opinion, his company could not sell ice to wholesale dealers at $3 a ton. The committee is conducting an inquiry to determine the amount of ice available for use in the city this Summer.

Mr. Schatzkin declared that the firm had lost $45,000 on natural ice this Winter. After his assertion that he could not sell at $3 a ton, Mr. Schatzkin was asked whether the firm would keep its agreement to sell at wholesale this Summer at $3 a ton. He replied that he was certain that no such agreement had been made, and he pointed out that it cost $3.70 to put the ice alongside the piers in New York. The price of $3 a ton had been suggested by the Ice Controller. Centralization of distribution would be a good thing, he said, and he thought one company should do all this under proper regulation, even if the city were to take over the plants, equipment and service of the companies.

As he was leaving the stand, John H. Elder, a member of the Ice Conservation Committee and a manufacturer of artificial ice, asked Mr. Schatzkin if his company would keep the contract made by its general manager to sell ice to manufacturers at $3 a ton.

"No, it would not," Mr. Schatzkin replied.

Chairman Collins reminded Mr. Elder that the witness had testified that no such contract had been made.

William H. Dohrmann of the Atlantic Hygeia Ice Company of Brooklyn asked to be heard. He said that at a meeting of ice men with Food Administrator Hoover an agreement had been reached that natural ice producers would sell all surplus ice to artificial ice manufacturers at $3 a ton. This, Mr. Dohrmann said, was a patriotic movement. It meant, he said, that the artificial ice manufacturers agreed to limit the operations of their plants to conserve ammonia and man power. To offset their losses the natural ice dealers had agreed to sell ice at $3 a ton so that the ice manufacturers might resell at a fair profit. He added that many of the plants had been closed on that understanding.

John W. Scott, General Manager of Burns Brothers Ice Company, said that his concern would handle 1,000,000 tons of natural ice this year, or 100 per cent. more than the usual supply. He declared the cost of harvesting ice was 40 to 50 cents a ton and the cost to bring it to local distributing points about $1.25. The shrinkage, he added, would run as high as 30 per cent.

The company which Mr. Elder represents manufactures about 40,000 tons of ice a year, but, he told the committee, he did not know if it would be possible to obtain the ammonia needed to run his plant. He said he could operate with his present supply up to July.

Wesley M. Oler, President of the Knickerbocker Ice Company, testified that his company had decreased the use of ammonia in deference to the wishes of the Food and Fuel Administrations. He declared ice dealers operate at a loss seven months in a year and must make it up in the five warm months.

The committee will continue its hearings tomorrow afternoon.

CHINESE BANDITS HOLD 2 AMERICANS

SOLDIERS FIGHT ROBBERS

Washington Asks Chinese Government to Take Steps for Release of the Captives.

PEKING, March 8, (Delayed.)—Two American engineers, Nyl and Pursell, have been robbed and captured by bandits near Yehsien, in the Province of Honan. A Chinese assistant also was taken prisoner.

The party was on its way to inspect and survey the site of a proposed railway between Chowkaikow and Siangyangfu. They were carrying a large sum of money with which to pay survey parties. An escort of twenty soldiers resisted the bandits until their ammunition was exhausted, when the party surrendered. Two of the Chinese escaped and reported the outrage.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Chinese Government was asked by the State Department today to do what it could to effect the release of the two American engineers reported captured near Yeh-Sien by bandits and to punish their assailants. This was the first time in many years that Americans have been molested in the interior of China, although Chinese rebels recently fired upon the American gunboat Monocacy.

Pursell, one of the two American engineers reported captured by bandits in China, was identified as E. J. Pursell, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., at the offices of the Siems-Carey Railway and Canal Company here yesterday. He has been engaged in some surveying work for which the company has contracts with the Chinese Government, it was said.

Though officers of the company said there was no one in their employ named Nyl, they expressed the belief that this name had been confused with that of G. A. Kyle, formerly of Portland, Ore., who has been in China for several months.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 11.—George A. Kyle, believed to be one of the American engineers captured by Chinese bandits, formerly was chief engineer for construction of the Oregon Trunk Line. He left for China several years ago to become chief engineer of the Imperial Chin Chow Railroad and also to engage in construction for the Siems-Carey Company in China.

CIGARS UNITED

"An amusing incident," laughed the Clubman.
"I was speeding my race-about down to Meadowbrook. A policeman stopped me and asked for a lift—I was alone, wearing cap and duster, so I guess he thought I was a chauffeur.
"'Thanks, son, have a cigar,' he said.
"I lighted it, to please him—but found it pleased me more. It was a quality smoke.
"'What's the brand, Officer?'
"'Ricoro—price 8c.'
"That bit of news surprised me more than when he asked me for the lift instead of handing me a summons."

Sooner or later you'll discover—

Ricoro
the "Self-Made" Cigar

Corona size, 8c
Box of 50—$4.00
Imported from Porto Rico

Ricoro is imported from Porto Rico duty-free. If it paid duty, a 6c size would cost about 15c—but the cigar wouldn't be any better.—You can't smoke duty. A dozen sizes and shapes—6c to 2-for-25c.

Sold only in United Cigar Stores.—"Thank you."
